DRUGGAN VISITS 2 COURTS; GETS BOND APPROVED

Seize 3 in Drive on Gun Sellers.

Terrence [Terry] Druggan, public enemy and chief dispenser of beer in the community, occupied the center of the stage yesterday in Judge John H. Lyle's Felony court and for a brief appearance before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson. He had only one unpleasant experience during his stay in the hands of the law enforcing authorities and that was when Judge Lyle ordered him back to the bureau of identification room for measurement and photographs, just the same as the commonest thief brought into court.

Tony [Mops] Volpe, another listed public enemy, shared the limelight with Druggan yesterday. He, however, was put to much more trouble than Druggan because he had to withstand the ordeal of a cross-examination by an immigration inspector and was not able to furnish bond until midnight.

Seize Three in New Drive.

While the authorities were engaged with Druggan and Volpe in court a new drive against gangsters and hoodlums was started by Assistant State's Attorneys Charles Mueller and Charles Lounsbury. They caused the arrest of three men for not keeping proper records of firearms sold within the city.

Peter von Frantzius, 608 Diversey parkway, who has been mentioned several times in connection with the sale of firearms to hoodlums and gangsters, was among the three arrested. He was said by the police to have sold the weapons used in the North Clark street massacre and the Adonis Lingle case.

Two Other Gun Sellers.

Jacob Klein, 506 South Halsted street, and Harry Silver, 426 South Halsted street, were the others arrested by Sergts. Michael Ahern and James Regar. The warrants were issued by Judge Lyle under the statute providing that the seller of a firearm must keep an accurate record of the name, address, and occupation of the man to whom a revolver is sold and for what purpose the buyer wants it.

Under the law a violation of this statute is punishable by a fine of $300 or six months' imprisonment in the bridewell. The men arrested yesterday will be arraigned before Judge Lyle this morning.

"We intend to make a survey of every store handling firearms," said the prosecutors. "We hope in this manner to stop at least the promiscuous sale of firearms to gangsters and hoodlums."

Druggan Makes Appearance.

The elusive Druggan surprised the attaches of the state's attorney's bond department yesterday morning by asking in unannounced and asking that official sanction be given to a bond to be scheduled by his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Druggan, 4828 West Adams street.

Terry was hurried before Judge Lyle, who has been looking for him ever since he forfeited a $10,000 cash bond several months ago. At that time Druggan was supposed to be ill, and when Judge Lyle sent to the hotel room where Druggan was supposed to be confined it was found to be empty. The judge promptly added a contempt of court charge to that of jumping and the search for Terry was on, but without success until he walked in yesterday.

Mrs. Druggan, an elderly woman with gray hair and neatly attired in a dark expensive fur coat, walked slowly up to the bench and handed up her bond. Court attaches had never before seen Terry's mother in court, they said.

"I see the title was in the name of William Druggan prior to it being in your name," said the judge to Mrs. Druggan. "Is Willie Druggan a relative?"

Refers to Old Case.

"Yes, he is my other son," said Mrs. Druggan.

"Is he the man who was tried for beating an old man with a baseball bat?" queried the judge. Mrs. Druggan looked appealingly to Terry for an answer.

"Don't say, your honor, she doesn't know anything about that," said Terry.

It was finally admitted that Willie Druggan was the man the judge had in mind. The judge said he would take the bond under advisement and confer in the meantime to keep his engagement with the federal authorities for failure to pay up on his income tax. Druggan was taken to

BLAST RIPS UP WALL OF HUGE TRADE BUILDING

Rouses Residents of Streeterville.

The Furniture Mart, 666 Lake Shore drive, one of the largest office and display room buildings in the country, was rocked shortly before midnight by a terrific bomb explosion which wrecked the Huron street entrance and shattered scores of large plate glass windows on the north and east sides of the building. Damage of at least $10,000 was done.

Apartment hotels in the Streeterville district were shaken by the detonation and windows several blocks away were rattled. No one was injured, although more than a dozen night workers were in the mart at the time. A janitress on the second floor narrowly escaped injury, however, when a window caved in and showered jagged pieces of plate glass all around her.

Seek Motive in Vain.

No motive for the blast could be advanced by V. L. Alward, president of the Furniture Mart company, nor by Peter E. Kroehler, president of the Kroehler Furniture company, which occupies the north half of the first floor of the structure.

The bomb, apparently a dynamite time device, was planted in the entrance to the Kroehler company display rooms, slightly to the west of the Lake Shore drive front. The explosion tore masonry, splintered wood, and dug into the concrete stairs. Like a quake it sent tremors through the massive structure which shattered heavy windows as high as the sixth floor. It overturned several pieces of furniture in the Kroehler quarters and ruined a divan.

Wrecks Gothic Entrance.

A chunk of stone, two feet in diameter, was dug from the upright separating two revolving doors in the entrance, and an equally large section of concrete was chopped from the top stair. The Gothic entrance presented a jumbled mass of broken stone, concrete, wood, and glass as police and firemen arrived.

At the moment of the blast Policeman Bert Ellsworth of the Rogers Park station, assigned to duty at the Navy pier, and Frank Cella, a watchman, were driving north in Lake Shore drive. They were the first to reach the scene. Several Yellow Cab drivers were parked near by. One, Mason Gordon, 1240 South Turner avenue, described the bombing. It was terrific, he said, and the building seemed to rock.

Hurled to Floor by Blast.

In the Yellow Cab garage at 324 East Huron street Edward Dahl, 2120 Courtland street, was sitting at the switchboard. He was thrown to the floor by the blast.

Mr. Alward, asleep in his room on the fifteenth floor of the Lake Shore Athletic club, 850 Lake Shore drive, was awakened and hurried to the Mart. After an hour's examination of the damage he placed the loss at $10,000, principally to the windows, each of which costs $45. He could not determine, he said, whether the bomb was meant for the Mart or the Kroehler company. He was at a loss for a motive.

"I'm sure it cannot be labor trouble," he said. "The Mart employs only union help. It's all a mystery to me and I cannot even guess at a motive. I should think if they intended damaging us, though, they would have bombed the front entrance. The Mart holds 700 tenants and is used only for office and display."

Kroehler Knows No Reason.

Mr. Kroehler, reached at his Riverside home, also absolved labor as being responsible. His company, however, operates its fourteen factories largely on a nonunion basis, he said. The company handles radios in addition to furniture.

A dozen officials of the Mart hastened to the scene when apprised of the bombing. All were puzzled over the attack. Gordon Robinson, 3000 Sheridan road, general superintendent, declared himself certain labor was not involved. Not only has the Mart not dropped any employés but it has added workers beyond present needs, he said.

He questioned Frank Majewicz, 1923 West Division street, and E. M. Wolfenson, 8314 Indiana avenue, watchmen, and Frank L. Paynter, 1144 North Karlov avenue, in charge of the night workers. Majewicz was on the fifteenth floor, Wolfenson in the basement, and Paynter in the Lake Shore front offices at the time.

Lieut. Gene Barry and Sergt. Joseph Hoban of the Chicago avenue station assumed charge of the investigation.

KING OF DENMARK IS SERIOUSLY CUT IN AUTO SMASHUP

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 8.—(AP)—King Christian was seriously cut about the face today while returning, shortly after midnight, to Fredensborg from last night's opera in Copenhagen.

Shortly after leaving Copenhagen the royal automobile smashed into a small sedan driven by two women. The small car was crumbled. His majesty, bleeding badly from the face, stopped to see that neither of the women was badly injured and then hurried to his castle.

The king's injuries were received principally from broken glass, which badly lacerated his face, but he was not injured otherwise. King Christian made light of his injuries, and this afternoon granted an audience to Felipe Espil, the new Argentine envoy.

NOT A WIFE, SUIT AGAINST PAULINE FREDERICK SAYS

Los Angeles, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Pauline Frederick, stage and screen star, was made defendant in an annulment proceeding today by Hugh Chisholm Leighton, president of the Interstate Hotel company. Their wedding last April was Miss Frederick's fourth matrimonial venture. Leighton charged fraud, alleging Miss Frederick entered into the marriage with no intention of carrying out her obligations as a wife. He was a husband in name only, the complaint said.

Woman Slain with Salesman, Clews Indicate

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Beloit, Wis., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—With the discovery of handkerchief gags and woman's clothing on the banks of Turtle creek authorities today were working on a love angle and double murder theory to account for the disappearance of J. Everett Sapp, 32, Rockford salesman, whose bullet riddled car and shot punched hat were found in South Beloit Saturday.

Beloit, South Beloit, and Rockford authorities today were conducting a search in the vicinity of the creek not only for the body of Sapp but for that of Miss Helen Shaner, 23, former cigar counter clerk at the Lafayette hotel in Rockford, who disappeared from her home in Freeport Thursday, the same day Sapp dropped out of sight.

Wife Knew of Girl.

That Sapp and Miss Shaner were friends was revealed by Mrs. Sapp, who prefers to spell her name Snapp, and who said she learned of their acquaintance when she found a photo of Miss Shaner in a bathing suit pose in Sapp's car about two months ago. Sheriff William Bell of Rockford also learned Miss Shaner had been living recently at a Freeport hotel where she was known as "Mrs. Snapp."

One of the handkerchiefs used in making the two badly chewed gags was identified by Mrs. Sapp today as having belonged to her husband. Women friends of Miss Shaner said the outfit of clothing found with the gags was about her size and might have belonged to her.

Men Take Gags Away.

The gags, women's clothing, and a torn suit of men's pajamas were found hidden under a log by a skating party of boys, including Gilbert Slavick, Harold Madley, Bob Madley, and Alfonso Lamendola. They said they were just investigating their find when three men drove up in a car and ordered them to "get out of here and get out quick." They took the gags and most of the clothing with them as they fled, but left behind a pair of women's shoes and stockings. As the boys looked back they saw the men apparently looking for something in the dusk with torches. When the boys went back later to recover their skates the shoes and stockings were gone.

It was learned today Sapp had carried a $30,000 life insurance policy. He had $50 when he left home on a business trip to Freeport, but he had expected to collect $200 from customers. His empty pocket book was found Sunday in South Beloit, near where the bullet riddled abandoned car was discovered.

LAW TO BAR SMOKING ON ANY FARM IN U. S. PROPOSED BY WOMAN

Boston, Mass., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Farmers attending the annual convention of the American farm bureau federation—and there are 1,500 of them—tonight were pondering the most radical resolution ever to come before the organization. The proposal, in effect, asks the federation to urge legislation prohibiting smoking on any American farm.

The meeting of the committee to recommend legislation was behind closed doors. The resolution was introduced by a nonvoting delegate from New Mexico, whose name was not disclosed, in behalf of a woman who argued that:

Smoking was a menace to farm property.

Smoking always has been barred in dairies as nicotine taints milk.

Smoking encouraged loafing on the part of farm labor and decreased efficiency.

Smoking by hoboes was a serious menace.

Smoking set a bad example to 4-H club members.

Smoking by women in the convention hotel was so common that some of the convention visitors were shocked, they said.

Butcher Shop Bombed; 15 Families Imperiled

Fifteen families in a three story brick building were imperiled early this morning when a black powder bomb was exploded in the entrance to a grocery and meat store at 3102 West Harrison street. Andrew Copo, owner of the store; his wife, Mary, 30, and four young children were hurled from their beds by the blast but were uninjured.

TNT in Sunken Ship Blows Up Boat; 14 Dead

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAINT NAZAIRE, France, Dec. 8.—The Italian salvage ship Artiglio, which discovered the sunken liner Egypt last September and had been trying to recover $5,000,000 in gold bullion from its hulk, was blown up and sunk near the Island of Houat, off the coast of Brittany, yesterday afternoon. Fourteen members of a crew of twenty-one lost their lives, while seven others were injured and taken to a hospital at Belle Isle.

News of the disaster reached here today through a signal station on Hoedic island, not far from Houat.

The Artiglio had abandoned the job of getting the gold ingots from the Egypt because of adverse ocean currents. When the explosion occured, the ship was engaged, on orders from the French government, in blowing up the hulk of the Italian munition ship Florence, which sank during the war with tons of TNT aboard and was considered a menace to navigation.

Tossed Into Air Like Leaf.

The signal man on Hoedic island saw the blast, which tossed the Artiglio into the air like a leaf breaking her back. The wreckage fell back into the sea in chunks.

Dynamite charges had been set on the sunken munitions ship by the salvage vessel, which had steamed about a mile away.

The explosion of the TNT which had been at the ocean's bottom for 13 years, hurled tons of water 1,000 feet into the air and the maelstrom sucked the pieces of the salvage ship's wreckage beneath giant waves.

The Italian toolship Rostro, accompanying the Artiglio, had taken a position two miles away. She sped to the scene and picked up the seven injured men, who were swimming or floating in the high seas. Several bodies were also recovered by the Rostro.

Steel Encased Divers Killed.

Among the dead were two divers, whose rubber and steel suits, especially reinforced for working at low depths, had been split to shreds by the concussion. The heavy bronze helmets were twisted like tin and had shattered the divers' heads.

Capt. Berteletto Giacomo of the Artiglio was one of those killed.

It is estimated that more than 1,000 tons of TNT in the hulk of the Florence went off when a relatively small charge of dynamite was detonated to smash up the wreckage. The Artiglio had been engaged by the French government to remove hulks of a number of cargo ships sunk during the war off the coast of Brittany.

French Warship Standing By.

A French warship carrying several government marine officials was reported to have been watching the operations.

The deep sea divers of the Artiglio had established a world's diving record when they located the liner Egypt at a depth of over 300 feet. After raising a safe containing the key to the bullion room from the ship the Artiglio abandoned operations until next summer.

A few years ago the Artiglio salvaged the fabulously rich ivory cargo of the Belgian steamship Elizabeth, which also sank off Belle Ile.

The Artiglio was a small vessel. She was 148 feet long and of 284 tons gross register.

U. S. Firm May Get Job.

LORIENT, France, Dec. 8.—(AP)—The loss of the Artiglio may mean that the salvage work on the liner Egypt may be taken over by an American company.

Commodore Sloan Danenhower of Bridgeport, Conn., said he had offered to place the Simon lake submarine Defender at the disposal of the Sorima company of Genoa, which owned the Artiglio.

PROPOSAL PUT TO OWNERS OF OLD SECURITIES

Fix Trading Value of Transit Bonds.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The final financial plan for the merger of the surface and elevated lines into the new Chicago Local Transportation company under the franchise approved by the voters last July was completed yesterday by Halsey, Stuart & Co., reorganization managers.

The new company, which will own and operate all of the local transit facilities, will have an initial capitalization of $264,582,166. Of this amount, $48,516,700 will be the existing bonds of the "L" companies, assumed by the new corporation. The remaining $216,065,566 will be new securities, issued by the new company in exchange for existing stocks and bonds of the surface and elevated roads.

Three Months of Work.

The drafting of the basis of this exchange has consumed three months of negotiations and work since the tentative plan was issued Sept. 9, last. The owners of each class of existing securities have argued and pleaded for a larger share in the new securities. Extensive adjustments have been made to meet these demands, and the "warrant" feature of the September plan has been entirely eliminated.

It is understood that the chairman of the protective committees for each class of existing securities have agreed to the new scheme, with the exception of the representatives of the participation certificates in the Chicago Railways company stock. These certificate holders are expected to fight. In declared value they have been awarded $3,372,232, and they have been asking more than $9,000,000. However, they recently received an adverse decision on their claims in federal court.

Thirty Days Delay.

The merger plan, covering 66 printed pages and several charts, will be sent the protective committees today. They in turn will send copies to security holders they represent; but no effective action can be taken by the committee for 30 days. This is because of the deposit agreement by which any security holder can withdraw his securities from the committee within 30 days after the plan is put out. There are more than 50,000 security holders.

After the protective committees have acted, the plan will go to Federal Judge Wilkerson, under whose court all of the surface lines are being operated in receivership.

Suggestions Are Considered.

In support of the plan, Halsey, Stuart & Co. said that "all of the large number of suggestions which came from the protective committees have been taken into consideration in the plan." The statement adds:

"The revised plan and agreement, in our opinion, is practicable of accomplishment, protects the interests of the security holders, and it is to the advantage of holders of securities of every class to participate in it.

"In our judgment, the plan is the best possible solution of the traction problem, evolved only after painstaking consideration of the many divergent opinions which have been presented and the many complex problems involved.

"It is urged that those who have not already done so deposit their securities at once, so that they may participate in the benefits of the plan."

What the Securities Are.

The capitalization of the new company, including two items of the elevated issues assumed by the company because of low interest rate, may be summarized as follows:

First mortgage and refunding gold bonds, series A, 5½ per cent, due Feb. 1, 1963	$ 48,305,975
Underlying divisional liens ["L" closed to the public]	47,977,500
Equipment trusts and R. E. mortgages ["L" closed to public]	630,200
Prior preferred stock, series A, $7 [$100 declared value]	40,593,975
Preferred stock, series A, $6 [$100 declared value]	57,000,433
Common stock, class A, $6 preferential [$100 declared value]	29,409,550
Common stock, class B, $1.50 preferential [$25 declared value]	47,663,900
Common stock, class C [$25 declared value]	206,919

How Receivers of Salaries and Dividends Can Help Themselves

Salaries being currently paid are with few exceptions as large as they have ever been. Dividends of American corporations paid this year will break all records. Thus receivers of salaries and dividends have as much to spend this year as they have ever had. This has been true despite the fact that the run of American companies have had smaller earnings in 1930 than in other recent years.

It is too much to expect that dividends and salaries be kept at peak levels if earnings do not soon increase substantially. Very largely, it is up to the receivers of salaries and dividends to determine whether their incomes are maintained. By starting in at once deliberately to spend their incomes as they did in 1928 or 1929, these two classes will bring about a depletion of retailers' stocks, a flow of orders to the factories, jobs for the unemployed and increased purchasing power all around. As a result, salaries and dividends will be secure for those who originated the movement.

Be a pioneer in bringing back prosperity. Help yourself by starting in today to buy your full normal quota of goods.

these securities, the plan presents the actual earnings of all of the companies operating separately for the year ending Jan. 31 last. From these gross earnings of $54,461,988 there has been subtracted $67,354,379 for operating expenses, maintenance, renewals and general taxes, leaving $17,107,608 as net earnings.

With this sum the reorganization managers show there is sufficient to pay interest or dividends on all securities down to and including the class A common stock, together with three per cent compensation to the city, totaling $2,533,859. After all of these payments the plan pictures $66,474 left for "dividends on class B and class C common stock or for other corporate purposes."

WHAT THE OWNERS GET

The part of the financial setup which perhaps is of major interest to the 50,000 security holders of the old companies is the proposed distribution of the new securities among them. The Halsey-Stuart tabulation starts with the securities of the Chicago Railways company, the west and north side surface lines. The ranking issue of these lines is $47,-206,750 in first mortgage bonds. The plan provides that half of that sum, $23,653,375, shall be in first mortgage and refunding bonds of the new company and the other half in prior preferred stock. Each holder of a $1,000 bond has been paid $150 of the principal by order of the federal court, so that such holder will receive $425 in new bonds and 4.25 shares of prior preferred stock.

The Railways company consolidated mortgage, series A, totaling $15,696,-600, will get in the new company $16,-234,464 in preferred stock and $1,726,-626 in class A common stock. For each bond the holder will get 10.4 shares of preferred stock and 1.1 shares of class A common.

The Railways company consolidated mortgage, series B, totaling $16,934,-405, will be translated into $6,773,762 of preferred stock, $9,551,004 of class A common stock, and $3,149,799 of class B common stock. For each bond the holder will get 4 shares of preferred stock, 5.64 shares of class A common stock, and 7.44 shares of class B common.

Purchase Money Bonds.

The Railways Purchase Money mortgage, totaling $3,969,155, will get in the new company $2,381,493 of preferred stock, $1,587,662 of class A common stock, and $595,373 of class B common stock. For each bond the holder will get 6 shares of preferred stock, 4 shares of class A common, and 6 shares of class B common.

The Railways adjustment income bonds, totaling $2,379,136, will get in the new company $1,903,309 in class A common stock, and $761,323 of class B common stock. For each bond the holder will get 8 shares of class A common and 12.8 shares of class B common stock.

Holders of the Railways company's shares of class B common stock in the $100,000 capital stock, for which there are four series of anticipation certificates outstanding, will get in the new company $3,372,232 shares of class B common stock. Therefore for each share of the Railways stock the holder will theoretically get 134.88 new stock.

Ship Blows Up

Arrow on map points to Houat island, near Belle Isle, off the coast of Brittany, where the Italian salvage ship, Artiglio, had exploded, killing fourteen members of the crew and injuring seven. The salvage ship was blown up by tons of TNT aboard the hulk of the sunken Italian war boat Florence, sunk thirteen years ago. The tragedy occurred near the spot where the Artiglio discovered the sunken liner Egypt with her $5,000,-000 in gold bullion last September.

CITY RAILWAY'S SHARE

The Chicago City Railway company, the major south side surface line, has $29,270,700 in first mortgage bonds out standing. In the new company, these bondholders will get half, or $14,635,-350, in the first mortgage and refunding bonds of the new company and the other half in prior preferred stock. For each bond the holder will get $450 in the new bonds and 4.5 shares of the prior preferred stock. This payment to the first mortgage holders of the south side is higher than the payment to north and west side bondholders because only 10 per cent has been paid on the south side bond principal by order of the federal court, while the west and north side first mortgage holders have gotten 15 per cent.

The City railway minority capital stock, totaling $899,900, will get in the new company $692,928 in preferred stock, $368,959 in class A common stock and $332,963 in class B common. For each share, the holder will get 0.77 shares of preferred stock, 0.41 shares of class A common and 1.48 shares of class B common. The major interest in the City railway stock will be found later the Chicago City and Connecting Railways collateral trust, which has an interest of $17,100,100.

The Calumet and South Chicago Railway company, the outlying south side surface lines, has $4,614,300 in first mortgage bonds outstanding. One half, or $2,307,150, will be translated into the first and refunding mortgage bonds of the new company and the other half into prior preferred stock. That will give each bondholder $450 in the new first mortgage and 4.5 shares in the prior preferred stock.

The Chicago City and Connecting Railways collateral trust owns $10,-000,000 of the capital stock of the Calumet and South Chicago Railway company and $2,400,000 capital stock of the Southern Street Railway company, another small south side surface line, in addition to the $17,100,100 of the capital stock of the Chicago City Railway company. Against this ownership the trust has outstanding $20,-616,000 in sinking fund bonds outstanding and also 250,000 preferred participation certificates.

The plan provides that unless directed by the committee, or the court, there will be awarded to the trust for its bonds $19,379,040 in preferred stock and $5,731,248 in class A common stock. Under this plan the holder of each bond will get 9.4 shares of preferred stock and 2.78 shares of class A common stock. The participation certificate holders will get $3,000,000 in class A common stock and $7,937,-166 in class B common stock.

THE ELEVATED LINES

The "L" lines have $18,563,000 in adjustment debenture bonds outstanding. For these, the plan provides $4,640,750 in preferred stock, the same amount in class A common stock and $13,421,049 in class B common stock. For each debenture, the holder will get 2.5 shares of preferred stock, 2.5 shares of class A common stock and 28.92 shares of class B common stock.

The "L" lines prior preferred stock, series A, totals $5,000,000. For this stock, the plan provides $5,750,000 preferred stock in the new company and $750,000 of the class A common stock. Each stockholder will get 1.15 shares of the preferred stock and 0.15 shares of the class A common.

The "L" prior preferred stock, series B, totaling $1,500,000, will receive $1,650,000 in preferred stock of the new company and 150,000 shares of class A common. Each stockholder's ratio will be 1.1 shares of preferred and 0.1 share of class A common.

The Common Stock.

The 'L' common stock totals $20,-320,100, for which the plan set aside in the new company $18,092,899 of class B common stock and $208,919 of class C common. A large percentage of this common stock is held in trust. Each share of stock or trust certificate will get 3.56 shares of class B common and 0.04 shares of class C common stock.

The bonds of the elevated lines are to be assumed by the new company because their interest rate is lower than the new company would have to pay on new borrowings.

BOAT GROUNDED ON TOP OF STREET CAR LINE TUNNEL

Fear Ship May Break Tube —Traffic Tied Up.

Automobile traffic over the Washington boulevard bridge was tied up shortly after 10:30 o'clock last night when the large sandboat Michigan, owned by the Great Lakes Dredge and Dock company, grounded on the roof of the Chicago surface lines tunnel under the river at that point and defied efforts of two tugs to free it.

The open bridge delayed hundreds of motorists homeward bound after attending the opera and huge crowds quickly gathered on both banks of the river to watch efforts to release the boat.

Post Watchmen in Tunnel.

A few minutes before midnight, when it became apparent that the tugs were unable to dislodge the large craft, officials of the surface lines posted supervisors in the tunnel for fear the weight of the boat might break the roof.

The supervisors, Charles Doherty and James McCarthy, were instructed to keep close watch on the concrete roof of the tunnel and to halt all street car traffic at the first sign of a leak from the river.

Experienced river men at the scene said the accident was caused by the low level of the river and that it probably would be necessary to close the locks at Lockport in order to raise the water level before the Michigan could be freed.

Efforts to Free Boat Fail.

The tugs New York and Waukegan were assisted by a cable from the Michigan itself, which had been run across the river to the supports of the huge sanitary district sign near Randolph street in the hope that windlasses on deck could reel the cable in, thus drawing the boat off the tunnel roof. This was abandoned, however, when the pier to which the cable was attached began to give way without moving the sand boat.

The position of the Michigan, which was lying at an angle across the river, effectively blocked all water traffic.

1930 AUTO TOLL REACHES 1,049 AS 5 MORE DIE

Mrs. Anna Brinner, 64 years old, of 2139 North Kedzie avenue, was killed yesterday when she was struck by the automobile of Casimar Midowicz, a lawyer of 4030 Nelson street, while crossing Palmer street at Kedzie boulevard. She died while Midowicz was taking her to the Lutheran Memorial hospital. The attorney was held for the inquest.

This death and four others raised the Cook county motor toll for the year to 1,049. The victims:

Arthur Giroux, 9 years old, 402 North Cicero avenue. Died in St. Anne's hospital of injuries received on Saturday when he was struck by an automobile at Cicero avenue and Kinzie street. Police exonerated the driver, John Catterson, 708 North Leamington avenue.

John F. Slapak, 58 years old, 1880 South 50th court, Cicero. Died at his home of injuries received on Nov. 12 when he was struck by the automobile of Paul Brask, 4813 West 24th place.

William Loftus, 7850 South Ada street, salesman. Killed when his automobile collided with the car of Oliver Fillmore, colored, 1111 West 110th place, at 103d and Halsted streets. Morgan Park police held Fillmore.

William Brooks, 75 years old, colored, 5947 South State street. Killed by a truck driven by a hit and run driver at 59th and State streets.

Ireland Refuses Gift of Mansion for President

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Dec. 8.—The Irish Free State government today declined the offer of the gift of Russborough house in the county of Wicklow by Lady Tinton. The Georgian mansion is full of art treasures and is surrounded by hundred of acres of land. Lady Tinton had hoped the mansion would provide a permanent official residence for the president.

BELGIAN QUEEN FORCES PROBE OF "FOG DEATHS"

Board Will Investigate Hints of Poison Gas.

BY ANN SOMERS HOUSE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LIEGE, Belgium, Dec. 8.—How Queen Elizabeth is fighting a lone battle against the inertia of the Belgian government in the "poison valley mystery" was revealed today by Prof. Ernest Malvoz of Liege.

"The physicians have gone wrong in saying that the 'pea soup' fog alone caused the Meuse valley tragedy," he declared.

Going to the very limits of her right as a constitutional sovereign, Queen Elizabeth organized a scientific-medical committee today to probe the cause of the 67 fog deaths. The queen thus openly defied the official medical report to the department of the interior this morning, which said that the deaths were "solely due to the fog."

Queen Wins First Round.

Late tonight the queen won the first round of her battle against the inaction of the government when Prime Minister Jaspar and the ministers of labor and interior agreed to receive tomorrow morning the physicians who make up the queen's scientific investigation commission. They will also hear from mining engineers and government inspectors who gathered evidence in the stricken region.

An urgent wire from the league of nations, asking a scientific explanation of the fog mystery, also helped to stir the government to action.

Members of the commission tomorrow will deny to the prime minister that war gases caused the deaths and will point out that the deaths occurred only in parts of the valley where chemical and zinc plants are located.

Plan Thorough Investigation.

"We want to find out whether the entire population of the Meuse valley near Liege will have to be evacuated when the fog reappears next year around this season," Prof. Malvoz stated, as he told of the aims of the queen's commission, which includes the international Red Cross expert, Pierre Nolen.

The commission will consume a couple of weeks probing the air in the Meuse valley and the safety measures taken by local industries. After a thorough investigation the queen's commission hopes to throw full light on the catastrophe and settle the fears of the people that fumes from factories had caused the deaths.

Friday night the official press reported that the Engis factories were not working. Saturday it was revealed that the zinc, chemical and fertilizer plants at Engis were going full blast. On Saturday morning the government health inspector, La Comble, insisted that no children had been stricken. An hour later reporters had testimony that many children were affected although not killed by the "poison fog."

Queen Visits Death Valley.

"Our queen, whom the nation reveres as the foremost and bravest war nurse, learned through me on Saturday afternoon at the tuberculosis congress at Brussels that something was foul about the probe of the fog deaths," Prof. Malvoz said. "Her majesty decided at once to spend Sunday in the death valley."

While Queen Elizabeth knelt at the bier of the dead or soothed with kind words the coughing and choking patients in the stricken villages all day yesterday, she heard many people charge:

"It is the factories with their poison fumes."

The queen resolved then and there that full light would be shed on the tragedy.

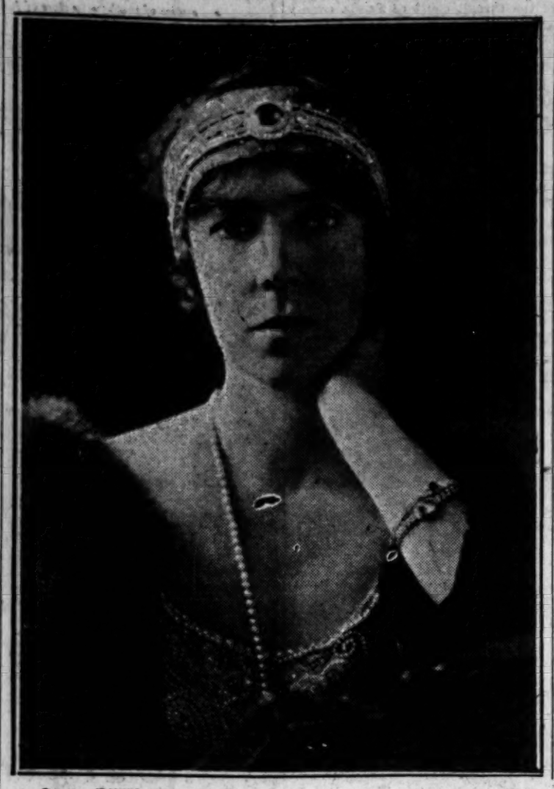
The entire population in this region of the Meuse valley has weak lungs, and the mortality is high. The workers are doubly insured against illness resulting from jobs in the zinc and chemical industries, which are classed as "harmful."

Autopsies were performed today on the bodies of two of last week's victims. Blood specimens were taken to determine the presence of any poisonous gases.

$20 WOMAN OF COLLECTIONS.

Two bandits held up Mrs. Bertha Meriens, 40 years old, in her home at 740 Melrose last night and stole $155 which she had collected as rentals earlier in the day.

Queen Forces Poison Fog Inquiry



Queen Elizabeth of Belgium, who is making a personal investigation of the causes of recent deaths in the Meuse valley and is dissatisfied with the apparent eagerness of local officials to drop the inquiry.

BRITISH OFFICIAL IN INDIA SLAIN; YANK SAVES SELF

Two Kill Selves to Escape Capture.

CALCUTTA, India, Dec. 8.—(AP)—The gymnastic abilities of an American Methodist missionary, the Rev. Edward S. Johnson of Waycross, Ga., probably saved his life today as three Bengali students assassinated the British inspector general of prisons and fired wildly at every one nearby.

The inspector general, Lieut. Col. Norman Skinner Simpson, was inspecting his letter file as the youths entered and slew him. They shoved aside an office boy to enter his office.

Nearby stood J. W. Nelson, judicial secretary, who attempted to prevent the trio from escaping. He was severely wounded in the thigh.

Kept Up Running Fire.

Running down the corridors the youths fired in all directions through open doors and windows of offices until they reached the passport bureau, where the American was applying for a visa.

Again their guns barked, but the shots missed Mr. Johnson. He saved himself from further danger by jumping through an open window and seizing an iron drain pipe, by which he lowered himself to the street. The minister is principal of Mount Hermon school at Darjeeling.

With their ammunition running low and the police nearing the students turned their weapons upon themselves. Two committed suicide, but the third was unsuccessful in his attempt.

DISCUSS FEDERATION

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 8.—The issue between the Indian native princes and the representatives of British India was definitely joined at the round table conference meeting here today when each side stated what kind of federation seemed to be the most desirable for the future government of India.

The princes want the federation to consist of two elements, on the one side the representatives of the Indian states, which they are willing shall be chosen by the governments of these states and not by the princes themselves, and on the other British India. They want to know how far British India will be broken up into provinces and what would be the status of these provinces. They will not have a federation with a unitary British India as it is today. The princes would also prefer a two chamber legislature to deal with all federal subjects.

British to Retain Army.

Both sides agreed to the reservation of the crown of all matters pertaining to defense and external relations, but expressed the hope that there would be some method of giving the federal legislature cognizance of these subjects even in the transition period.

ADAMS APPEALS FOR 134 MILLION TO BUILD UP NAVY

Outlines His Plan Before House Committee.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—Congressional approval of a 134 million dollar naval construction program designed to start the United States on the road to a London treaty fleet and a "navy second to none" was asked by Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams today.

Appearing before the house naval committee Mr. Adams outlined his construction plan, said it had the approval of the President, and asked that immediate steps be taken to pass the necessary legislation so that the needed fighting vessels could be laid down during the fiscal year beginning July 1 next. His program marked, it was disclosed, the first year's installment of a five year program contemplating the expenditure over eight years of more than half a billion dollars on new war vessels.

Cruisers and Submarines.

Late today Chairman Britten of the house committee introduced a bill authorizing the construction of seven new cruisers and submarines and an aircraft carrier, the only vessels on the navy program not now authorized. Ten destroyers and one destroyer leader included in the navy's building program were not placed in the Britten bill, as the budget bureau finally has agreed to appropriate for these vessels despite the fact they first were appropriated as far back as 1916 when Wilson started the nation on the way to a world naval supremacy, later sacrificed at the Washington arms conference in 1922.

If the Adams program is adopted in its entirety American government and private yards will be working on new naval vessels valued at 300 million dollars during the 1932 fiscal year, beginning next July. Adoption of the remaining installments of the five year program as they come due will, with the exception of destroyer tonnage bring the United States close to tonnage parity with Great Britain by the late '30s.

Remarkable Strides Made.

The remarkable strides taken by naval aviation in recent years is demonstrated by the characteristics of the vessels included in the navy's new program. All vessels equipped with aircraft now carry a greater number.

The aircraft carrier now carries 114 planes compared with less than a hundred estimated as the capacity for a sister ship under construction. The ships include one flying deck cruiser carrying thirty-six airplanes, a new type of vessel in the world's navies, a six inch gun cruiser, ten 1,500 ton destroyers, one destroyer leader of 1,850 tons and an airplane carrier of 13,800 tons.

About $25,000,000 will be needed as the first year's appropriations for these vessels. This would be in addition to $51,000,000 already included in the budget for seven 8 inch gun cruisers, one aircraft carrier and two submarines now building.

Indications today are the battleship modernization bill will become law in time to include funds in the first deficiency bill and thus pave the way for beginning work on two of them the first of the new year. The bill passed the senate without debate today and is expected to pass the house before Christmas. It authorizes $30,000,000 to elevate the guns, increase the protection and reboiler three second class battleships.

Navy's New Building Program

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—The following table graphically outlines the navy's new construction program designed to start the United States on the way toward a London treaty. It represents one year of a long program. The table shows the number of new ships, their types, characteristics, and costs. It follows:

No. and type.	Displac'm't.	Ship cost.	Planes.	Cost.	Total cost.	Contract date
1 6-in. gun cruiser.	7,000-7,500	$16,375,000	6	$ 230,000	$ 16,605,000	Apr 1, '32
1 6-in. gun flying deck cruiser...	10,000	19,600,000	36	1,180,000	20,780,000	Jan 1, '32
*10 destroyers...	1,500	4,200,000	..	.....	42,000,000	July 1, '31
1 destroyer leader	1,850	5,000,000	..	.....	5,000,000	Oct 1, '31
4 submarines....	1,100	4,400,000	..	.....	17,600,000	July 1, '31
1 aircraft carrier	13,800	23,350,000	114	4,300,000	27,650,000	July 1, '31
			156	5,710,000	129,635,000
†30 planes for ships under construc'n, cv-4	.....	.....	..	.....	5,000,000

*The eleven destroyers are not included in the bill submitted to congress, as twelve destroyers were authorized in 1916 but never appropriated for.

†The above program is in addition to the present building program, for which appropriations are asked in the 1932 budget. Ships now building or about to be laid down include seven 8-inch gun 10,000 ton Washington treaty cruisers, two 1,100 ton submarines, and one 13,872 ton aircraft carrier.

Will of Recluse, Written 53 Years Ago, Filed Here

A will written fifty-three years ago by Mrs. Ida Marcoux, who died in her home at 1703 North Mozart avenue, in June, 1928, was filed for probate yesterday with Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to Probate Judge Horner. The will was found recently in an old family Bible in the home of Dr. Edmund J. Bolio of 243 Melbourne place, Detroit, after a two years' search for heirs. Mrs. Marcoux was believed to be a penniless recluse, but investigation disclosed property worth $55,000. The estate was left to Dr. Bolio's father. The will was dated Oct. 19, 1877.

WIFE SLASHED BY HUSBAND IN DOCTOR'S OFFICE

Mrs. Adeline Quinn, 28 years old, was attacked by her husband, from whom she had been estranged for three weeks, yesterday in the office of Dr. E. J. Brown, 204 West 63d street, where she is employed as a nurse, and severely slashed about the face with a razor.

The husband, James Quinn, 40 years old, 6800 Normal avenue, part owner of the Keystone Construction company, was arrested and is to be arraigned in Felony court today.

Mrs. Quinn, at the Englewood hospital, said she left Quinn after he had beaten her and that he had been placed on a year's probation.

TRY MORAN AS VAGRANT TODAY IN WAUKEGAN

George (Bugs) Moran, public enemy No. 17, will go on trial as a vagrant today at Waukegan before County Judge Perry L. Persons. He will be defended by former Circuit Judge Claire C. Edwards, who presided at the Small trial. It will be Lake county's first test of the vagrancy law.

Moran, after remaining in hiding for more than four months, was arrested three weeks ago while asleep in a room of the Cassidy resort, 15 miles west of Waukegan. He said at the time he had just returned from a hunting trip. He has been at liberty on $5,000 bond.

William Lenhardt, who is sentenced to be electrocuted at midnight Thursday, took the witness stand yesterday in Judge Joseph Sabath's Criminal court in an effort to save his mother, Mrs. Julia Glovka of Cleveland; Joseph Connior, former jail guard, and Walter Wheeler, colored prisoner, from life sentences in the penitentiary. The defendants are on trial charged with aiding Lenhardt in a plot to escape from the county jail on Nov. 4.

The condemned slayer's entrance into the courtroom brought a score of policemen and deputy sheriffs to attention with their revolvers ready for instant use. Lenhardt was shackled to a deputy bailiff. The bailiff sat next to him in the witness box with the shackles still attached throughout the entire hearing. Lenhardt was before the jury all day, being examined by the defense and prosecuting attorneys.

Judge Orders Special Guard.

Judge Sabath ordered the special guard because Lenhardt, who was sentenced for killing a restaurant owner, is known to be a desperate criminal. The slayer has been in solitary confinement since his attempt to escape and it was reported that he had said he would make a break for liberty if given any opportunity.

Despite the fact that he has only three days more to live, Lenhardt did not appear worried. He joked with Assistant State's Attorney Mal Coghlan as the latter tried in vain to break down his story in defense of his mother.

Slayer Tells His Story.

Lenhardt said that Howard Soske, the defendant who turned state's evidence and was granted a separate trial, engineered all of the outside activities of the escape plot. His mother, he said, had nothing to do with it and knew nothing of his plans. Wheeler, the jail trusty, was innocent because he was a "stool pigeon" who was told nothing by the inmates, Lenhardt said. Connior, Lenhardt testified, only smuggled in whisky, unwittingly, thinking it was medicine.

"Even if you got loose in the jail, how were you going to get out?" Prosecutor Coghlan asked Lenhardt.

"Give me the gun and I'll get out," the killer replied.

Seize Three in Drive on Gun Sellers.

Judge Wilkerson's court, where Assistant United States Attorney Dwight H. Green asked for a continuance because he and other assistants are engaged in prosecuting State Representative Lawrence O'Brien on similar charges.

Back to Lyle's Court.

"I used to be a district attorney," said Judge Wilkerson, "and it didn't take three of us to try a case then."

It was finally agreed that the income tax case would be continued until Jan. 12, 1931, and Druggan started back to Judge Lyle's court.

"This Willie Druggan interests me," said Judge Lyle to start the second hearing. "Where is Willie? Is he a fugitive from justice?"

"No, he is in the cartage business and goes away frequently," replied Mrs. Druggan.

"I wonder who deeded this property to Willie Druggan," continued the judge. "Maybe he muscled it away from somebody. I am interested in the the source of income of these men. It might be interesting to know where a gangster gets a $40,000 flat building clear of mortgages. By the way, wasn't it at Willie Druggan's home that they found those machine guns?"

Set Hearing for Dec. 18.

Terry listened to all that was said, but apparently decided that he was better off to keep his thoughts to himself. He did not speak unless the judge insisted on an answer from him. Finally the talk turned to a time for hearing the cases against Terry and the day was set for Dec. 18.

"At that time can we enter a motion to set aside the bond forfeiture in the other case and get back our ten $1,000 bills?" Attorney Charles Soelke for Druggan asked.

"I will say to you that if Druggan can show me that he ever earned $10,000 honestly instead of over a machine gun or through some illegal means I might listen to such a plea," replied the judge. "Otherwise I am going to exercise my discretion for the people and turn over to the treasury those nice new $1,000 bills. At any rate we will take that up on Dec. 18. That is all."

Take His Fingerprints.

Terry started to walk out with his mother on his arm. He got about twenty feet from the bench when Judge Lyle called after him.

"Not yet Druggan are you to leave this room," said the judge. "Take him in the back and get his photographs and fingerprints the same as any other prisoner."

Druggan has not experienced this sensation since his early days as a petty larcency thief in the valley district, when the police cuffed him around like any of the other toughs of the district.

Volpe, the other public enemy before Judge Lyle, was granted a change of venue. He, however, could not raise the $10,000 bond and was locked up in jail.

His citizenship was questioned by the judge and he said that it was granted to him by Judge David but was later revoked by the government. District Director Shirley D. Smith had a representative talk to Volpe, but would not say at this time what action would be taken in his case.

Lawrence ["Dago"] Mangano, public enemy No. 12, operator of an alleged gambling house, who was picked up yesterday at Crawford avenue and Madison street charged with disorderly conduct, obtained his release last evening by posting a $100 cash bond. He will appear this morning before Judge Frederick W. Elliott in Fillmore street court. A vagrancy charge is also pending against Mangano, but that will be heard later before Judge Lyle in Felony court.

Attorneys for George ("Red") Barker were in Springfield yesterday preparing a petition for a writ of habeas corpus to secure Barker's release from Joliet penitentiary. Barker's attorneys contend that Judge John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court was without authority to review the action of the Circuit court of Peoria county and set aside an order liberating Barker from prison. The petition probably will be presented to the Supreme court today.

BLADDER TROUBLE"

A grateful sufferer has written us, "After suffering for years from Bladder Trouble, I found relief in Mountain Valley Mineral Water after a few weeks' use". And a doctor has written, "There is no better water in the world for ailments of the bladder". Mountain Valley Mineral Water brings relief naturally—first, because its alkaline minerals tend to neutralize the irritating acid—second, because it soothes inflamed tissues—but principally because it promotes elimination through all of the four natural channels, thereby relieving the burden on the kidneys and lessening the toxic content of the urine. O'BRIEN INCOME OF HALF MILLION TRACED AT TRIAL

Open Tax Fraud Case of Representative.

An income of almost half a million dollars was received by State Representative Lawrence C. O'Brien [29th] during 1926, 1927, and 1928, according to testimony in federal court yesterday. And the government asserted that about 80 per cent of this sum came from three municipal taxing bodies—the city, sanitary district, and the Lincoln park commissioners.

The testimony was given before Federal Judge Lindley shortly after the opening of the legislator's trial on charges of attempting to defeat payment of his income tax. The defense admitted the money was once in O'Brien's possession but maintained that it did not all represent income.

No Returns Filed, Charge.

The trial began with the dispatch usual in criminal trials in the federal court. Preliminary motions for continuances were speedily overruled, a jury was selected in quick time, and before noon the opening arguments had been completed.

At 2:15 P. M. Charles W. Arndt, chief of the tax division of the bureau of internal revenue, took the stand as the first witness, and testified that O'Brien did not file a return on his income during any of the years in question.

He was not cross-examined and Jacob R. Darmstadt, vice president of the Cosmopolitan State bank, Chicago avenue and Clark street, and thus in O'Brien's district, occupied the stand for the remainder of the afternoon.

Identifies Checks Totaling $435,776.

Mr. Darmstadt's testimony consisted in the main of the identification of hundreds of checks and deposits which the legislator placed in the bank during the years his income was under scrutiny. First Assistant United States Attorney Cassius Poust had before him stacks of canceled checks and slips, arranged by years, and without interruption for two hours he placed them before the banker with the question:

"I hand you United States exhibit No. — and ask you if this check was deposited or cashed by the defendant O'Brien in your bank?"

The answer was always in the affirmative and was recorded without defense objection. When Darmstadt had completed this identification he had traced $435,776.25 into the defendant's account as receipts from the Red Line Teaming company. This concern hauled a great deal of the material used in the construction of the North Shore Channel road by the sanitary district in the days of President Tim Crowe.

According to the opening statement of Assistant United States Attorney Dwight H. Green, who with Poust and Jacob I. Grossman have successfully prosecuted all the income tax trials, O'Brien's income from the taxing bodies was divided, by years, about as follows:

Year.	*S. D.	City.	†L. P.
1927	44,935	50,548	$59,467
1928	76,295	3,821	11,527

*Sanitary district. †Lincoln park.

The nature of the remaining receipts was not gone into.

Further questioning of Darmstadt revealed O'Brien as the owner of a building at 918-920 North Wells street which housed a speakeasy on the street level and apartments above. The witness, in response to questions by the court, said O'Brien had invited the banker to visit the place when he wanted a "good glass of beer."

Judge Lindley defined the issues in the trial as [1] whether O'Brien's income was taxable and [2], if it was taxable, whether he was guilty of willful failure to file a tax return.

JURORS HEAR STORY OF GARY RUM TRAGEDY

Expect 5 to Be Indicted for Murder Today.

A grand jury comprising six Lake county business men yesterday heard from 19 witnesses the story of Arlene Draves—her life as a high school girl, her character and reputation, and the manner of her death during a liquor party on Nov. 30 in a Gary home. The session was held at Crown Point.

As an introduction to the testimony the special prosecutor, John Underwood, read the confessions of the five young Gary men who, having confessed ravishing her, are now confined in the county jail adjoining the courthouse at Crown Point awaiting indictment for murder.

Expect Indictment Today.

At 5:30 p. m., with the last witness heard, County Prosecutor Oliver Starr announced his case for the grand jury was complete. At 9:30 a. m. today the jurors will reconvene and, after brief deliberation, vote and return before Judge Martin J. Smith an indictment charging all five defendants with murder, Mr. Starr said.

First to be summoned were Dr. D O. Wharton, a Gary physician, and his wife. The doctor recalled the frightened appearance of the five young men, Virgil Kirkland, Leon Stanford, Paul Barton, Henry Shirk, and David Thompson, when they carried the girl into his office about 3:30 o'clock, the morning following the party.

Party Guests Are Witnesses.

Other witnesses were guests at the party held at the home of Thompson. Their stories, it was reported, were in agreement that although most of the fifteen guests drank at the party none of the defendants appeared deeply intoxicated.

Five witnesses, on whose testimony Prosecutor Underwood expects to build the foundation for an electrocution verdict, were Dick Sturtridge, 22; Mrs. Bernice Elser, 23, who attended the party with her husband, Earl, a Butler university student; Miss Josephine Rukas, 20; Evan Madera, 22, and his wife, Ethel, 20.

Call Character Witnesses

Last to be called were James Johnson, 20, former sweetheart of the Draves girl; Murrell Clemens, 21, and brother-in-law, with whom she made her home; Dorothy Holmes, 19, the slain girl's closest chum and former classmate at Emerson High school, and Bessie Treece, 18.

Miss Holmes and Clemens appeared as character witnesses. It was Miss Treece's story that created the sensation of the day. She revealed for the first time that Arlene was loath to attend the party, and yielded only at the insistence of Kirkland, who escorted her there.

On the evening of Arlene's death, Miss Treece is reported to have told the jury, Arlene and Kirkland called at her home. Arlene was eager to join the Treece girl and another young man who planned to attend the Elks' ball, but Kirkland, as the testimony was reported, insisted she accompany him to the Thompson party "because they'll have a heap of liquor there."

"From the prosecution's standpoint it is the surest case we could desire and I wish I could try it myself," said Prosecutor Starr. Mr. Starr's term expires on Dec. 31 and the prosecution will be conducted by Mr. Underwood and the prosecutor-elect, Robert G. Estill.

Mr. Starr declared he was "not surprised" when shown Indianapolis dispatches stating a toxicologist in a preliminary report had declared he had found no traces of poison liquor in the girl's organs. The prosecutor said he had ordered the examination as a precaution against a defense that liquor killed the girl.

The trial, it is expected, will be set for the third week in January.

CLEANERS SIGN PRICE CONTRACT; APPOINT 'CZAR'

Dr. Squires Made Dictator of Industry.

The Master Cleaners and Dyers association, composed of ninety members owning their establishments and comprising 90 per cent of the cleaning industry in Chicago, last night signed a price stabilization contract. Dr. Benjamin M. Squires, economist, federal arbitrator during the war, and at present arbitrator for capital and labor in many industries, was appointed saleamanager with authority approximating that of Judge Landis in baseball and Will Hays in the motion picture field.

The contract provides for: a fair return on invested capital, a return to labor that will not lower present living conditions, and an equitable service to the public. The contract provides that the business of a cleaner giving unsatisfactory service in the opinion of Dr. Squires, or who violates the contract, will be taken over by the arbitrator. In that event Dr. Squires will conduct the business until he feels the proprietor will conform to the contract.

Provide Complaint Service.

Complaints from any of the three interested parties, the proprietor, the customer, or the laborer, will lead to an investigation, and if the complaint is justified, Dr. Squires assumes control of the plant. Each member signed personally with Dr. Squires.

In explaining the contract, Frank Harscher, secretary of the association, praised Dr. Squires.

"I have worked with Dr. Squires for more than a year," he said, "to formulate the present program. Our contract gives one man supreme authority. The contract is rock bound and legal in every aspect. But a business conducted on such a basis, if the czar is trustworthy, is bound to succeed from every standpoint. Dr. Squires has the confidence of our association, and more important yet, the confidence of the public and our employés."

Action Follows Price War.

Last night's action was brought about by a price cutting war which members said threatened ruin to an industry with a $20,000,000 investment. The war, with bombings, acid throwing, killings, and a slump in business started over a year ago. It was charged that many shops were in the control of racketeers with "Bugs" Moran and Al Capone announcing themselves as controllers of the industry by districts.

Mr. Harscher, after several months of campaigning among the members, obtained a house cleaning. Dr. Squires was appointed arbitrator, and the contract is the result of a year's study by both men.

Dr. Squires Issues Orders.

Last night Dr. Squires assumed the authority of his office. "You bemoan the fact that you have lost the confidence of the public," he said. "You are called racketeers and worse. Nevertheless you represent a basic industry and provide a needed service. The answer is educate the public and provide a fair service for a fair pay. If you do you will change the opinion of the public. If you don't I will step in and then you will be glad to change your methods."

He directed the appointment of submanagers for each shop to conduct the business under Dr. Squires if the contract is violated. He will list present group customers of shops to prevent a complaint among members of stealing trade. A scale of prices, subject to Dr. Squires's approval, will be announced within a week.

JURORS CONVICT STEPMOTHER OF CHILD'S SLAYING

Sentenced to Life Term in Prison.

Denver, Colo., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—For the murder of her 10 year old step-daughter, Mrs. Pearl O'Loughlin, 31, henna-haired and comely, tonight was sentenced to serve the remainder of her life in the Colorado state penitentiary. The jury which convicted her deliberated less than two hours, with a majority always for conviction.

Mrs. O'Loughlin's composure and iron will did not fail her when the jury foreman reported. She sat upright in her chair tapping one foot gently against the floor.

Body Found in Lake.

Leona O'Loughlin, Cathedral school girl, disappeared from her bedroom Oct. 14, three days later her body was found in Berkeley Park lake, two lacerations on the head but otherwise apparently unharmed.

The case was further complicated by illness of Detective O'Loughlin, who, the day after his daughter disappeared, was taken to a hospital suffering from violent abdominal pains. An examination of stomach and intestine contents revealed a quantity of ground glass, and a similar examination of the contents of Leona's stomach and intestines produced similar findings.

More Ground Glass.

Then Dennis O'Loughlin, grandfather of Leona, informed police that last August, after Mrs. O'Loughlin and Detective O'Loughlin visited his Fort Collins home he found a quantity of ground glass in his sugar bowl.

Defense Counsel John M. Keating announced tonight that motion for a new trial will be filed immediately and in event Judge Calvert denies the motion, that he will appeal to the state Supreme court.

Mrs. O'Loughlin's conviction does not terminate the case, as Frank O'Loughlin, brother of Leo, also is charged with the murder.

RUSSIA SPARES LIVES OF 5 MEN DOOMED TO DIE

Commutes Sentences to 10 Years in Prison.

MOSCOW, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Five prominent engineers, who at midnight heard four Supreme court judges decree that they must die for plotting intervention in soviet Russia, were made joyous today by a commutation of their sentences to ten years' imprisonment.

Three others, condemned to ten years' imprisonment by the verdict after a great public trial that had lasted since Nov. 25, were given commutation to eight years' imprisonment. All were deprived of citizenship rights for five years, and their property will be confiscated.

Ramzin's Life Saved.

The men whose lives were saved were Leonid Ramzin, leader of the conspirators; Alexander Fedotov, oldest of the group, who begged piteously for mercy during the hearing; Victor Larichev, first assistant to Ramzin; Nicolai Charnovsky and Ivan Kalinov.

Those whose imprisonment was reduced from ten years to eight were Vladimir Ochkin, 30 years old and youngest of the band; Sergei Kuprianov, and Xenophon Sitnin.

Commutation was decided by the central executive committee of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics, which declared that, since the defendants had confessed and repented, the soviet power could not be guided by a mere desire for revenge.

Text of Commutation.

It read as follows:

"First, seeing that all the sentenced men not only repented their crimes but by their testimony during the judicial investigation had disarmed the counter-revolutionary organization, acting as agent and executor of interventionist and military circles ruling in bourgeois France with their other organizations, such as the Torgprom [Russian Emigre organization in Paris];

"Second, seeing that soviet power cannot be guided by a mere desire for revenge, particularly in relation to confessed repentant criminals who have been rendered harmless;

"It has been decided to commute the death sentences passed on Ramzin, Charnovsky, Kalikov, Larichev, and Fedotov to 10 years' imprisonment, with five years' disenfranchisement and confiscation of property, and the sentences of 10 years' imprisonment of Ochkin, Sitnin and Kuprianov to eight years, with confiscation of property and disenfranchisement for five years."

Thus was concluded a judicial investigation which was somewhat in the nature of a great public show for two weeks.

As each defendant confessed his crimes he spoke into a microphone and his words were broadcast throughout the vast expanse of the country. Movie cameras recorded his facial expressions at the same time. Those inside listened avidly; those outside marched in numerous demonstrations to demand the death of the eight men labeled as traitors.

Supposed Rum Runner Taken for Ride in Indiana

Brazil, Ind., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—An unidentified man, believed to be a rum runner of Danville, Ill., was dying here tonight after he had been thrown from a car near the city. He was found in a ditch with a bullet hole in the temple. About 30 years old, weighing about 200 pounds, he is 6 feet tall and sandy complexioned. His clothing bore the marks of a Danville, Ill., store.

RIDING ON TRAIN CALLED SAFEST PASTIME IN U. S.

The safest place a person can be in the United States is riding as a passenger on a railroad train, Charles E. Hill, general safety agent of the New York Central railroad, yesterday told members of the safety section of the American Railway association at the Palmer house.

"There has been a reduction in the number of deaths to railway employés from 3,715 in 1913 to 1,302 in 1929, or a decrease of 65 per cent," he said. "The number of deaths to passengers has decreased from 350 in 1913 to 114 in 1929. Of the deaths occurring last year 78 were from causes over which the railroad had no control. Last year the railroads carried nearly nine hundred million passengers, seven and a half times the population of the country."

E. G. Evans, superintendent of safety of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, told members that railroad crossings cause only 8.7 per cent of the traffic fatalities during a year. "The crossing accidents have remained constant during the last four years," he said, "despite a 20.4 per cent increase in vehicle registration."

SEIZE MACHINE GUNS, ARREST 2 IN MINNEAPOLIS

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Two persons were arrested and submachine guns, sawed-off shotguns, tear gas bombs, and other weapons, the property of what police believe is a "gun mob" which has been holding up and robbing banks in Minnesota and other states, were seized tonight in a raid on a furnished apartment.

A man and a young woman, both well dressed, were arrested. They refused to answer questions and were placed in solitary confinement. Detectives said the weapons and the two persons held may be connected with the bandits who this afternoon robbed the State bank of Vernon Center, Minn., of $1,777.

Police refused to give the location of the apartment. They intimated a tip about the apartment had been received from a woman.

COMMONS LISTS LONG STRING OF SOVIET MISDEEDS

Assails Government for Failure to Act.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 8.—Foreign Secretary Henderson spent an uncomfortable half hour in the house of commons today while the conservative opposition twitted the labor government about the continual state of protest the British find themselves in over the deeds and misdeeds of Russia.

The wide stretch of Anglo-Russian relations was traversed before the attempt to obtain a promise of sterner action by the foreign secretary was dissipated. The trial of eight professors at Moscow on charges of treason, broadcasts of propaganda in English for British listeners, dumping of Russian products, and accusations in the Lena gold fields trial were brought up. But the only satisfaction obtained was Mr. Henderson's statement that he was still considering the Kremlin's reply to his protest against charges against the British government in conjunction with the convicted plotters.

Fail to Find Dumping Decree.

The British ambassador's attempt to lay hands on an alleged decree ordering soviet manufacturers to turn out quantities of commodities for dumping abroad only resulted in the discovery that such instructions were ordered, Mr. Henderson said. "As far as it is known, no decree was drafted.

The conservatives then pounced on the Moscow trial. Mr. Henderson faced their taunts with the soviet reply that the accused could not be restrained from making full statements of their activities, even if they implicated the British government in plots to overthrow the soviet.

Still Considering Matter.

"As neither the examining authority nor the court can deprive the accused of the right to make such confessions as they consider necessary, the prosecutor naturally based his indictment upon the confessions," the Russians replied to the British representations. "The government has not expressed any views on these references to England."

Sir Austen Chamberlain wanted to know whether Mr. Henderson was letting the matter drop, and the foreign secretary replied:

"I must consider the matter."

He then quoted the verbal reply given to the British ambassador to Moscow, Sir Esmond Ovey, when he carried out another mission of protest involving the propaganda broadcasts. The Russian answer, he said, was:

"What can we do? The broadcast was made by a station in control of the trade unions and not supervised by the soviet government. Even if the broadcast contained propaganda, it was anti-war propaganda, against which the British government can hardly have anything to say. Nevertheless, at the time the union central committee was given the right to broadcast, no messages of this nature were contemplated, and taking into consideration Mr. Henderson's declaration as to the undesirability of such broadcasts, in the future it will be impressed that no such messages should be transmitted."

Report Envoy "Tried" in Embassy.

LONDON, Dec. 8.—(AP)—The Daily Mail says that G. I. Sokolnikov, soviet ambassador to Great Britain, has been tried at the London embassy on a charge of detaining three couriers who were sent to return him to Moscow. The trial body, said the paper, was a special commission of the soviet foreign control section, sent from Moscow, which has not yet promulgated its sentence.

On Nov. 26 the same paper told of Sokolnikov seizing three agents of the ogpu [soviet secret police], but the press bureau of the embassy later denied it.

HOOVER ASKS 150 MILLIONS MORE FOR FARM BOARD

Says Money Required for 'Important Operations.'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—President Hoover today transmitted to the house of representatives a formal request for the immediate appropriation of another 150 million dollars to the federal farm board from its 500 million dollar revolving fund. The money is needed, he said, "in order that important operations of the board, now in prospect, may be carried through promptly."

The President pointed out in his letter of transmittal that the proposed 150 million dollar appropriation was included in the estimate of expenditures before congress and does not increase the estimated treasury deficit.

Total 400 Millions.

Compliance of congress with the President's request will place at the disposal of the farm board a total of 400 million dollars, as 250 millions already have been appropriated. It is contemplated that the remaining 100 millions be made available for use in the fiscal year 1932 by the regular farm board appropriation bill to be passed the latter part of the present session, thus giving the board its entire 500 millions on July 1, 1931.

Under the terms of the agricultural marketing act, the revolving fund is used for loans to coöperative and stabilization groups which revert into the farm board fund upon repayment. The theory of the law is that the fund will renew itself, giving the board permanent working capital without a drain on the treasury in the future unless the fund is increased by congress.

May Buy More Wheat.

While no official statement was made concerning the operations "now in prospect," it is generally understood that a large part of the additional appropriations will be used for further outlays for the stabilization of wheat prices.

Chairman Alexander Legge, while refusing to predict the future stabilization program of the board, expressed satisfaction today with the effect of its recent wheat buying upon the market. The American price is being maintained on a level of 20 cents a bushel higher than the world market, he said, largely due to the farm board operations.

The board's stabilization corporation now holds approximately 110 million bushels of wheat, sixty million bushels of which it has pledged to keep off the market. No pledge is attached to the other fifty million bushels.

Sees Wheat Price Maintained.

Asked today if he thought the domestic price of wheat will go down Mr. Legge replied emphatically: "No, sir, I do not." He added that wheat prices cannot be advanced much higher at this time without importations from Canada despite the tariff.

Mr. Legge was gratified over a report made today by the bureau of agricultural economics of the department of agriculture estimating that a total of 236 million bushels of wheat will be fed to live stock this crop year as compared with 90 million last year. Mr. Legge said he thought the 236 million bushels conservative.

The supply of wheat for the 1930-'31 season is estimated to be 1,115 million bushels, the bureau report stated. Allowing for the indicated amount to be fed to live stock, for seed requirements, for 500 million bushels to be manufactured into flour for domestic use, and for seventy million bushels already exported, a balance of 240 million bushels would be available for export during the remainder of this season and for carryover into the next, the report said.

BUSINESS DEPRESSION SOON WILL VANISH, C. C. TEAGUE PREDICTS

Boston, Mass., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Charles C. Teague, member of the federal farm board, in an address prepared for delivery before the American Farm Bureau federation, today expressed confidence that the business depression "cannot last long."

Teague, reviewing events leading to the economic situation, said "confidence was shaken to such a degree that there has been a general depression far more widespread than the conditions warrant. Confidence plays an important part in the prosperity of the country. Our business structure has never been sounder. The great body of our people are working and at good wages. I am, therefore, confident that this depression cannot last long; already there are signs of better times."

The federal farm board, up to Nov. 7, 1930, had loaned to farm organizations, Teague said, a total of $303,347,000, of which $119,900,000 had been repaid, leaving outstanding $183,446,000.

To five of seven marketing associations created through the efforts of the farm board, Teague said, 52 loans have been made, aggregating $102,364,000. The group consisted of the Farmers' National Grain corporation, the American Cotton Coöperative association, the National Live Stock Marketing association, the National Wool Marketing corporation, and the National Pecan Marketing association.

BIDS ON ILLINOIS WATERWAY SOON WILL BE ASKED

U. S. Engineers Draft Specifications.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—Bids for the construction of several units of the Illinois waterway between Utica and Joliet may be asked by the war department within the next two weeks, it was disclosed today. Specifications on which contracts would be based have been prepared in the office of the chief of engineers and will be advertised, according to present plans, as soon as the Hoover emergency unemployment bill is approved by congress and the waterway is formally taken over by the government.

Congressional approval of the Hoover program, which includes $22,500,000 for rivers and harbors work, is expected within the next week or ten days. Of this fund the war department expects to use upwards of a million dollars on the Joliet-Utica link of the lakes to the gulf route prior to July 1, when funds for this work should be available from the regular river and harbor appropriations. It is understood the first contracts will obligate the government to an eventual expenditure of $3,000,000.

Notwithstanding numerous conferences between war department and state officials, as well as several exchanges of correspondence, no agreement has been reached on which the government is willing formally to take over the waterway as a federal project. The law authorizing $7,500,000 for completion of the Illinois waterways as a federal project stipulates that the state of Illinois shall construct or alter highway bridges over the waterway and maintain them. It also stipulates that the United States shall not assume any contractual obligations which may have been or may be entered into by the state of Illinois in connection with development of the waterway.

The war department takes the position that before it can assume federal jurisdiction and utilize any of the $7,500,000 fund appropriated for government construction the state must give satisfactory assurances that it will and can complete the bridges

HYDE WILLING TO FEED FARM HORSE BUT NOT FARMER

Fights Food Loans in Drought Relief Bill.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—The administration today launched an attack upon proposals to include food loans in drought relief legislation.

Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde issued a statement asserting that loans for human food approach "perilously near the dole system." He approved the granting of loans to drought sufferers for seed, feed for work animals and fertilizer.

The Hyde statement came on the eve of consideration of the drought relief loan bill in congress. A report from the senate committee on agriculture favoring a $60,000,000 loan fund for food as well as for seed, feed, fertilizer and fuel, was filed with the senate today by Senator Charles L. McNary [Rep., Ore.], the chairman. A report from the house committee on agriculture, favoring a $30,000,000 loan fund for the purposes specified other than food loans, was filed with the house by Representative Gilbert N. Haugen [Rep., Ia.], the committee chairman.

Minority Report Filed.

A minority report signed by Representative James B. Aswell [Dem., Ia.] and others favoring a $60,000,000 appropriation and food loans also was filed.

Senate leaders hope to call up the McNary bill in the senate tomorrow. It is possible that the Haugen bill will be taken up in the house tomorrow immediately after the passage of the 110 million dollar emergency construction fund bill, which is to have the right of way.

"I have heretofore expressed approval of the principle of the proposed federal loans to farmers who have suffered severely from the drought, provided such loans are limited to the purpose of purchasing seed, feed for work animals, and fertilizer," said Secretary Hyde. "Loans made for such purposes provide the stricken farmer with the means of starting his agricultural operations anew.

"There are a great many objections to the government making loans for human food. From a national point of view this latter class of loans approaches perilously near the dole system and would be a move in the wrong direction.

Road Jobs Provided.

"Under the relief plans proposed by the administration a very large sum will be made available for road work, for rivers and harbors, and other purposes in the drought states. The road work especially has been proposed with the object in view of giving the farmers an opportunity to find employment during the winter and thus provide for themselves food and clothing. To include loans for human food in the federal drought relief bill would remove the occasion for an increase in the highway work in the states.

"The Red Cross has undertaken to take care of all cases of distress."

Secretary Hyde said that food loans would "in the long run be doing great injury to the agricultural industry."

Senator McNary in his report to the senate said that "there would appear to be greater justification for relief legislation this year by the federal congress than on any other previous occasion."

"It is believed," he added, "that an appropriation of $60,000,000 will be necessary to make advances to farmers along the lines of such loans made in previous years and to include food in the commodities that may be purchased."

DEMOCRATS LOOK FOR REAL FUSS IN MAYOR PRIMARY

Party Chiefs' Love Feast Ends in Failure.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Prospects for a free-for-all battle for the Democratic nomination for mayor grew more definite yesterday following the week-end peace conference at Waukesha between County Chairman A. J. Cermak, Michael L. Igoe, national committeeman, and others.

The Wisconsin confab got no further on the mayoralty than did the steamroom convocation at Hot Springs, Ark. It left the organization leaders talking louder than ever that a fight at the primaries would be a good thing for the Democratic party to hold it together and on its tiptoes, and that to have two or three contenders or more in the field would be better than to make the February race a one man show.

Four Possible Candidates.

No avowals of candidacies have been forthcoming as yet from the leading prospectives, who have been saying that early lightning rods run the hazard of short circuiting, but yesterday the chieftains remarked that the following look at present like probable starters: Mr. Cermak, Mr. Igoe, Recorder Clayton Smith, and Ald. John S. Clark.

Headquarters leaders are expectant that at least three of these four may toss in their hats. There is another string of possibilities, including Coroner Herman Bundesen, Judge Henry Horner, Carter H. Harrison, William L. O'Connell, Judge John P. McGoorty, Judge Joseph Sabath, Judge Denis E. Sullivan, and Col. A. A. Sprague. Of these the leaders deem one or two may start.

Reports yesterday were that Col. Sprague, who is away on a trip, will not enter the primaries. This was regarded as strengthening the possibility that Mr. Igoe will get into the running, as he had said he would support Col. Sprague if the latter were a candidate.

Tobacco Smoke and Talk.

The day before Christmas is the first day for filing. By then the headquarters talk is that perhaps three candidates will have come out, with more possibly in sight. Meanwhile the headquarters' air is filled with tobacco smoke and talk that too much harmony clogs the machinery and a snappy but quasi-friendly struggle will keep the battlers in form. At Republican headquarters reports that the Democrats may go to the mat is received with three rousing cheers.

The patronage distribution is going rather slowly and the chairs at the party hangouts are being kept warm by job hunters. After yesterday's conference it was said William Rothman is likely to be made chief attorney of the sanitary district, supplanting Walter E. Beebe, who is to be retained as special counsel in the water diversion case. Mr. Beebe is a Deneen Republican, while Mr. Rothman, a Democrat, has had years of legal association with Roy O. West, Republican national committeeman, and Senator Deneen's closest political friend.

Lyle Petitions Started.

On the Republican side of the house petitions appeared to place the name of Judge John H. Lyle on the primary ballot for Republican nomination for mayor.

"While I appreciate the enthusiasm of my friends," said Judge Lyle last night, "nevertheless I have thus far not authorized the printing or circulation of any petition for me for mayor."

A report was revived also that Emil C. Wetten is on the brink of announcing himself a candidate for mayor in the Republican primaries.

Headquarters of Charles V. Barrett announced last night that Max Shulman, president of the Community State bank and regional chairman of the Zionist organization of America, is to be chairman of the Jewish organization in the Barrett movement.

Languid on Convention Plan.

Local legislators appeared to evince languid interest in the movement for a constitutional convention broached by Representative Frederick W. Rench of Buda in a letter to the Citizens' association and in the association's reply. Cook county house leaders pointed out that the proposed convention, which was beaten in December, 1922, after a convention had spent two years and eight months upon it, was defeated twenty to one in Cook county because it limited Cook county's representation in the state senate, and was beaten more than two to one downstate largely on account of its revenue and taxation provisions.

JOBS GIVEN 3,200 FAMILY HEADS BY GETZ COMMITTEE

Emmerson Hears Report of Commission.

Certificates Today

The first of the citizens' merchandise certificates, designed to stimulate the buying habit and send a flow of money into the cash registers of the merchants for the encouragement of better times, will be circulated in Chicago today.

Jacob M. Loeb and his committee who are putting the plan in operation will meet for the first time today at 1 South La Salle street to begin a campaign to convince Cook county employers and individuals to give bonuses and gifts of money in the form of these gift certificates. The certificates will be redeemable in merchandise and will be honored throughout the county.

The first of the certificates will be issued today from the headquarters of the committee. They resemble a certified check and are signed by Mr. Loeb. On the reverse side is a list of accredited stores and a note stating that the certificate will be honored by any other stores in the county which choose to redeem it. Also there is this explanation:

"This is a gift certificate and should not be given as 'relief' which would interfere with the governor's commission on unemployment and relief."

Gov. Emmerson met here yesterday with the members of his commission on unemployment and learned what was being done to bring relief to Chicago's army of 132,000 jobless, what is being undertaken at present, and what measures will be needed in order to provide food, clothing, shelter, and employment for the destitute throughout the remainder of the winter.

George F. Getz, chairman of the commission, and his staff of Chicago business and professional men who have locked up shop in order to devote their time to relief work, made their first comprehensive report presenting the situation confronting the city and state.

$1,675,000 in Relief Fund.

Philip R. Clarke, chairman of the money raising committee in the drive for the $5,000,000 relief fund, reported that total contributions yesterday reached $1,675,000, representing approximately one-third of the amount sought. The day's receipts totaled $139,000, which included a $100,000 gift from Northwestern university in anticipation of the receipts from next year's football game between Northwestern and Notre Dame.

Following is a résumé of Mr. Getz's report of the commission's activities:

Number of destitute registered	44,000
Family heads given employment and paid from relief fund	3,200
Appropriations	$1,265,000
Disbursements to agencies	$193,757
Shelters for men and women	30
Lodgings given men	235,084
Meals given men	340,021
State communities contacted	234
Pairs of shoes distributed	6,000
Garments distributed	6,978

Britton I. Budd, chairman of the work committee, urged in his report that all employers aid the work of the commission by spreading their employment capacity and advancing construction and repair work so that it may be done at the present time instead of waiting until next spring.

Mr. Budd said that an effort was being made to interest Washington officials in doing government repair work in this region at the present time, and that the postoffice department had been asked to readjust its personnel so that more men could be employed in Chicago.

Louis E. Myers, chairman of the shelter committee, estimated that between 15,000 and 20,000 meals and places of lodging will have to be provided daily before the winter is over. Housing of women does not constitute a serious problem, he said, only 587 having registered so far. Armories made available for shelter will not be used save in emergency, he said.

The budg t committee's financial statement s owed what was being done with the money collected by public solicitation. Appropriations for the various agencies are increased as new collections are made, so that the budget is continually expanded to correspond with the relief funds on hand. The report, prepared by Frank D. Loomis, secretary, follows:

	Appropriations.	Expended.
Special work fund	$260,000	$100,000
Shelter fund	250,000	5,000
Family relief fund	947,679	88,757
Coal fund	37,608	.....
Milk fund	12,000	.....
Total	$1,507,278	$193,757

George G. Fitchie, chairman of the committee on labor, told the commission that great numbers of jobless men failed to register in the commission's city-wide survey. He estimated that some 90,000 in the building trades alone were without work. Efforts are being made, however, to care for the jobless within the trades and associations.

Dr. Benjamin Squires, head of the job placement committee, reported that of the 132,000 registered unemployed 41,000 were turned over to the various agencies for attention and 90,000 were directed to the free employment agencies. Of the latter number, however, jobs were found for only 4,700, he said. Unless more jobs can be found for the larger group, he declared, another campaign for funds will be necessary to care for those without work.

Finance Drive Disappointing.

Mr. Clarke declared that the relief campaign was the most difficult drive launched in Chicago since the world war. The $5,000,000 sought by the commission, he said, is in addition to the $8,000,000 required annually by the regular charitable organizations for normal relief work. He declared that response to the campaign was discouraging. Returns for last week are particularly disappointing, he said, contributions totaling only about $500,000, of which practically half came from a single division of the soliciting force.

The most optimistic report was read by Wayne Hummer, chairman of the state committee, who said that, generally speaking, conditions in Illinois outside of Cook county are not serious.

James Keeley, chairman of the executive committee, pointed out that the $5,000,000 fund needed to tide over the next six months amounted to $190,000 a week for 130,000 unemployed, of whom 44,000 are in need of immediate assistance.

WIDOW OF 3 NAVAL OFFICERS, DIVORCED FROM 4TH, WEDS 5TH

Elizabethtown, N. Y., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Mrs. Golda Munroe Morrison Burdick Nixon Kenyon today was married to her fifth husband, who, like the other four, was a naval officer. The fifth husband is Commander Charles C. Gill.

The marriage was performed by the Rev. James Frazer, pastor of the Congregational church of this village. The Gills came here in company with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hubbard of Westport, near here, who are friends of the bride. The license was issued by Town Clerk William H. Barton. The bride made her application under the name of Mrs. Warren H. Nixon.

Mrs. Gill is the daughter of James M. Munroe, an Annapolis, Md., attorney. Her first husband was Lieut. Donald Morrison, killed in an explosion aboard a destroyer. She then married Lieut. Harold F. Burdick, who died. Her third husband, Lieut. Warren Nixon, died in 1923. In 1924 she married Commander George W Kenyon, a marriage which was dissolved by divorce.

Commander Gill, a graduate of the Annapolis academy, class of 1907, is an author of books on naval affairs, a member of the Army and Navy club of Washington, the New York Yacht club, and the Racquet club of Philadelphia.

ITALY DEMANDS GUNS OF 200,000 ON SLAV BORDER

Shooting of Customs Man Angers Rome.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Dec. 8.—Acting on orders direct from Rome the prefect of the province of Gorizia, which lies along the frontier of Jugo-Slavia, today gave the inhabitants 24 hours to surrender to the authorities arms, ammunition, an' explosives of every description.

At the expiration of the 24 hours authorities warn they will conduct a careful search for hidden arms. Heavy penalties will be inflicted on those who have ignored the summons. Officials are busy spreading the word to remote villages in the hilly country, which during the great war was the battleground for the Italians and Austrians.

Italy Probes Shooting.

The sudden interest of the government in arms in Gorizia is a result of certain discoveries made by secret agents, who investigated the killing of a customs man from ambush close to the frontier last week. They found the spot from where the shot had been fired was at such a distance that only a rifle with a telescopic sight could have been used. Such a rifle was the pride of the Austrian soldier.

Practicaly half of the 200,000 inhabitants of the province are Slovenes, some of whom, authorities allege, have apparently been listening to the blandishments of their brother Jugo-Slavs. Many of the residents wore Austrian uniforms in the war.

Italian Arms Surrendered.

The Italian war equipment was registered years ago and all explosives were turned in. To possess arms in Italy one must possess a permit. Apparently in Gorizia, these regulations have been ignored, and now all arms must be given up and will only be reissued to those who can prove their loyalty.

The home they longed to own was up for sale

THEY had thought of buying a home ever since they'd been married.

Then came an offer of a house—the home of their dreams—on terms almost too good to be true.

Just a thousand dollars for the down payment.

At The Northern Trust Company, a few dollars at a time, they had been building an "Opportunity Account." It totaled something over the realtor's figure.

So today the baby is ensconced in his own back yard in the suburbs.

And another "Opportunity Account" is building—this one to send baby Jim through college.

A Gift for her and a way to buy... your pocketbook will scarcely feel

Our Special Christmas Offer makes it so easy to purchase a General Electric Refrigerator

THE General Electric Refrigerator as a gift for her is, above all things, the practical, sensible present for Christmas in 1930. In these times, money should be spent, even for gifts, on something that will bring lasting happiness instead of for luxuries and trifles that are gone and forgotten in a few days or weeks.

This supreme gift, distinguished for its record of performance and its modern beauty of design, will ease the burden of her daily tasks 365 days a year, for many years to come.

And it is easy for you to give her a General Electric Refrigerator. With our convenient time payment plan, a few dollars in cash—a very few dollars—will deliver one on or before Christmas Eve. You pay nothing more until February 1, 1931.

Within the Monitor Top of the General Electric Refrigerator its entire mechanism is hermetically sealed—protected from air, dirt and moisture with impregnable walls of steel. It never even needs oiling. So utterly dependable, so extraordinarily efficient is the mechanism of the Monitor Top that the cost of operation is but a few cents a day.

A gift of beauty, of luxury, of convenience, usefulness, economy—what a glorious gift for a woman to receive! What an ideal gift for you to select as an expression of true regard!

Come in. Let us explain our special Christmas offer. There's a display room near you. Consult the list below:

SALLY'S BUREAU RECEIVES OFFERS OF 3,176 JOBS

Most Calls for Domestic Workers.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Every time Sally Joy Brown looks outside her office door at the jobless workers waiting to learn of any possible position open to them, she feels a bit futile about her efforts to alleviate the unemployment situation. Yesterday, however, she discovered cause for cheer on surveying her records kept since she began her campaign to find work for those who hadn't been able to find any for themselves. Since Oct. 18, with the help of TRIBUNE readers, she has handled 3,176 requests for workers.

All of the jobs listed were reported to Miss Brown by readers of this newspaper. All but those received during the first few days of her activities have been turned over to the Illinois Free Employment service, 116 North Dearborn street, which provides workers to fill the jobs. Of the total 2,357 were jobs for women, 795 were for men, and the remaining 21 were for married couples, considered as one position.

Seek Groups of Workers.

"We had several calls for groups of people," reported Sally. "One factory called one day for 35 women—bindery work, I believe it was. Another firm handling cosmetics called for 100 salespeople, fifty women and fifty men.

"By far the largest number of jobs in any one class was in that of the domestics. We have had calls for 1,557 women to do housework, ranging from no salary at all—where people hoped to get some one to do their work in exchange for room and board—to $30 a week. Many of the women were extremely hard pressed, but not more than a few consented to work without salary. They couldn't afford to.

"Odd jobs for men, which we labeled domestic because they were around homes and for the most part temporary, were not so numerous—only 93 in all. We need this kind of work badly for the men who simply must have something to do.

More Jobs for Salesmen.

"More salesmen's jobs were reported for men than any other class. We have had 362 opportunities for men who can sell, and we have also been asked for 226 saleswomen. The majority of these places were paying a straight salary, but there were also a large number that paid only a commission, yet these were quickly accepted. We were surprised to find how many were willing to work on that basis, and depend on their own ability for their compensation.

"Factories asked us for 155 workers in all, 129 women and 26 men. These jobs have been more numerous of late. They outranked office work, for which there were 86 calls for women and 32 for men. We have had places offered to 31 carpenters, 15 upholsterers, and as many laborers.

"When it comes to saying how many of these places have been filled, that is impossible to gauge, because the employment service sends out a man or woman on each call, but has no way of following it up to make sure the place is filled. From the number of people who have called back to tell us they were much pleased with the applicants sent, and those who have come back a second time looking for help, we are satisfied the percentage has been gratifyingly high."

Tells How Service Helps.

Verification of the effectiveness of Sally Joy Brown's service was given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Lilla H. Walter, head of the women's division of the Illinois Free Employment service.

"It's been of tremendous value to us," she declared. "We have had so many more jobs to offer since it opened, and so many people have called in to offer jobs because they became familiar with our office through THE TRIBUNE columns. During October, our division registered 4,382 women, received 1,721 opportunities for employment, and placed 1,530. In November we had 4,035 registrants, 1,983 opportunities, and placed 1,765 women, which is a much better record. A large percentage of those jobs came to us from Miss Brown's office."

In November, 9,110 men applied for work at the Illinois Free Employment service. Two thousand seven hundred and eighty places were reported, and 1,883 of those filled. Of that number, 1,043 jobs were given out by the governor's unemployment commission.

Many More Jobs Needed.

From the figures it is apparent how many more jobs for men are needed than are being reported. Sally Joy Brown wants to hear of any available, either permanent or temporary. You can reach her at Superior 0100.

During the week ended Saturday employment conditions in Chicago took a turn for the better, it was announced yesterday by John Keane, general superintendent of the Illinois Free Employment Service. The women and girls' department especially made a good showing, placements totaling 472 as compared to 370 the previous week, and 372 for the same week of 1929.

KELLOGG, IN NORWAY TO GET PEACE PRIZE, SCOFFS AT WAR TALK

OSLO, Norway, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Frank B. Kellogg, former American secretary of state, who arrived here today to receive the Nobel peace prize for 1929, doesn't take much stock in all the talk about a new war in Europe. About other subjects which reporters tried to introduce into the conversation, including prohibition, Mr. Kellogg was uncommunicative, but he opened up on war talk.

"I don't believe in any new European war," he said. "There are many problems in Europe, many of which have already been solved and others of which will be solved."

On the possibility of revising the Versailles treaty and modification of the prohibition law he was firmly silent. He declined to be quoted on Sinclair Lewis, who is to receive the Nobel award for literature. He told reporters he smoked, but did not drink, and gave them a recipe for keeping young—healthful living and sensible eating. When the interview was over Mr. Kellogg said:

"I've said more than I ever said in all the interviews I've submitted to in my whole life as a public man."

Lewis Reaches Sweden.

GOTHENBURG, Sweden, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Sinclair Lewis arrived early today on his way to claim the Nobel prize in literature. Mr. Lewis was in bed when he was stormed by a crowd of reporters and photographers, but readily arose to meet the invaders. He expressed gratification that he had been awarded the Nobel prize, but said the award had brought some unpleasantness.

"Too many people have asked me to support them," he said, "and quite a number have asked me why I got it."

3 Men to Face Firing Squad; Captured After Robbery

Health and Weight!

"If my health is right I know my weight is right"—

says Mrs. Dr. S. Solomon,
2136 Wilson Avenue, Chicago

Physical fitness is not achieved by sudden enthusiasm, but by month-in and month-out watchfulness. That is why I serve two glasses of Welch's to each member of my family every day throughout the year. Here, in their most convenient form, are those essential elements to normal good health.

Mrs. Dr. S. Solomon

Welch's, the family fruit juice, builds health because it abundantly supplies those vital elements necessary in a well balanced daily diet. Experience has proved that it is the ideal year-around tonic food.

Just two glasses a day provide the mineral salts, neutralizing acids and fruit proteins which restore and maintain normal digestive functions. Then weight may go up or down, but inevitably it approaches normal. This simple diet aid, used for years at famous European health resorts, is the natural, normal way to weight control.

Fortunately in Welch's, nature has combined delicious taste with benefits that are far-reaching to every member of the family. In cases of malnutrition it assists in the assimilation of other foods and stimulates the appetite.

Are you overweight? Look to your health. Daily use of Welch's at breakfast, and again at dinner in the evening promotes functional activities which automatically restore weight to normal. Muddy complexions grow rosy and clear. Dull eyes take on a youthful sparkle.

Children especially are fond of Welch's. Diluted with water, it supplies sufficient daily liquids so necessary to active, growing bodies. The easily assimilated mineral salts build strong, white teeth and make rich blood.

Make Welch's, twice daily, a family habit the year around. Always have a supply in your pantry. There is no better form of family health insurance.

Insist on grape juice as processed and pasteurized by Welch's.

Fastest Known Relief

FOR SORE THROAT!

Amazing New "10-Second" Penetrating Germicide Reaches the Germs' Hiding Places in the Mouth and Throat

No need to suffer a sore throat if you'll act in time. At the first sign of any soreness, dryness or tightness, gargle with a solution of 1 part McKesson's Extol and 3 parts of water. Extol is the new antiseptic of new speed and efficacy. Three garglings of one minute each will stop any oncoming case of sore throat or cold in the nose. No need of long and arduous gargling as with other preparations. Extol acts promptly and decisively because of its exceedingly high germicidal strength and penetrative ability.

Best "Ounce of Prevention"

Extol kills germs faster than any ordinary preparation yet known. And it reaches parts that other antiseptics miss. It penetrates the folds and crevices of the mouth and throat. It penetrates the mucous membrane and reaches the germs that lie hidden underneath the outer layer of mucosa. Hence its action is complete and thorough. Extol is the best "ounce of prevention" you can use, but if you have already caught a cold or sore throat, it will relieve it in fast time. Extol is utterly harmless and most delightful to use. Also, it's economical. Costs less than other preparations and, as you can dilute it more liberally, goes further. All McKesson Service Druggists and other independent drug stores sell Extol. Get a bottle today and be forearmed against Winter ills. Note the name. EXTOL—a McKesson and Robbins product.

OFFICIALS TRACE CLEWS TO FATAL BOMB PACKAGE

Postal Man Is Witness at May Death Inquest.

Postal inspectors were convinced yesterday that the bomb which was delivered as a birthday present to Tony May, "millionaire newsboy," and which resulted in fatal injuries to May when he opened it on Sunday, was not sent through the mail. Whoever plotted the death of the newsdealer, who also was a money lender and bond-man, took precautions to make May believe that the parcel had been mailed. It was apparent that the sender expected that the box, wrapping, and stamps would be destroyed by the explosion.

In any event, Police Capt. Thomas Condon, Chief Postal Inspector K. P. Aldrich, and Inspector A. G. Biedenweg said important clews were left after the blast that killed May and injured his 16 year old son, Eugene. Two stamps which were picked up bore cancellation marks of a kind used only on first class mail, and not on parcels. Inspector Biedenweg said they had been used before they were put on the deadly package addressed to May.

Trace Package Label.

The Montgomery Ward & Co. label put on the bomb package had been taken from some bona fide shipment by that concern or had been printed with a toy printing set, the officials told Deputy Coroner Dennis Carroll. The addressing was done either with a typewriter with unusually large type or with a rubber set that could be put in a small hand stamp.

The police expect to be able to trace the source of the lettering. The kind of powder used gave Capt. Condon's men work to do, as the boy Eugene said it looked to him like sulphur.

"We investigated at the postoffice stations and are certain that neither of the two regular mail carriers for this route delivered the box at May's home," Inspector Biedenweg testified at the coroner's inquest at the Augustana hospital, where May died. Capt. Condon later supported this statement.

"The number of stamps supposed to have been on it (six 2¢ cent stamps) would not be the proper amount for a first class mail delivery or for a parcel post delivery if the package weighed a pound, as they said it did," testified Inspector Biedenweg.

Victim's Daughter Testifies.

Deputy Coroner Carroll questioned all the witnesses at the inquest closely regarding the circumstances of the arrival of the bomb. Frances May, 14 year old daughter of the victim, said she discovered the package last Wednesday at the front door of the building at 2109 Lincoln avenue, where May lived on the fourth floor with a housekeeper. His divorced wife, Mrs. Loretta May, and the two children lived on the third floor. The mailman had not blown his whistle that day, the girl said.

Frances took the package upstairs to the third floor, and on Friday night, Mrs. May testified, May telephoned to her about an errand for the boy, and she told him of the arrival of what he thought was a birthday gift from his daughter by a former marriage. Mrs. May said he came downstairs for it and she handed it to him on the landing. She and her former husband were not unfriendly, she testified, and she was living there on an arrangement of free rent in lieu of $8 a week alimony he had paid her for years.

Housekeeper Tells of Bomb.

Mrs. Anna Reinhardt, 45 year old housekeeper for May, said she had seen the package in May's office on Friday morning, but it was believed that she meant Saturday. Eugene and Frances said they had seen the instrument of death in their father's home on Saturday and Sunday when they had visited him. Eugene's curiosity caused the opening of the box and the fatal explosion.

Mrs. Reinhardt said she had been May's housekeeper for eight years and that she had loaned him $6,000. Before the three newsstands May operated, he did a large business in lending money. She recalled that one of May's debtors had been insistent about speaking to him on the telephone and that May had demanded payment.

Lawyers Are Witnesses.

Attorneys Martin Piepenburg and Herman Garfinkel testified that they attended to collections on overdue loans made by May. In two garnishment cases the debtors had cursed May, the lawyers recalled.

Capt. Condon said May's system was to loan $88 and take judgment notes for $100, payable in a year. Payments in less than a year meant no reduction of the debt, he said. He said he had a list of all May's loans and his accounts.

The jury brought in a verdict of murder by a person unknown and directed the police to continue the investigation.

Freed at Last from Stomach and Bowel Misery

"For years and years I suffered stomach and bowel trouble," says Mrs. Alice Tolliette of Lexington, Mass. "Have taken ACIDINE regularly and from all the other medicines I had taken, I never found such relief. It seems wonderful to be free from stomach ache, gas."

Almost everyone who takes ACIDINE says about it. More than two million packages have been sold. It's absolutely amazing the way this new prescription succeeds when other known remedies fail.

ACIDINE is the only known remedy which contains Japtase, that in laboratory tests, digests 800 times its weight of certain heavy, starchy foods which cause trouble. It neutralizes burning acids, soothes irritated stomach linings, ends gassy headaches, sleepiessness and nervousness. No other known remedy contains this combination to end acid stomach. ACIDINE also fortifies you against colds by reducing acidity.

Get ACIDINE today at Walgreen's. Watch how quick acid indigestion, burning stomach, belching, pain, heartburn, dizziness, dullness, short breath vanish. Eat, drink all you want. Maker refunds money if not delighted.

When it's Christmas!

There are brighter eyes and warmer hearts and the whole world seems a better place to live in. Though children be old and gray, they go back over the Old Trail to the family hearth. In the flaming blaze of the logs, in the colored lights of Christmas, age drops away. Again they enjoy with the zest of youth the simple pleasures of the season.

To all those friends of ours—adventurers into little known lands, comrades at home, and families in whose hearts burns a love for outdoor life and sport—to all of you we raise our glass in the old greeting—"A Merry Christmas to you—wherever you are."

Call or send for "The Christmas Trail"—a book of hundreds of gifts.

BY PERMISSION OF THE SENATE.

It is fairly plain that the United States senate seated Mr. Davis, former secretary of labor, not because the state of Pennsylvania elected him, but because the senators preferred him to Mr. Grundy, who otherwise would have remained senator until his successor was qualified. Such a decision does not nullify what may be called the Nye amendment to the constitution. It rather confirms it. It happened that the will of the senate in this case found confirmation in the will of the people of the state. If Mr. Grundy had won the election it apparently would have been invalidated because the Conscript Fathers do not like Mr. Grundy as a senator. They have no objection to him as a lobbyist.

They may not particularly like Mr. Davis. It is easily seen how there might be a difference of opinion on that point, but Mr. Nye has not yet brought his system of government to the stage desired. When he has done so the senate will not be so restricted as to have to choose between two men or to pick one of several. It will appoint in case it does not like the election.

BALTIC CO-OPERATION.

The news, relayed by Donald Day, TRIBUNE correspondent at Riga, that Latvia and Lithuania have signed trade and other agreements is welcome indication of a movement toward coöperation among the Baltic states. There is nothing that seems to us more evident in the eastern European situation than the need for a strong alliance among the new Baltic nations. A jealous separatism will be fatal to their independence, not conducive to it. They are suffering from the tendency, which afflicts Europe generally, to emphasize differences, whereas for the sake of their own security and progress they ought to be building upon their common needs and interests a strong system of mutual aid and coöperation. Instead of squabbling over lesser concerns they ought to realize before it is too late the paramount fact of their interdependence.

Mr. Day believes that this truth is beginning to dawn upon the statesmen of the Baltic states and that a Baltic entente is being envisaged. We think a federation ought to be established in due time, and the sooner the better. But if that is now premature, there should be persistent effort to strengthen friendly relations and to establish a strong and practical organization for mutual defense. In this development both Sweden and Poland should play a helpful rôle, and they will if their diplomacy takes the long view. All of these countries are menaced, potentially at least, both internally and externally, by the Russian communist power.

Meanwhile we suggest that a study of early American history and especially of the formation of the American nation from the original colonies would be helpful to Baltic statesmen. There are obstructions to Baltic union which did not exist in our situation, but we had to resolve differences of considerable importance. Yet these difficulties were overcome because American practical sense and genius for government held firmly to the major considerations on behalf of union. And this union, tested repeatedly, has withstood all centrifugal forces, has approved itself in long experience and is today indissoluble. The Baltic states have everything to gain by strong federation, if not unification. They have everything to lose by failing to achieve it. To postpone its accomplishment is to retard their progress and to perpetuate their insecurity.

A SILLY SLANDER.

The Baptist, a church paper, warns the American people that our government is engaged in propaganda to prepare them to accept armed intervention in China. The Baptist alleges that gunboats hundreds of miles in the interior of China are reported every few days to have been attacked by parties described as communists and asserts that "the thing is methodically done with a view to stirring all the prejudices and fears of the American people. It is war propaganda."

Do American citizens of the Baptist persuasion support an editorship capable of evolving and seriously putting forth as arrant a piece of nonsense as this? The attacks on gunboats and other craft on the Yangtse are well authenticated facts. The American gunboats are in China to give protection, not merely to missionaries, which the Baptist seems to resent, but to American citizens lawfully in China, whether missionaries or merely laymen. They have saved many lives and will be kept in China as long as China is incapable of providing the reasonable protection which international law calls for. The Baptist accuses the President and the navy department of keeping them in China to inflame American opinion, which is equivalent to saying that the President and the secretary of the navy are hypocrites and scoundrels, a charge disclosing a state of mind in the Baptist's editorship which lacks as much of Christian spirit as of common sense.

The Baptist article is an interesting revelation of the morale and mentality of a certain sort of clerical which Christian laity will not suffer if it would retain for the churches the respect of intelligent minds.

MR. LINDSEY GOES TO CHURCH.

Ben Lindsey, known to some as a marriage tinker, managed somehow to insert himself into the service of morning worship at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in New York City Sunday. It seems to have been apprehended by Bishop Manning and others of ecclesiastical authority on the premises that Mr. Lindsey might undertake a penetration of the cathedral, and four uniformed men outside and six plain clothes men inside were stationed to take measures in case he did.

The thought that Mr. Lindsey might attend may have arisen from the fact that Bishop Manning had been widely announced to discuss the Colorado ex-judge's views of matrimony. There already having been a row in the diocese over this, enlivened by the bishop's forbidding clerical attendance at the Lindsey lecture, it was not unreasonable to expect further developments anywhere there was a chance. The bishop, with a full house expectant of his word, laid into Mr. Lindsey in a fashion which the latter regards, it is said, as libelous. (It will help here if it be understood that "jedge" is used hereafter as indicating ex-judge. No disrespect is intended. Exing is an awkward business. The language would be more facile if there were words to reveal in themselves that a personage has been something which he is not.) The jedge heard himself described as a thing which would do the American home no good and, as the bishop appeared to be concluding his remarks, leaped upon the press table under the episcopal nose and demanded five minutes in reply. The bishop raised his voice in prayer, the more resolute of the congregation arose to arms, the plain clothes men bore down upon the scene and the jedge was torn from his moorings, although not limb from limb, and in a confusion of the simple outcries and expletives of the laiety cast out of the place of worship and turned over to the law.

The jedge, when civil authority has settled whatever score it has against him, may do himself a bit of lawing against the bishop, but the affair is unlikely again to get anything like as good as it was when the worshipers arose to take the jedge from the pulpit grill work, piece by piece if necessary.

If any one should seek an explanation of such modern ecclesiastical phenomena it may be found most easily in the new article of church furniture—the press table.

MACHINERY FOR THE ARMY.

The general staff of the army has been commendably eager to study the possibilities of new machines which will provide heavier fire and a more rapid advance on the battlefield at less risk to our men. Tanks, armored trucks, self-propelled cannon which can advance with the infantry are some of the devices which have been examined and adopted tentatively. There is a growing realization that the United States, as the world's most powerful industrial nation, is better equipped than any other to build the new machines in quantity and to man them with a minimum of special training.

Three or four generations ago, when the greater part of the population lived on farms, the farm-trained boy did not have to be taught how to care for a horse or how to ride. His training for the cavalry or artillery began in early childhood. Today our population, whether urban or rural, is similarly trained for fighting with mechanized weapons. No other nation starts with such a fund of knowledge of the building, maintenance and operation of automotive equipment.

The general staff is aware of the military value of that knowledge, but the staff has gone as far as it can toward mechanization, considering the means at its disposal. It is for congress to do the rest. The army has adopted certain types of machines as standard equipment, but unless it is given the money to purchase these machines in reasonable quantity there can be little practice with the new weapons and little experience to guide the war department in procuring them when the need arises. The consequence will be that time and lives will be lost in determining the tactical values of the mechanized weapons as well as in converting our factories to their manufacture.

Congress should appropriate liberally for the new equipment. The expenditure of a few million dollars now may be the means of preventing needless slaughter of American soldiers and hastening the victory of American arms.

THE ACHIEVEMENTS OF WOMEN.
[New York World.]

We are pained, we must confess, whenever we read about something like this dinner which Lady Astor will give to thirty-six celebrated women because "I think women had a simply wonderful year. Nearly everything valuable that was done was done by women, and it has not been half recognized—not a quarter recognized, in fact." And the reason for our distaste is not that it awards women too much but that it awards them too little; it implies that up to a short time ago what they had done that was valuable was nothing. This is so naïve, so smug, so insensible to the whole point of human existence that it utterly flabbergasts us.

When you come to analyze what it means you find it is this: That women had a simply wonderful year at doing things usually done by men. Proof of this can be found in the roster of Lady Astor's guests; they include a lady aviator, a lady scientist, a lady politician, and so on. But for the sex to take pride in this is as silly as for men to take pride in some gentleman who can do embroideries, or another who can nurse sick people, or another who can bake cakes. The gender of those who perform all such services varies from century to century, and from country to country, and matters not at all; the only thing of importance about them is how well they are performed.

There is a realm, to be sure, where men function as men and women as women. But it has very nebulous boundaries, and involves such things as manners, taste, dress and general culture. If men are more boorish now than they used to be, then they have slipped back; if women are more informed, better dressed, more urbane in their address, and thus more charming, they have gone ahead. But here we are on ground where ideas differ, and where conclusions cannot be drawn by partly checking off the valuable things that have been done and inviting the thirty-six women who have done them to dinner. Indeed, we are up against an appraisal of civilization itself, and not many are equipped to tackle it.

MENINGITIS TIME HERE.

In recent years infections of the brain and spinal cord and their membranes seem to be becoming more numerous. It may be that we are developing some new diseases of these structures. It almost seems that when one crack is stopped the old barrel springs a leak somewhere else. We never heard of epidemic encephalitis until about war time and it seems probable that before that there was no such disease. Epidemic meningitis is only about one hundred years old, so far as the record shows; and poliomeyelitis, or infantile paralysis, is much more youthful.

Our interest just now is in epidemic meningitis because we are approaching the season of its greatest prevalence. All summer long it has been far too much in evidence. It is unlike infantile paralysis, in which latter disease a local epidemic acts as a Passover to protect that community during one or a few succeeding seasons. Epidemic meningitis is like a snowball. It grows as it rolls. There having been much for the season last summer, there is more now as the winter approaches, and the peak will be reached about March.

Should next March be cold and wet we will have trouble with epidemic meningitis and we had better begin planning now. For instance, the unemployed are being housed in large barracks, storerooms, and similar places. Many are sleeping in one room. In many cases these rooms have bunks arranged in tiers. Some are heated by stoves. Since the space is fully occupied and the ventilation is by windows we can be certain the windows will be closed and the cracks will be chinked. In such circumstances the number of meningitis carriers is certain to multiply greatly.

There will be many cases, but they are not so very dangerous. The greater danger will come from the horde of carriers and this danger will be at its maximum about the time winter merges into early spring.

For the benefit, especially of parents, let us add that while epidemic meningitis principally affects men around twenty years of age, children are in danger of having it. If a sick child lies on his side, curled up, and complains of pain when his neck is bent, meningitis should be suspected. Pain in the back and legs, headache, vomiting, double vision are other symptoms which suggest epidemic meningitis.

HOW MUCH WATER!

Miss S. R. D. writes:

1. How many glasses of water should one drink a day if engaged in a sedentary occupation?
2. Is water fattening?
3. Can it help to keep one slender?
4. Why is it highly recommended by beauty technicians?
5. Does drinking large quantities of water ever do harm?

REPLY.

1. Say five a day, though much depends on how much soup, coffee, and milk you get and something depends on the amount of moisture in the air.
2. No.
3. No.
4. Possibly because drinking an abundance of water tends to prevent constipation.
5. Yes. People with heart and kidney disease limit their drinking to prevent being water logged. Some think that epileptics do better if they do not drink much water.

DEPOSITS ON TEETH.

C. M. S. writes: What is the cause of teeth becoming calcified? Is there anything that can be done about it?

REPLY.

Teeth are naturally calcified. Do you mean to ask what is the cause of calculus or lime deposits on the teeth? Such deposits are composed of food remnants, bacteria, lime, and other minerals derived from the saliva and from the blood. The principal causes are failure to keep the teeth and mouth clean, pyorrhea, and the presence of dentures.

PENNY IN STOMACH.

Mrs. J. L. M. writes: My 4 year old child swallowed a penny one year ago. She has a pain in her stomach and vomits occasionally. Will an X-ray picture show whether the penny is still in her? If it is, what shall we do?

REPLY.

X-ray pictures should show the penny if it is still in the abdomen. They would show its location.

Let a surgeon decide what to do, if anything, on the basis of what the pictures show and on whether or not there is an obstruction.

STOP AND GO LIGHTS.

Chicago, Dec. 3. — [Friend of the People.]—Can anything be done about having stop lights or some form of protection at Clark and Menomonee streets? There are no stop lights on Clark from North avenue to Webster.

After 4 o'clock there are additional street cars put in service, and the autos use the thoroughfare for a speedway with no regard for the pedestrian. E. K.

A survey will be made of conditions at the intersection of Clark and Menomonee streets and your request for "stop and go" lights given due consideration.

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. By S.S.

BANG! THERE GOES THE CLIMATE!

The awful cataclysm in California Saturday raises for the first time a doubt whether the climate in California is as wonderful as has always been believed. The horrible convulsion produced by the Notre Dame team rocked the state from one end to the other. Measurements show that the Sierra mountains slipped over five feet to the west and beautiful Lake Tahoe jumped twenty feet in the air and turned around three times. Seventy-five of the gigantic redwoods of California tore themselves up by the roots and fell in a shower of splinters, littering the countryside for miles. Native sons of the Golden West ran about the streets biting tourists in the ankle, and the great Iowa colony around Loz Onglaize, after a massmeeting in the hills, resolved to petition the legislature to change the name of California to West Iowa. For the first time within the history of man a doubt has crept into the California mind regarding the climate. They may rescind the law making the uttering of disparaging remarks concerning the climate punishable by imprisonment for not less than ten years. Up to this time California believed the climate was infallible. It produced champion football teams, baseball teams, tennis players, polo champions, golfers, and everything else. And, no matter how warm it was in the day time, you had to sleep under two blankets at night.

But since the Notre Dame debacle all this is changed. It is said that a man in California after the game shouted out in a crowded theater, "This California climate stuff is the boloney; to hell with the climate." Strange to say, instead of being lynched from the nearest corner lamp-post or torn to pieces by the frenzied mob, he was given three rousing cheers, and the Rotary club of Pasadena has sent him a letter asking the date of his birthday and what he would like for Christmas. From all reports it seems that the devastating score of 27 to 0 Saturday was more than a football victory. It marked the blowing up of the California climate with the (w. k) dull, sickening thud.

PORTRAIT OF SOPHIE.

I used to watch the snow
from her window, gently falling down, while she played Chopin on the piano,
in a gray, old fashioned gown.
Now, when in memory, she turns her face to mine, I see only a vague, lovely haze; neither eyes, nor nose, nor mouth appear,
but the beauty of her music stays with me. I remember, she'd be ill for days, then I would softly tiptoe through empty rooms, or sit on her piano bench and watch the hurrying hours go their silent way into the past. And then one bright morning she would be up again and from her music room would come the tunes she taught children, or the strain of a gay Vienese waltz she played for herself alone; poor lady of melodies, she is dead now, and all I remember of her are her slim, white hands dipping to the keys.

KEEPER OF THE STARS.

A CHICAGO LADY fires six shots at her husband's automobile and misses. One guess as to the name of her husband's car! Why, of course! What she ought to do is to drop that cunning little car down the muzzle of her revolver and shoot it out. Gosh, we shouldn't have given her that idea! Well, anyhow, it's done now.

ONE OF THE HAPPIEST things connected with the close of the football season is that we will no longer be pained when we tune in at the radio to hear the announcers say, "Well, folks, there comes KNOOT Rockne himself," or "Over there on the other side of the field is, all right folks, one guess, yessir, old KNOOT Rockne," or "Somebody is runnin' out to the Notur Dame players and they're goin' into a huddle. Guess they got some kind of instructions from KNOOT Rockne." It isn't Mr. Rockne, friends, we object to. It's the announcers calling him KNOOT. And all the time his name is KNUTE.

MRS. GOLDA MUNROE MORRISON BURDICK NIXON KENYON of Annapolis was scheduled yesterday to marry her fifth naval officer husband, Commander Charles C. Gill. This will be Mrs. Golda Munroe Morrison Burdick Nixon Kenyon's fifth marriage to members of the Naval Academy class of 1907. Wonder how big that class was?

TREMENDOUSLY VITAL front page news yesterday from Washington! Mrs. Gann met Mrs. Longworth at the last White House reception. Said Mrs. Gann, "Hello, Alice!" Said Mrs. Longworth, "Hello, Dolly!" The Washington correspondents are so astounded at this friendly greeting that it is plain to read between the lines that they expected the ladies to pull hair or swing with the right or something like that.

LAGNIAPPE.

JUDGE COMPANIONATE MARRIAGE BEN LINDSEY, who was forcibly thrown out of the Episcopal Cathedral of St. John the Divine, was in court yesterday, but no witnesses appeared against him, and he talked of bringing suit to find out why he was ejected. Well, of course we couldn't say at this distance, and not knowing all the facts, but we would hazard a shrewd guess that maybe it was because they didn't want the judge in the church.

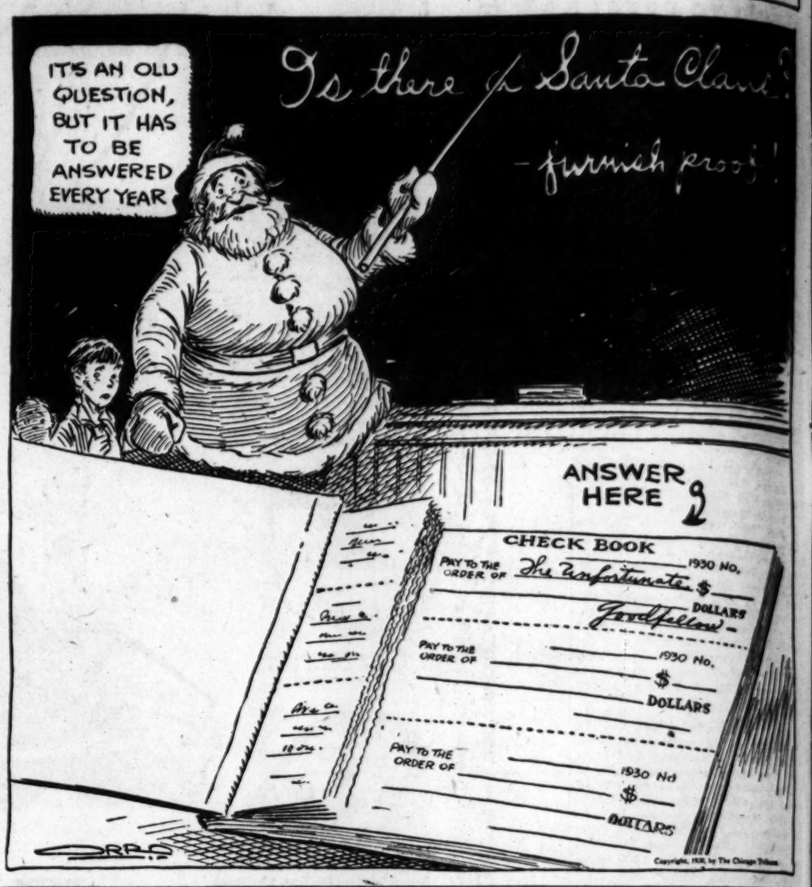
THE ANNUAL EXAMINATION



FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 9, 1914.

LONDON.—French officials report that the Germans have made a violent attack upon the allies at St. Eloi, south of Ypres, which was repulsed. Unofficial reports say the allies not only held their ground there but have advanced slightly. A correspondent of the Daily Express, telegraphing from the Belgian frontier, says that the German divisional headquarters was removed from Roulers when shells began to fall on the town after the British had recaptured Passchendaele, eleven miles north of Ypres. This indicates a distinct and important advance for the allies.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—President Wilson in a message to congress formally proclaimed himself as opposed to the movement for an immediate overhauling and strengthening of the army and navy and other defenses of the United States. He condemned not only the maintenance of a large standing army but the creation of the trained reserve army as proposed by the retiring chief of staff, Gen. W. W. Wotherspoon.

LONDON.—The great battle for the possession of Poland continues. The front extends along 300 miles and the victory over a part of it at least appears to have fallen to the Germans, while the Russians are pressing upon Cracow in the south.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 9, 1900.

CHICAGO. — James and Thomas Armstrong, president and secretary, respectively, of the Metropolitan Medical college, were convicted in United States court of using the mails to defraud in conducting a "diploma mill." The first exposure of this diploma mill as a fraud was made by THE TRIBUNE and evidence obtained by this newspaper was used several times during the trial.

CHICAGO.—A strike of the 1,200 telegraph operators employed by the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé railway was declared on all of the lines from Chicago to the Pacific coast, and the great system was at once seriously crippled. One serious consequence will be the throwing out of work of thousands of shopmen.

CHICAGO.—James J. Hill, president of the Great Northern railroad, spoke before the Bankers' club at Kinsley's on trade conditions and subsidies. Among those present were Marshall Field, D. R. Forgan, L. B. Doud, James H. Eckels, O. G. Foreman, C. L. Hutchinson, Charles Henrotin, E. G. Keith, I. G. Lombard, E. A. Potter, A. M. Rothschild, J. D. Sturges, W. A. Tilden, J. J. Glessner, Chauncey Keep, W. J. Chalmers, C. H. McCormick, George R. Peck, A. C. Bartlett, Eugene Carey, J. L. Lombard, and J. V. Clarke.

NEW YORK. — Winston Spencer Churchill, the young Englishman who went to the Boer war as a special newspaper correspondent, arrived here. His mother, now Mrs. Cornwallis West, was Miss Jennie Jerome of New York. Mr. Churchill declares the war is now over, but that several thousand Boers are still in the field because they don't know they are whipped. He paid high tribute to the valor of Kruger's army.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 9, 1880.

WASHINGTON.—President Hayes sent to the senate the nomination of Edward Backus of Illinois to be United States consul at Para.

LONDON.—At the Omagh assizes a farmer was sentenced to 30 years' penal servitude for firing at his landlord. Near Cookstown, County Tyrone, a bailiff was shot dead while attempting to execute a decree. Another bailiff was slain in attempting to serve a decree against a nonrent payer in Ballingardy, a small town in County Tipperary. A few days will show whether Gladstone can stifle the discordances in the cabinet over the Irish question.

CHICAGO.—Ann Sullivan, charged with killing a man with a beer keg, was admitted to bail, with Augustus Van Buren and Fred A. Mitchell as sureties.

CHICAGO.—The village trustees of Evanston held a meeting and received the report of the treasurer, which showed $7,000 on hand at the beginning of the month.

ABOUT BUSES.

Chicago, Dec. 4.—Not only are the motor coaches uncomfortable to ride in but they are dangerous as well. A driver of the one deck coaches cannot see the door when there are people standing and has to rise in his seat to see if there is anything between him and the curb. Twice this month I have seen men boarding the coaches caught in the door and obliged to shout to the driver to open it, because he could not see that there was any one there.

There are not enough buses on the 53 route. Out of 22 buses the other day there were but two 53 buses and they were so crowded that people were standing on the step inside—impossible for another person to board—and that halfway uptown.

In the double deck one man buses the people sit on the stairs and it is almost impossible to get by them because they have no place to step when they stand up to let you go by. Possibly they are making more money by giving us such terrible service, but they are turning many of us back to the street cars.

The courteous attention of the conductors of the buses originally offered was a delight to the aged, to children, and to the crippled. Now they get on and off as best they may. The courtesy of the drivers is being lost because they are tired and overworked and nervous. E. L. WALTON.

COLOR ROTOGRAVURE.

Chicago, Nov. 30.—A decided improvement has been made in the rotogravure section of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. The reproductions of the water color art work of Mr. Richard Chase are refreshing indeed, and of real merit. I cannot comment on the accuracy of the color reproduction, not having seen the originals, but they are very attractive and sparkling with life. NORMAN GRAN.

MODERN PEDAGOGY.

Chicago, Dec. 1.—With reference to the individual instruction at Ebinger school in Edison Park, a mother would like to voice her objections to this system.

How can a child concentrate on his studies with so much commotion, talking constantly by pupils, children walking up and down aisles giving tests?

Some real drill work is what these children need to master the studies and retain some knowledge, not just hurrying from one "unit" to another. Some pupils may have about sixteen or seventeen units in a subject, while others may have close to one hundred units. Class drill would balance this. What is the sense of rushing growing children through grammar school? Give their bodies a chance to develop along with their brains.

This method of instruction may be satisfactory for college students, but elementary grade pupils need drill work and quiet atmosphere. Even Prof. Einstein requires a "padded" room for study. MOTHER.

IN CONFERENCE.

Chicago, Dec. 2. — According to the scriptures ten honest men would have saved Sodom and Gomorrah from its doom. In your last Sunday issue you pictured State's Attorney Swanson as an honest man. Where are the other nine who can save Chicago? JULIUS BOWEN.

EXCLUSION WHICH DOESN'T EXCLUDE.

Chicago, Nov. 25.—A gentleman whose business for twenty-five years has required him to intimately study conditions regarding the foreign population of Chicago recently said to me that in his opinion there are as many aliens now coming into the United States from Europe as came in before the passage of the exclusion act. "How do they come in?" I asked. "Through Cuba and the West Indies, Canada and Mexico, particularly the latter. And the pity of it is," he added, "it is the desperate and undesirable and criminal class who take the risk. It is comparatively easy for any alien to get into the country who has the nerve and money enough to pay his bills, and thousands are coming in every year."

I spent last winter in Sicily and Italy. I was in every important city of Sicily and in many villages which before Mussolini were headquarters of the Mafia, which terrorized whole communities as the criminal element is now a terror to Chicago. The Mafia is no longer an element in Sicily or Italy. Mussolini simply suppressed them. What has become of those who are not in prisons on the Lipari islands? They are in America and largely in New York and Chicago. Why do they seek Chicago? I hesitate to offer a reason, but it seems to me that the pledge of Mayor Thompson to make Chicago an "open town"—that is, open to sports, gamblers, bootleggers, racketeers—has been regarded by criminals as an invitation.

W. W. B.

ARMAGEDDON.

Chicago, Dec. 1.—The person who wrote the news item for this morning's paper, "Armageddon Bought by W. of C.," made a slight error in his Biblical reference. He speaks of Armageddon as the place "where the kings of the earth met for the decisive struggle against the kingdom of God." If he will read Rev. 16:16, he will see that the great battle of Armageddon is still in the future, since the other events spoken of in the earlier verses of the chapter have not yet taken place.

It is true Armageddon, Har Megiddo, or plain of Megiddo, has been the scene of many mighty battles in the past, but its greatest, most significant battle is yet to come. J. M. M.

A VOTE FOR BUNDESEN.

Chicago, Dec. 3.—My selection for Chicago's next mayor is Dr. Herman N. Bundesen. I have discussed the doctor with many people and find that a large majority agree with me and feel that in the event of his becoming a candidate he will defeat any one presented by the Republicans. Ask the mothers.

A. F. HANEL.

JUDICAL VACATIONS.

Chicago, Nov. 26.—The trial of the so-called sanitary district cases is apparently in line for another indefinite postponement because of the proposed vacation of Judge Williams, who, according to THE TRIBUNE of Nov. 26, "usually takes his vacation in the winter time and is planning on going to California in January to spend three months." Is a three months' period considered a mere vacation? If so, is it customary for other judges to take similar vacations at the expense of the public? ONE TAXPAYER.

BOY OF 11 JOINS GOOD FELLOWS WITH $20 GIFT

Company Sends $250 for Relief Fund.

John Strauss, 11 years old, 110 Maple Hill road, Glencoe, joined the Good Fellows yesterday.

"I am sending you a check for $20 for your Good Fellow fund," he wrote, "and I hope it will make some poor family happy. Perhaps you will tell me the name of the family you are using it for. I am 11 years old and I have saved this money for a poor family."

John's donation was one of 58 which made a total of $1,120 in the day's mail opened at the Good Fellow headquarters in THE TRIBUNE offices at Dearborn and Madison streets. Every penny will reach some destitute family whose worthiness has been carefully investigated. THE TRIBUNE pays the expenses of administrating the fund.

Company Sends $250 Check.

The Central Products company, 214 West Ohio street, mailed a $250 check with a letter explaining the motives behind the gift.

"Inclosed," it reads, "please find our check which is not only our contribution, but also our clients' donation to the needy cause. We ask that the money be properly used for the relief of worthy families.

"In explanation, we have in the past years always sent our clients as a token of appreciation and friendship some novel Christmas gift which we imported especially for them. This practice, however, took our funds out of the country. Such expenditure did not help domestic employment.

"Taking into consideration the temporary business depression, we feel [and we know our clients will feel] happier to know that this Christmas gift money went to making Chicago's unfortunates happy and hastening the return of prosperity here."

To Help Needy Families.

These cash contributions received at the Good Fellow headquarters are for the rehabilitation of families—to pay for food, shelter, heat, and clothing until they can become self supporting again. The donations are not for the Christmas baskets that Good Fellows will distribute to the poor the week after next.

The family rehabilitation work is supervised by trained and experienced social welfare experts. The Christmas activity is handled by the Good Fellows personally. All the Good Fellows headquarters does in the Santa Claus enterprise, which is now in its 21st year, is to furnish names of families where little girls and boys will awake on Christmas morning and find their stockings empty unless some Good Fellow visits the home.

There's a coupon published on this page for your convenience in pledging to deliver a basket or two on Christmas eve or to contribute money for the relief this winter of families that have been left cold and hungry by the employment slack.

LIVING TISSUE AND ASHES USED IN 2 LIFE TESTS

Science Awaits Outcome of Experiments.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

In a sterile glass chamber hidden away in an incubator in the Favill laboratory of St. Luke's hospital is a piece of human tissue about the size of a match head.

Heated to the exact temperature of the human body, given the right oxygen tension, and an environment of plasm or fluid expressed from living tissue, this tissue has remained alive and its cells have multiplied.

This is the center of a new cancer research effort upon which high hopes are being pinned, for if it can be kept alive and subjected to conditions favorable to the production of cancer, new and unlimited opportunities will be afforded for studying methods of prevention of this great scourge to humanity.

Hope to Produce Cancer.

It is hoped to produce cancer cells here for experimental purposes, the trial of various combinations to discover which one will stop its growth.

There is nothing in common between this experiment and that reported yesterday from the Cleveland Clinic Foundation, where Dr. G. W. Crile is said to have solved the problem of producing life from inorganic matter, a question that has been debated since the days of Aristotle.

Dr. Crile himself has made no statement on this experiment, saving his report for the annual meeting of the American Society for the Advancement of Science in Cleveland late this month. One of his co-workers has permitted it to leak out that a living thing was created from the ashes of animal brain tissue, something that possessed power of procreation by simple cellular division and was susceptible to drugs.

Dr. Hirsch Is Skeptical.

Dr. Edwin F. Hirsch, director of St. Luke's laboratory, is skeptical of this report and can make nothing of the meager description offered.

"That is a very different thing from this work," he said. "We are dealing with living tissue, attempting to keep it alive, but this apparently claims that life has been developed from ashes, which would be largely salts."

It is held possible by scientists that in some primordial time life advanced stage by stage from the inorganic up to protoplasm, but Huxley's hypothesis that living matter always arises by the agency of preëxisting living matter has not yet been overthrown. Pasteur disproved abiogenesis in the microscopic world. As bacteria are universal, the problem of sterilization is the great thing here. Scientists would have to know all about the Crile ashes before accepting this revolutionary claim.

WOLFE RECEIVES ORDER TO APPEAR AT COUNCIL QUIZ

Richard W. Wolfe, commissioner of public works, received a letter yesterday directing him to appear tomorrow before the council committee on efficiency, economy, and rehabilitation when it resumes the investigation of contracts let by him. The letter was written by Ald. B. A. Cronson [4th], committee chairman.

Loran D. Gayton, city engineer, received a similar letter. Besides requesting Gayton's attendance at the meeting Ald. Cronson asked him to submit all the records in his office relative to the contracts let for the Wabash avenue bridge, the north approach to the bridge, and the grading and paving of several streets in the vicinity. Gayton also was asked to bring a statement on all the contracts let by the city to the Ketler-Elliott company, the contractors who are building the bridge, between 1924 and 1929.

In a previous session of the committee a report of R. G. Dun & Co. was read which showed the net worth of the Ketler-Elliott company in 1924 to be $198,033 and in 1929 to be $638,732. The statement of the Ketler-Elliott contracts was requested by the aldermen to determine if city business was a factor in the rise in the company's net worth.

DISBARRING PLAN IS PROPOSED TO GET REMAPPING

Lawyers in Assembly Seen Violating Oaths.

A proposal to bring about reapportionment of the state senatorial districts by disbarment of lawyer-legislators who opposed the plan was advanced yesterday by Representative John C. Garriott Jr. of the 13th district, covering Chicago's south shore area.

Mr. Garriott's proposal is based on the fact that when attorneys are admitted to the bar in Illinois, they take an oath to support the constitution which demands reapportionment every ten years. For this reason, he asserts that lawyers in the legislature who would oppose reapportionment could be disbarred.

First, his proposal calls for the introduction of resolutions in the senate and house to reapportion the senatorial districts and the tabulation of a record vote on the resolutions. After the record vote is obtained, he suggests that information to disbar all the attorneys opposing the resolutions be filed on the grounds of violating their oath.

44 Lawyers from Downstate.

Among the downstate legislators, who form nearly all of the opposition to reapportionment, Mr. Garriott designated 34 lawyers in the house and 10 in the senate.

Mr. Garriott quoted the revised Illinois statutes governing the admission of attorneys to the bar which provides the following oath to be taken: "I will support the constitution of the United States and the constitution of the state of Illinois and I will faithfully discharge the duties of the office of attorney and counselor at law to the best of my ability."

Cites Duty to Remap.

Then Mr. Garriott cites the case of Fergus vs. Marks which set forth that "the duty to reapportion is clear and unmistakable."

In that case, in the 321st Illinois, 510-513, the court held that "from an inspection of the pleadings it is apparent that the duty, the performance of which is sought to be compelled, is clear and unmistakable, so the only question to be determined is whether or not, on legal principle, the writ of mandamus can be issued to respondents in their official capacity."

INDIANA PRESS OPENS BATTLE TO AMEND STATE CONTEMPT LAW

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—The Indiana Republican Editorial association and the Indiana Democratic Editorial association have joined in indorsement of efforts of the Indianapolis alumni chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic fraternity, to curb the power of judges in indirect contempt cases. An effort is to be made to have the 1931 legislature enact a law providing that cases of contempt arising outside the courtroom shall be passed on by a jurist other than the judge concerned. Later, it is planned, the fight will be taken into other states. A majority of newspaper contempt proceedings come under the classification of indirect contempt, where the same judge appears as the plaintiff, judge, and jury.

Indianapolis alumni of Sigma Delta Chi will canvas every member of both houses of the legislature. The proposed law has been referred to numerous Indiana attorneys and judges, who have approved it.

The Indiana Weekly Press association, a nonpartisan organization of publishers, also has given approval to the proposal. Paul R. Bausman of Monticello, president of the Republican Editorial association, says:

"It has been a long travesty on justice and contrary to the principle of a free press to have a jurist sit as prosecutor, judge, and jury in a case in which he is the aggrieved party."

Diabetes

"I have suffered from diabetes for several years," writes Al. E. Smith of Chicago. "I lost weight, had boils, and was so nervous I couldn't sleep. "A friend told me of Sleepy Water and I ordered a case. Almost immediately I got results. My nerves are now settled, I can sleep, and my eruptions are gone. You have a wonderful water."

Sleepy Water is effective in getting to the source of disease by correcting conditions that disturb the normal health balance. Acid conditions that breed disease are neutralized—poisonous wastes eliminated. Write or telephone today for interesting booklet, "Nature's Way to Health."

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs and colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the systems after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.—(Adv.)

AWARD TAX LIST JOB; TOO LATE TO HELP TAXPAYERS

County to Print Figures on 1928 Assessment.

The first real estate assessment lists, showing each taxpayer his own property valuation in comparison with his neighbor's, will be in the mails by Dec. 17. This prediction was made yesterday after the county board voted to award a contract for publication of the 1928 lists to the Magill-Weinsheimer company, which made the low bid of $38,000 in competition with a number of other concerns.

The decision was not reached without determined opposition on the part of a group of county commissioners. It was charged that the former board "passed the buck" to the new commissioners. A suit for mandamus compelling the printing of the lists, filed in the morning by William H. Malone, chairman of the state tax commission, was said to have influenced the commissioners in awarding the contract after months of delay.

Won't Help Taxpayer.

Publication of the 1928 lists will not help the taxpayer in complaints about improper assessment for that year, it was pointed out. Nor will the publication help him in complaints about the 1929 figures, the deadline for filing complaints with the board of review on 1929 assessments having been passed last Friday.

"The squawks, no doubt, will be loud and long," remarked one commissioner. "But the publication is too late for any one to do anything about it."

The tax lists, according to the petition filed by Mr. Malone in the Circuit court, should have been published on or before last July 10. The petition recited the series of delays before the county board in making appropriations for the printing.

Shortly after the filing the public service committee of the county board met and after a noisy session voted to award the contract to the Magill-Weinsheimer company, a non-union concern which uses the planograph system. The company's bid was $8,000 below the next lowest bid.

Woman Fights Contract Award.

Miss Mary McEnerney, newly elected commissioner, led the fight against awarding the contract to the low bidder. A number of commissioners, apparently wishing to avoid being put on record in regard to the dispute concerning union labor, left the room when the committee roll was called. The nine commissioners remaining voted 6 to 3 in favor of the planograph system.

When the committee report came before the board at the afternoon meeting, twelve commissioners were present. Those absent were President Cermak, and Commissioners Charles H Weber and Homer J. Byrd.

Miss McEnerney immediately arose to resume her attack.

"If the job is given to the printers more men will be given work," she declared. "In these time of unemployment, it's more important to furnish more jobs than to talk about saving the taxpayers a mere $8,000."

"This matter was held up six months by the old board," Commissioner Daniel Ryan remarked. It passed the buck to us. I don't see how, under our oath of office, we can pass up an opportunity to save the taxpayers money.

"This isn't a question of organized labor against nonunion labor. The printing concern which has the next lowest bid employs only part union labor."

Commissioner Ryan was supported by seven other commissioners and the contract was awarded the lowest bidder by a vote of 8 to 4. Those voting for the low bid were Commissioners Busse, Fleming, Kaspar, La Buy, Miller, Plumb, Ryan, and Sears. Those for the higher bid were Commissioners Kayanaugh, Kelly, McEnerney, and Whealan.

The forms for the printing will be in the hands of the planograph concern within 24 hours, the officials promised. The company should not take more than a week to begin printing of the lists and the first of the 1,300,000 lists should be put in the mails by Dec. 17.

Railroads Threaten Fight.

Given notice to appear before the board of assessors to be notified of some additional $20,000,000 worth of property being placed on the 1929 assessment for county taxes, tax commissioners of 39 railroads in the Chicago area yesterday charged "double taxation" and warned the assessors that they would start court action tying up the 1929 railroad assessments if the contemplated move were taken.

Harry S. Cutmore, director of the assessors' technical staff, told the railroad representatives that it was the duty of the board to place certain properties on the county tax schedule, thus yielding revenue to the county instead of the state. The railroads insisted upon hearings on the question and Dec. 15 was fixed for the first hearing.

At the termination of the session, it was agreed that Cutmore and Assessor Charles Krutekoff would visit Chairman Malone of the state tax commission and see what adjustment could be made.

DIVORCE IS GRANTED TO MILDRED ZUKOR FROM ARTHUR LOEW

Reno, Nev., Dec. 8.—(AP)—A marriage that united two leading theatrical families was dissolved today when Mrs. Mildred Zukor Loew, daughter of Adolph Zukor, obtained a divorce from Arthur M. Loew, theatrical man and son of the late Marcus Loew. She charged mental cruelty.

The divorce made permanent a separation begun last May. The two separated on a basis of "mutual respect and affection" which Mrs. Loew said was entered into under the terms of a betrothal agreement. She said she and her husband had agreed to "lay their cards on the table and decide what was best," should unhappiness mar their marriage.

Loew inherited more than $10,000,000 of his father's estate. The property settlement with his divorced wife was not made public.

Custody of the two children was granted to Mrs. Loew.

ALDERMEN LEARN WHAT THEY CAN'T DO WITH BUDGET

Restrictions Under New Laws Studied.

Members of the council finance committee yesterday began an analysis of the financial relief legislation obtained from the general assembly last spring to determine what there is in the new laws that affects the making of the 1931 budget. In their dissection the aldermen found a few restrictions of their former powers that left some with an astonished, if not dazed, look on their faces.

Ald. Oscar F. Nelson [46th] started off the discussion with an inquiry directed at Harris Keeler of the bureau of public efficiency, who aided in the preparation of the revenue bills, and at the finance committee's staff. He asked if the council can now appropriate from the bond issues voted on Nov. 4 or will the aldermen have to wait until after the first of the year?

"I do not believe that the council can pass the bond budget separate from the corporate appropriations," replied Mr. Keeler. "In fact, a reading of the bills shows that only one appropriation bill can be passed and that is for all funds. That language would include in one budget the appropriations for the water, vehicle tax, bond, and corporate funds."

"Do you think, then," asked Ald. Nelson, "that if bond issues are approved at the mayoralty election in April the council would be in a position of not being able to appropriate that money until the following year?"

Mr. Keeler thought so and gained an affirmative nod from John A. Richert, chief of the committee's research and statistical staff.

POLITICAL ROWS DELAY NAMING OF FRENCH CABINET

PARIS, Dec. 8.—What looks like another hopeless effort to form a new French government without calling former Premier André Tardieu back to fill the breach, got under way today when President Gaston Doumergue called Senator Pierre Laval, former minister of labor in the Tardieu government, and asked him to form a cabinet.

The chances of M. Laval nailing a cabinet together are vague.

M. Tardieu tonight accepted M. Laval's offer of the portfolio of public works in the tentative line-up and in this capacity would represent his former right adherents in the new cabinet. This is sure to raise a howl of protest from the left parties.

Charlottesville, Va., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—Randolph Ortman, capitalist and sportsman of Blue Ridge farms, near Greenwood, died here today in the University hospital, where he had been brought a week before. He had been in ill health for some time. His widow, the former Miss Blanche Sellers of Chicago; a brother, Edward W. Ortman of Los Angeles, and one sister, Mrs. E. A. Gott of Detroit, survive.

Woman Eludes Nurse, Leaps to Her Death

New York, Dec. 8.—(AP)—While two nurses were occupied, Mrs. Margaret Pepard, 38, of Kansas City, Mo., crept from her bed to the window tonight and leaped seven stories to death at a midtown hotel. Mrs. Pepard had been suffering from a nervous breakdown and had been released from a private sanitarium yesterday. She registered at the hotel today. Her husband, John Pepard, was notified in Kansas City.

TORRID DEBATES MARK WET AND DRY GATHERINGS

Wickersham Committee Is Back at Work.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—Prohibition was the cause of battle in three separate quarters of the capitol today as rival wet and dry organizations convened at the same time the Wickersham committee resumed deliberations upon its report to President Hoover.

While the so called law enforcement group, meeting after a ten day recess, labored quietly behind closed doors, spirited debates marked the proceedings of the two other gatherings, one that of the National Temperance council and the other a convention sponsored by the Federal Dispensary-Tax Reduction league.

Referenda Opposed.

A resolution declaring the "unalterable" opposition of the drys to any kind of prohibition referenda, either real or straw, kept the temperance council, a body composed of state and local dry organizations, in turmoil with indications that it would be adopted by an overwhelming majority. The resolution was backed by F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, but opposed by Dr. Clarence True Wilson, secretary of the Methodist board of temperance, prohibition, and public morals.

At the outset of the dry session a motion to invite Mrs. Mabel Willebrandt to be a speaker was tabled. Mrs. Willebrandt, former assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition enforcement, is now counsel for Fruit Industries, which is marketing grape concentrate in Chicago and other cities.

Others Will Meet Later.

About 100 delegates attended the temperance council meeting, to last two days, and the forerunner of a general session Wednesday of the Association of Organizations Supporting the Eighteenth Amendment. Other dry groups will meet later in the week.

The problem agitating the wet conference, at which seven anti-prohibition organizations were represented by 120 delegates, was that of agreeing upon a unified substitute plan for prohibition.

Two plans were presented, one for a federal dispensary organization calling for a change in the eighteenth amendment providing for government sale of liquor, and the other that of the Congressional Districts Modification league calling for modification of the Volstead act to permit wines and beer. Other groups will present plans. The plan obtaining a majority vote will be adopted as that of all the organizations.

Secret Session Held.

The utmost secrecy was maintained regarding the Wickersham commission meeting. All members were present except Judge William S. Kenyon of Iowa. Another meeting will be held tomorrow. The general belief is that the commission is putting the finishing touches upon its prohibition recommendations which are expected to be submitted to the White House early in January.

DEMOCRATS HEAP SCORN ON HOOVER RELIEF PROGRAM

Alleged "Co-operation Pledge" Lost?

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—Checking "coöperation with the administration" in the cloakroom, Democratic senators played medicine ball with the unemployment program on the senate floor today.

They launched a bitter assault at President Hoover's relief policy. Direct relief, with an increase in the income tax rates, was what the Democratic speakers desired. They did not urge an income rate increase through all the brackets, as had been proposed by Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho], but higher rates only on incomes of $20,000 and more.

Senators David I. Walsh [Mass.] and Royal S. Copeland [N. Y.] were the principal players, with Senators T. H. Caraway [Ark.], Kenneth McKellar [Tenn.], Alben W. Barkley [Ky.], Clarence C. Dill [Wash.], and Elmer Thomas [Okla.] joining in from time to time.

For 5 Day U. S. Job Week.

Senator Walsh began it with his introduction of a bill to require a five day week in all civilian departments of the federal government. It was a supporting measure to his earlier bill for a 100 million dollar direct relief grant to the states. He denounced President Hoover for the delays in the construction of authorized public buildings.

"It is up to us to spend the money," Senator Copeland joined in, "and up to the treasury to take care of the deficit."

"It is hypocrisy to talk about relief without raising taxes," Senator Walsh tossed back across the room. "The rich must pay. I am sick and tired of the absence of sympathy in high places and of this talk of trying to save money for the public treasury."

Senator Caraway threw "the profiteers" into the debate. Senator Walsh caught it up. Profiteers should be made to pay. The administration was "tender of the higher tax payers, heedless of the poor and unemployed."

Boasts of Democrats' Power.

"The election in November was an expression of protest—aye, even of disgust."

He turned toward the majority side, where seven Republicans still listened. "Your leader failed. He has continued to fail, even after the verdict at the polls." Then he swung back to his fellow Democrats. "We are no longer the minority party in the country," he shouted. "Hoover failed. Ours is the leadership. Whether they vote down our bills or not let us make our record. We are not heedless of the sufferings and groanings of the people."

The proposal for immediate payment of the veterans' adjusted compensation certificates came up again.

"Secretary Mellon has boasted of paying other obligations ahead of time," Senator Barkley declared. "This is no time to consider Mellon's desire for an orderly conduct of the treasury," said Senator Copeland.

"To use tax money, paid in on the understanding that it is for the current expenses of the government, for the reduction of the public debt," asserted Senator Walsh, "is little short of legalized larceny."

When the reaction to this revolt within the Democratic ranks will be is problematical. Senator Joseph T. Robinson [Ark.], minority leader, has held to the pledge he signed with the six other Democratic leaders. But observers pointed to today's attack on the administration as evidence of restiveness under his leadership.

NEW POLICE AID IS APPOINTED AT SOUTH BEND

South Bend, Ind., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—Capt. David C. Raymond was promoted today to the rank of assistant to Chief of Police Samuel J. Lenon by the South Bend board of public safety. Raymond, the first to hold this position under Mayor W. R. Hinkle, has been on the police department for five years. Rex Risher has been granted a two year leave of absence to accept a lieutenancy in the state police.

COL. RANDOLPH IS RENOMINATED TO HEAD A. OF C.

In recognition of his part in the war against crime, Col. Robert Isham Randolph has been nominated to succeed himself as president of the Chicago Association of Commerce. The nomination is virtually tantamount to election.

The nominating committee also named for reëlection almost all of Col. Randolph's present cabinet. Thus he will be enabled to continue his leadership against lawlessness with the same assistants, it is pointed out. Many of his aids helped him in his formation of the "Secret Six," undercover investigation committee sponsored by the association.

Officers named to continue their present offices are Robert C. Ross, assistant to the president of Joseph T. Ryerson & Co.; Charles E. Herrick, vice president of the Brennan Packing company; Joseph K. Brittain, real estate executive; John L. Coyne, manager of Mandel Brothers, and Austin J. Lindstrom, vice president of the Foreman State National bank.

THE COURT OF HIGHEST AUTHORITY HANDS DOWN
A BEAUTY DECISION
You certainly know the importance of sound teeth and gums to health, vitality and beauty. But it wouldn't be strange if you sometimes wonder what is the best way to care for teeth and gums. There are so many different dentifrices—so many conflicting theories. What is right?
In order that the question might be authoritatively answered, E. R. Squibb & Sons asked a prominent research institution to conduct an investigation among 50,000 practicing dentists. Read the summary of the replies received:

95% of the answers stated that germ acids most frequently cause tooth decay and gum irritation.
95% of the answers agreed that the most serious trouble occurs at the place where teeth and gums meet—The Danger Line.
85% stated that the best product to prevent these acids from causing decay and irritating the gums is Milk of Magnesia.
Surely this is convincing evidence that Squibb Dental Cream will protect your teeth and gums. For it is made with more than 50% Squibb Milk of Magnesia.
Squibb's cleans beautifully and safely—without the use of grit or astringents or anything which might injure. Begin using it morning and night.

"While Hoppe and I were playing for the world's 18.1 balkline title I had the one chance of a lifetime to beat the world's record run of 140 set by Frank Ives, way back in 1901.
"I came to the table with 68 already to my credit and the balls in the same position as I had left them the day before. I managed to keep them well together and ran another 72. That tied the record.
"Then I set myself for No. 141. It was a left-handed nip massé, the most treacherous shot in the game. The crowd hushed. Could I make it? You can bet this was one moment I had to keep cool!"
Welker Cochran
"Just after Welker made that great record-breaking run I came to the table for my chance.
"My first shot was a hard bank shot, but the three ivories clicked, reassuringly. Then I got them well bunched and ran out 50... 75... 100.
"The crowd cheered. It was my best run of the match so far. I went ahead. 125 came and passed. 130... 131. Only nine more to tie the former record! Old Frank Ives must have turned in his grave, for within one-half hour he had seen his great world's record shattered once, and now he saw it on the verge of being shattered again."

ARMY SURGEONS APPEAR AGAINST MAJOR SHEPARD

Say They Think His Wife Was Poisoned.

Kansas City, Kas., Dec. 8.—(AP)—At the trial of Maj. Charles A. Shepard, alleged uxoricide, here today, two medical men among five army officer witnesses testified Mrs. Zenan Shepard died from a slow acting poison.

Maj. Paul R. Hawley, chief medical officer at Fort Riley, Kas., a year and a half ago, when the defendant's wife died at the post, said an autopsy revealed death by slow poisoning.

Lays Death to Poisoning.

Maj. M. E. Du Frenne of Fort Crook, Neb., who attended Mrs. Shepard during her illness, testified he believed death was caused by poisoning. In signing the death certificate the physician gave the cause of death as inflammation of the stomach.

Another medical officer, Maj. J. C. Dye, an eye specialist, now attached to Fort Warren, Wyo., told of being called to examine the defendant's wife. He testified the retina of Mrs. Shepard's eyes were dilated, "as the result of poison of some kind."

The other witnesses were Maj. Hugh W. Mahon, pathologist, and Samuel K. Sturgis, of the engineers corps, Fort Riley.

Defense to Blame Alcohol.

Maj. Hawley was nervous on the witness stand. Under cross-emanation he said Mrs. Shepard's condition could have been caused by alcohol. The defense, in the opening statement, said it would be proved that the officer's wife was an alcohol addict, and killed herself by excessive drinking.

The day's testimony plainly was discouraging for the crowd, eager for sensational developments, especially concerning Maj. Shepard's relations with blonde Grace Grandon of San Antonio.

The 22 year old woman, for love of whom the officer assertedly poisoned his wife, entered the courtroom virtually unnoticed during the morning session.

Robber Band Holds Up a Bank and Takes $25,000

Seacaucus, N. J., Dec. 8.—(AP)—A trio of robbers armed with a machine gun and wearing masks held up the First National Bank of Seacaucus tonight and made off in an automobile with $25,000. The holdup men lined up a dozen customers against a wall. They forced William Meisbach, the bank's president, and William Hulburt, cashier, to open the vault. Four other bandits, with guns drawn, waited at the curb in a motor car.

JUDGE STRIKES DOWN AN ILLICIT LOVE CONTRACT

Voids Woman's Claim for $375,000.

New York, Dec. 8.—[Special.]—In denying the $375,700 claim of Mrs. Leila G. Trudel against the bankrupt estate of Edward Farnum Greene, textile manufacturer, financier and art patron, Federal Judge Woolsey today ruled that "a contract for future illicit cohabitation is unlawful."

The decision sets aside an agreement entered into by Mrs. Trudel and Greene which called for payment of $1,000 annuity to the claimant and made her beneficiary of a $100,000 insurance policy. When Greene's company, Wright, Greene & Co., Inc., wholesale dry goods dealers, went into bankruptcy last January, he filed a schedule listing Mrs. Trudel's claim among his liabilities of $586,358. Referee Henry K. Davis upheld the claim.

Father of 2 Children.

Greene once was chairman of the board of Wellesley college, a trustee of Brown university, Worcester academy, and the Boston Museum of Art. He is married and has two children.

At the original bankruptcy hearing evidence was introduced disclosing improper relations with Mrs. Trudel, who lived at Sands Point, L. I., and more recently at the Hotel St. Regis.

In Judge Woolsey's summary of their relationship he noted that the claimant was more than thirty when she lived with Greene and that she knew he was married. A Sands Point home valued at $70,000, he said, was purchased for her and still is her property.

Relationship Abandoned.

"This case," Woolsey ruled, "is one where the motive was the illicit cohabitationn between defendant and the claimant.

"A contract for future illicit love is unlawful. The law strikes it down as immoral. In this case, however, the relationship had been abandoned prior to the making of the agreement. The law here is that a promise to pay a woman under such circumstances is void, not for illegality, but for want of consideration. This consideration is past."

Judge Kelly Inducted Into Office in Superior Court

Judge James Joseph Kelly of the Superior court was inducted into office yesterday amid floral offerings and speeches by Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court, and others. Judge Kelly will fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge Jacob Hopkins and has been assigned to the law division. He is one of five judges elected to the Superior court on Nov. 4. The other four judges were installed ten days ago.

21 BULLETS FIND STOOL WHO SENT 3 TO CHAIR IN '23

Informer Shot Down in New York Speakeasy.

New York, Dec. 8.—[Special.]—Twenty-one bullets today sealed forever the lips of Nicholas [Cheeks] Luciano, the informer whose testimony sent the Diamond brothers and John Farina to the electric chair for the murder of two West End bank messengers in 1923.

Luciano met the traditional fate of the squealer in a speakeasy down on the lower east side at 5 o'clock this morning. Two men walked into the speakeasy and opened fire on Luciano as he sat in a booth with four other men and three women with whom he had been carousing all night. They paid no attention to Cheeks' companions or the proprietor and kept on firing shots into their victim after the others had fled.

Body Riddled with Bullets.

Anyone of eighteen of the bullets he received probably would have killed Luciano, it was said at the morgue after an autopsy. He was shot eleven times in the back,, four times in the face, three times near the heart and in each hand and in the left arm.

A policeman, on his way to headquarters three blocks away, found Luciano dead on the floor and the speakeasy deserted when he ran in to investigate the sound of shots.

Detectives swarmed to the place from headquarters when the patrolman sent in an alarm. They took one glance at the heavily built body of the man on the floor, with the scar of an ancient knife slash nearly encircling his bull-like neck.

"It's Cheeks Luciano," said one of them. "Well, he knew he had it coming to him."

Fled Reprisal Seven Years.

The shots that killed him today quited a furtive fear that had gripped Luciano for seven years. To save his own skin, he turned state's witness against his pals—Morris and Joe Diamond and Farina—and after they were convicted and he himself was free, he recanted his testimony.

Later he rupudiated the recantation and again affirmed it, the net result for him being a constant fear of reprisal and a sentence of five years in Sing Sing for perjury.

Fellow inmates of Sing Sing, to a man, hated Luciano. The prison authorities had to take every precaution to prevent his assassination.

START $800,000 SUIT ON CHARGES OF PRICE FIXING

Federal Judge Julian W. Mack of New York yesterday began hearing an $800,000 damage suit here, wherein Sidney Morris & Co., stationers at 103 South Wells street, are accusing the National Association of Stationers, office outfitters and manufacturers, with violations of the Clayton act, a part of the Sherman anti-trust laws. The suit was filed three years ago and was once dismissed by Federal Judge Carpenter.

The Morris company charges that the association, through price fixing, hindered it in business with the result that from a flourishing concern and a leader in its field the company has seen its business diminish to almost nothing. This was because the company refused to join the association in its price fixing, it was charged.

In his opening statement Attorney Walter M. Provine, former United States attorney at Springfield, said the evidence would show that the association caused its twenty-six members to refuse to deal with the Morris company or to curtail their dealings, because of their refusal to join the association and to follow its lead in price fixing.

Acidity

Puts More Men "On the Spot" than All the Gangsters in the World!

More insidious than skulking assassins, Acidity lays more men low than all the guns of gangdom! Many a rundown condition, many a case of "nerves," sleeplessness and melancholy is really Acidity.

When the stomach secretes too much acid it causes acid-indigestion, with gas, sourness, and burning. It also gets up fermentation and putrefaction in the intestines, creating poisons which pull down physically and mentally. A marvelous German development, called Magnesia Oxoids, corrects Acidity in the right way. Upon contact with the gastric juice, Magnesia Oxoids generate nascent or active oxygen. The oxygen stimulates the alkaline gastric mucus which keeps the acid in check, corrects intestinal fermentation and stimulates peristalsis or the natural movement of the bowls. All three effects are necessary, and only Magnesia Oxoids supply them because it is the only magnesia product known to science which, when taken internally, releases oxygen to the system.

To see just how "acid" you are, make this test. Get a package of Magnesia Oxoids from Walgreen's Drug Stores or Economical Drug Stores or any other good druggist. Take two after each meal and see how much better you feel—how much more soundly you sleep and how much more energy you have. If after taking the contents of one bottle the results don't more than amaze you, return the bottle to the druggist and he will refund your money promptly and in full.

SUMMON BISHOP TO TESTIFY AT LINDSEY TRIAL

Ex-Judge Obtains Continuance in Church Case.

New York, Dec. 8.—[Special.]—Bishop William T. Manning was subpoenaed this afternoon to appear in court on Friday and undergo examination at the trial of former Judge Ben B. Lindsey, charged with interrupting the church services at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine on Sunday.

The bishop accepted service and is expected to give his version of his attack upon Lindsey which led to the latter's ejaculation of "liar" and was followed by Lindsey's forcible ejection from the cathedral.

The former Colorado jurist, who is the leading exponent of the "companionate marriage," was up for a hearing in Magistrate Dreyer's court today, but his attorney, Arthur Garfield Hays, asked for an adjournment until Friday. Mr. Hays explained that he wanted time to subpoena Bishop Manning and a half dozen frock-coated ushers who "bounced" Lindsey out of the cathedral.

"Not Ordinary Case."

Both Magistrate Dreyer and Detective William May, who signed the complaint, wondered why they couldn't "settle this thing right now" and hold the hearing at once. But Hays explained that he considered the case more complicated than that of a man rising up and shouting in church. It was a question, he said, whether a man had a right to answer a provocative personal attack on him, even if that was made in church.

There is also a question of a suit for slander against Bishop Manning, but that will not be decided until after Friday's hearing, according to both the former judge and his attorneys. Friends have advised Judge Lindsey to sue for $1,000,000, he revealed, but he said if he did bring suit it would be for no such amount.

Will Sue for His "Cause."

"I do not mind so much for myself, but I feel like suing for the slander to companionate marriage," said Lindsey, pausing on the steps of West Side court while news reel cameras ground away.

Another and much more outspoken criticism of the bishop's sermon was made by Samuel Untermyer, distinguished attorney and friend of Lindsey.

In the bishop's request that Lindsey be not permitted to address the New York Churchmen's association last week the clergymen saw the issue of free speech. Their vote to override Bishop Manning's objection was taken entirely on that basis, it was said.

FACTORY CHIEFS TO HEAR BEATTY, RAILROAD LEADER

Ford to Get Medal at Dinner Tonight.

Edward Wentworth Beatty, chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific railway, will be the principal speaker tonight at the annual dinner of the Illinois Manufacturers association in the Stevens hotel. He will address the 1,200 members and guests on "The Business Picture—an International Viewpoint."

Sharing the honors with Mr. Beatty will be Henry Ford. The association is to present to Mr. Ford a medal struck to commemorate his achievements in forwarding American industry. According to officials of the association he has consented to abrogate a general rule not to attend such affairs, and assurances of his presence have been made.

Heads Largest Rail Company.

The Canadian Pacific system, which Mr. Beatty has headed since 1918, when he was 40 years old, is the largest railway in mileage under private management in the world. Besides rail transportation it operates steamship lines, hotels, farms on the million acre scale, telegraph and express services, and owns a $23,000,000 irrigation system in western Canada. Its rail lines include 16,000 miles in the dominion and 5,000 in the United States.

At the speakers' table will be eleven railroad presidents, political leaders, including Gov. Walter J. Kohler of Wisconsin, Fred E. Sterling, lieutenant governor of Illinois, Attorney general Oscar Carlstrom, and the heads of more than a score of Illinois corporations.

Senator Lewis to Speak.

Among the business leaders will be President John A. Bunnell of the Board of Trade, B. F. Affleck, George F. Getz, Thomas S. Hammond, Edward N. Hurley, Charles Piez, E. G. Seubert, and Martin Insull. F. Edson White, president of Armour & Co., is chairman in charge of the arrangements for the dinner.

Besides the Beatty address talks are to be made by Senator-Elect James Hamilton Lewis, Arthur Brisbane, and B. C. Forbes. Mr. Lewis' subject is to be: "A Business Message." Theodore R. Gerlach, president of the Manufacturers association, will preside and present the Ford medal. It is not expected that the Detroit automobile maker will speak.

FALLS OFF LADDER; KILLED.

Charles Mullener, 70 years old, 3022 East 92d street, was killed yesterday when he fell 15 feet from a ladder while painting a building at 2221 East 92d street.

POLICEMEN FIGHT DUEL BY ERROR; BOTH WOUNDED

Two policemen, one from Chicago, the other from Oak Park, shot each other late yesterday in a revolver duel when each mistook the other for a paroled convict whom they were hunting. The gun fight occurred in a dimly illuminated hallway at 628 South Austin boulevard, Oak Park.

The wounded detectives are Patrolman Joseph Rudnick of the Irving Park station and Sergt. Frank Lawrence of the Oak Park force. Rudnick was shot in the right arm and Lawrence in both legs. Neither was injured seriously, physicians at the West Suburban hospital reported.

William Corbett, 35 years old, the unwitting cause of the pistol battle, was arrested later hiding in the attic of his mother's home at 519 South Humphrey avenue, and held with his wife, Margaret, at the Irving Park station. According to police, he was recently paroled from Joliet penitentiary.

According to police, Mrs. Corbett offered a fraudulent check for $125 to a butcher at 5457 Addison street, where she was known, and when the merchant was unable to give more than $40 on the check she returned yesterday. Detective Rudnick and Lieut. Charles Dudley of the Irving Park station arrested her. She led the policemen to her home and they requested Oak Park police to post a man there to await Corbett. Sergt Lawrence was assigned to the Austin boulevard address and secreted himself on the second floor landing.

As Policeman Rudnick entered Lawrence, crouching on the landing above, drew his revolver in the belief that Rudnick, in civilian attire, was Corbett. Rudnick saw the motion and mistook Lawrence for the ex-convict. Both fired simultaneously. A scream from Mrs. Corbett that her husband was not present halted the duel after six shots had been fired.

he made his old furnace Automatic with GAS

Why don't you do as so many other Chicagoans are doing this winter—RENT a Gas burner for your old warm air furnace, steam or hot water boiler, and let the Gas thermostat automatically bring up the fire for you every morning?

It takes only an hour or two to install a Gas burner in your furnace, and you are assured of a clean, comfortable winter, with truly automatic gas heat. And if you are not entirely satisfied, we will remove the burner just as quickly and restore your furnace to its previous condition.

The five dollar monthly rental (plus a small installation charge) is for the average home, and includes option to buy. It's so easy, and costs so little to try gas heat. Isn't it worth phoning Wabash 6000 now? . . .

By Royal Command

BY DORNFORD YATES

SYNOPSIS.

Richard Chandos and his wife, Leonie, former grand duchess of Reichtenburg, are visited at their estate near Littai, in Austria, by George Hanbury. A telegram arrives from Marya Salm, countess of Dresden, an expected guest, stating that she dare not come. Prince Paul, ruler of Reichtenburg, had hoped to marry Leonie and was incensed at her marriage to Chandos. Fearing for Marya's safety, because of her friendship for Leonie, Chandos and Hanbury, with their servants, Bell and Rowley, depart for Virti, capital city of Reichtenburg, where Marya resides. Because of the enmity of the prince they must enter the country in stealth. They drive to the frontier and leave Rowley with the car at a farm and proceed by foot. A peasant, named Ramon, whom they befriend, helps them over the border by a secret path under a waterfall. They reach the home of Marya unseen, and learn from her that she sent no message and that she plans to drive to Austria that night. Realizing the telegram was a ruse to lure them within the prince's dominion they are preparing to flee with Marya when the prince arrives. The men hold the prince and his servants at point of gun and escape in the royal car. They find the border so closely guarded that hope of crossing is abandoned. Chandos remembers Ramon, who lives in the nearby town of Gola. They seek him for aid. He agrees to hide Marya and Carol, her trusted servant, in his house. Chandos and Hanbury join a traveling circus, where they feel fairly safe from discovery. When they plan to return to Gola the circus master threatens to deliver them to the police if they leave him short handed.

INSTALLMENT XIV.

MYSTERIOUS ASSISTANCE.

"There you are," said George. "What did I say? That's what they call 'the straight tip.' 'Leave me, and I go to the police.' It's just as well we didn't tell him."

I shrugged my shoulders.

"Business," I said. "Reuben is a business man."

"He's a dirty dog," said George violently.

"There's just one thing," said I, thinking and speaking my thoughts. "Why should he come and say this? Why should he think we were thinking of clearing out?"

George looked at me.

"You're right," he said. "He'd some reason. What does he know?"

The question remained unanswered until near midday.

A boy had come round with papers about ten o'clock, and, whilst he was drawing the rations, we looked at the one Bach had bought.

The maneuvers which the 4th brigade was suddenly called upon to perform came to an end last night. In a general order the G. O. C. expresses his satisfaction with the energy and keenness displayed by all ranks and especially with the alacrity with which they responded to the alarm, the intention to raise which had been kept secret even from the commanding officers.

"Quick," said I. "We mustn't been seen. Is the Countess safe?"

We determined to go that night, moving with the circus and leaving it in the first halt which was called upon the road.

. . . . . .

The afternoon performance was nearly done, and the mischievous Ada was kicking her way through her tricks when Bell whipped up to my side.

"Look, sir," says he. "There's Carol. He's trying to catch your eye."

Clad in white linen, as a peasant, the butler was alternately watching and dipping his chin to his shoulder to see if he was observed. He had come, of course, to tell us the troops were gone.

As I have said, the public were not allowed to approach the lines, but, the show being on, I suppose there had been no one to stop him, and Bach and the stable boys were busy at the mouth of the tent.

I was by the man's side in an instant.

"Quick," said I. "We mustn't be seen. Is the countess safe?"

Carol nodded and gave me a little note.

Richard. Do everything Carol says, and do it at once. Marya.

As George came hastening, I gave it into his hand.

"What are we to do, Carol?"

"On the road over there, sir," he said, "there is waiting a car. It has just brought me and is ready to take us all back."

I could hardly believe my ears.

"Now?" said George stupidly. "Now?"

"At once, sir. It is very important that you should lose no time."

"Go on" said George. "We'll be there as soon as you."

As he turned, came the burst of applause which always followed Ada's endeavors to dance.

In another instant Bach would be back in the lines. And a hundred yards distant, this side of the gateway which gave from the road to the park, sat a couple of mounted police.

Only waiting to take up our coats, George and Bell and I slipped through a gap in the hedge against which the lines had been pitched. Under cover of this we ran the length of the field and then slid down a high bank and into a lane. This ran north and south. A moment later we padded into the road. There was but one car to be seen, for those that were waiting to take people back from the circus were parked to the east. As we hastened towards it, Carol emerged from the field and stood to its door.

The bonnet was facing away, and we could not see who was driving or whether he sat alone, but, as we drew near, the car seemed faintly familiar, as though I had noticed its like a short time before.

As we came up I heard the engine running.

Then we were all inside, and the door was shut.

Instantly the car moved eastward.

It was a cabriolet, and its hood was up. In the front sat two men, wearing dustcoats and peaked blue caps.

"And now," said George, "what has happened? How on earth has madame contrived to get hold of this car?"

"Sir," said Carol, "I am simply obeying orders. I know no more than do you what madame has done."

"You know more than we do," said I. "Have you come straight from the forge?"

"No, sir. I've come from Bariche, where madame is now."

"Bariche?" screeched George. "Bariche? O, give me strength. D'you mean she's over the border?"

"That's right, sir. We're going there now."

"But how on earth—"

"Sir," said Carol, "I am as bewildered as you. Less than an hour ago madame gave me that note to give you and told me to enter the car."

"At Bariche?"

"At Bariche, sir. At the sign of the Broken Egg."

"When did she leave Gola?"

"Yesterday, sir. A little before midday."

"But why? How came she to leave?"

"I do not know, sir. I was at work in the fields, and when I came back she was gone. Last night this car came to fetch me, but I have not spoken with madame except to receive her orders to come and fetch you."

Try as we would, we could wring no more out of the man.

The car went wide of Vigli and joined the Austrian road four miles from the town. I think it was the sight of a corner which I shall never forget that flicked that page of my memory which I had not been able to turn.

"My God!" I cried all of a sudden. "This is Grieg's car."

For a moment there was dead silence.

Then—

"That's right," said George quietly. "And those two chauffeurs are police." He sat back and closed his eyes. "After this nothing will surprise me. I don't know what Marya's done, but I take my hat right off and put it under the seat. I mean, this is more than artistic. Grieg's car at our disposal to take us out. Grieg's. I suppose Prince Paul will be at Elsa with a bunch of sweet peas."

At the mention of Elsa Carol moistened his lips.

"When you come to the frontier, sir, I was to tell you to be careful to get out of sight."

For a moment we stared at the man.

Then—

"I give it up," said George weakly. "I thought she'd been pulling wires, but it seems I was wrong. Marya has done it on them. Marya. Marya Dresden has done it on Grieg."

I confess that I sat confounded.

That Marya Dresden unaided should have brought off this dazzling coup was inconceivable. We had left her shaken and exhausted, with the fear of arrest, thankful to hide her head. Now, by some extraordinary means, she was not only up and doing but had herself escaped and was bringing us to safety upon our arch enemy's back. The thing had the smack of an exploit out of a page of Dumas—of arras and wine and a ring which those who were about were bound to obey.

THE CAST.

Dick Turner ..... Nick Stuart
Chief Turner ..... Ralph Lewis
Griffiths ..... Tom Santschi
Helen Griffiths ..... Ann Christy
Mac ..... Harry Bowen

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

KIND: Drama of brave firemen, whose battles are not ALL with fires.

QUALITY: Good.

DIRECTION: Able.

PHOTOGRAPHY: Excellent. Several flashes of volleying smoke and flame, photographed from above, are terrifyingly beautiful.

ACTING: Fine, as far as the men in the cast are concerned. Ann Christy is rather amateurish. Nice to see Tom Santschi and Ralph Lewis again!

SOUND and DIALOGUE: Pleasing.

STORY: Tells of how the son of a fire chief makes good as a hook and ladder man, and an inspector, and wins for his own the daughter of a lawbreaker, who later has a change of heart.

SUSPENSE: Some.

COMEDY: A little. One song sung by the fire eaters gets a hearty laugh.

REMARK: There's a "Third Alarm" at the Castle and "The Fourth Alarm" at the Rialto. Take your pick—or run to both fires, if you're funny that way.

See you tomorrow.

George Bancroft Hopes to Appear as Movie Capone

George Bancroft, big band man of the movies, stopped over in Chicago yesterday, professing stage fright at the prospect of personal appearances he is scheduled to make in New York. In Bancroft's forthcoming play, the "Scandal Sheet," he takes the part of a managing editor, but he says what he really wants is a part in a play in which Al Capone is the central figure. Bancroft has been married to the same wife for fifteen years. They have one daughter, Georgetta.

Former Office Boy to Hear Mary Garden Sing in His Opera

Hamilton Forrest, 27 years old, Chicagoan and composer of the opera "Camille," which will have its world premiere at the Chicago Civic Opera tomorrow night, supervised the rehearsal of his work yesterday. He recalled the days when he was office boy to Samuel Insull, president of the opera.

The young musician has been studying in France for the last few years. His opportunity to stage his work came through Mary Garden, who will sing the title rôle.

Ten years ago, after his graduation from Hyde Park High school, he went into the Insull office, studying music while working there. After three years he left, and five years ago went to France to continue his studies. It was while living in that country that he wrote the opera "Camille," based on "The Lady of the Camellias," by Alexander Dumas, the younger. He wrote to Mary Garden, who encouraged him. The Chicago prima donna will appear in the title rôle with Charles Hackett and Chase Baromeo in the cast.

Northern Baptist Missionary Board Will Meet Today

The Northern Baptist board of missionary coöperation will open its annual two day sessions today at the Stevens hotel. The budget at present is $5,100,000. Yesterday heads of state and national missionary societies discussed changes of methods in church work as required by the growth of the cities. At the sessions today will be representatives from 35 states.

Care of Babies Job for States, Tydings Insists

Opposes Federal 'Invasion' of the Nursery.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—The congress of the United States becomes no better than a city council when it seeks to interfere in state and local affairs.

It was no newspaper cartoonist who drew this picture today, but United States Senator Millard E. Tydings [Dem., Md.], who spoke against what he considered the extension of federal control through the pending Jones maternity bill, the proposed successor of the Sheppard-Towner act.

"Congress becomes nothing but a glorified city council when it extends meddling hands into local affairs and tries to tell Wheeling, W. Va.; Bangor, Me.; San Antonio, Tex., and Seattle, Wash., how they ought to raise their babies," he declared. "How far is the federal government going to continue this mad march of invasion?"

"We act the part of mayor and city council, dictating what local conduct shall be, with legislation dealing with foreign affairs and interstate commerce stacked up in committee rooms because we have not time to deal with it."

He was speaking in answer to Senator Wesley L. Jones [Rep., Wash.], sponsor of the bill and famous as the author of the Jones "five and ten" law. Senator Jones had urged the passage of the maternity measure to take the place of the Sheppard-Towner act, which lapsed June 30, 1929.

Senator Tydings drew upon prohibition to illustrate his argument.

"The same argument and viewpoint lay behind the demand for prohibition," he said. "Local governments were supposed to be unable to handle the situation. The federal government stepped in, invading a purely personal, local, state matter. What happened? Instead of emptying the jails, eliminating deaths from alcoholism, wiping out crime, exactly the opposite has happened. It is time that this country learned the lesson of the prohibition failure."

Senator Jones and Senator Morris Sheppard [Dem., Tex.] defended the maternity measure, asserting that federal support was necessary if maternity and infant welfare work was to continue to progress in the states.

"The federal government appropriated for the fight against animal tuberculosis and hog cholera, and no objection was made," said Senator Jones. "It seems to me mothers and children are more important than farm animals."

Preachers Lacking for Prayers at Mattoon's Sunday Charity Movies

Mattoon, Ill., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Not a single minister of the gospel in Mattoon could be found to deliver a prayer at the opening of Sunday movies here yesterday.

So for the first time in years Mattoon had Sunday movies, and without the help of clergymen. The city council's dictum that prayer must first be offered was ignored. Councilmen, headed by the mayor, the Rev. S. A. Hughart, adopted the prayer proviso last week by a vote of 9 to 5, but not one of them, even the mayor, could deliver the prayer. The mayor had a preaching engagement in another town.

Three more Sundays are subject to the provision, to which the Elks agreed in asking a month of Sunday shows to raise money for Christmas charity.

Mayor Hughart agreed to the omission when word came from the ministers refusing to serve. Members of the Elks charity committee also refused, on the ground that their prayers were reserved for church and home. Whether the attempt will be renewed next Sunday was doubtful today. Mayor Hughart would say nothing except that the movies might be shown for the specified time, with prayer, if possible, and without it if no one would pray.

'Hello, Dolly!' Then 'Hello, Alice!'; So Ends Battle of Precedence

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Far from harboring resentment on the question of social precedence, Mrs. Gann and Mrs. Longworth called each other by first names when they met at the last White House reception.

"Hello, Dolly," was the way Mrs. Longworth greeted Vice President Curtis's sister and official hostess. Mrs. Gann replied, "Hello, Alice" to the wife of Speaker Longworth.

Friends of both, also attending President and Mrs. Hoover's reception for the diplomatic corps Thursday night, watched the two clasp hands and concluded any differences there might have been between them were no more.

Smith Freshmen Heavier, Taller than in Year 1902

Northampton, Mass., Dec. 8.—(AP)—The girls at Smith college are getting taller, heavier, and healthier. Dr. K. Frances Scott of the department of hygiene said two pounds in weight and more than an inch in height have been added to the Smith college freshman since 1902.

The average student at Smith weighs 121.44 pounds and is 5 feet 3 inches tall.

Dr. Scott gave as the chief factors in the improvement, "the healthful results of summer camps and improvement of nutrition."

Figures from the physical education department showed today that only 23 of every 100 Barnard freshmen smoke cigarets. A year ago the smokers ran 28 to the 100.

GERMAN DANCERS HERE BEST OF THEIR KIND, IS VERDICT OF CRITIC

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Harold Kreutzberg and Yvonne Georgi are not only the best of their kind in the world of the dance but, on the testimony of their program at Orchestra hall last night, they give considerable insight into the artistic hopes and aspirations of modern Germany.

Ugliness may be deliberately chosen, quite as much as beauty, as the basis of a dance form. There are atonalities, unresolved dissonances in the Kreutzberg-Georgi dances exactly as there are in modern music. It was only occasionally that they returned to the completed, formal grace of a former era, as in the Mozart variations (from the A major sonata) of the Ravel Pavane. These were the dances that the audience insisted upon encoring, though at that it did its best to have all the numbers repeated. But the two artists declined to let two programs be created where one was announced.

Another point is an unceasing effort toward firmness, poise, severe exactness. To see Kreutzberg fly through the air, for example, in the rural dance and land with the unwavering pose of a statue was to learn something else about German art. Incidentally it was likewise an extraordinary stunt of physical power.

The most definite advance that they have given to the art of dance would seem to be the discovery that physical movements may be phrased like music and in exact accord with music. Kreutzberg again in the King's dance by Reger gave an example of this. It was a matter of highly complex action, with at least three-quarters of the movements of hands, head, body, and feet not at all like the gestures one sees in the conventional ballet. Yet their visual pattern was an exact match to the aural pattern of the music and this dance became one of the high points of the program.

Whether the two make use of the curved grace of romanticism or the sharp angles of modernism, they are in complete control of their resources; they show sound imagination in costuming, and they seem to have an accurate sense of the relation between the dance and music. Wherefore they are great artists.

"Fidelio" was repeated at the opera last night, this time with Maria Rajdl singing the part of Marsellina and Theodore Strack that of Florestan. Otherwise the cast was unchanged.

DANCE HALL MORE ALERT THAN CHURCHES; PASTOR TELLS OF TEST

Dance halls are more alert than churches in making contacts with newcomers to Chicago. That was indicated last night in an address by Prof. Arthur E. Holt, Chicago Theological seminary. He spoke before the 45th annual meeting of the Chicago Congregational Missionary and Extension society at the New England Congregational church.

Prof. Holt, speaking of the city-wide church survey conducted by the various theological seminaries, said one of the survey workers recently registered in a near north side hotel. He wanted to find out what agency would try to interest him first. It was a dance hall, the speaker said.

Shopping Now Offers Chances for Surprises

Variety in Gifts Greater than Before.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Dad and the rest of the men folks have been so used to a handerchief, sock, and necktie shower on Christmas that they are in for a big surprise when the women get through their holiday shopping two weeks from Wednesday.

Take dad, for instance, who made the announcement last week that he had just finished counting in his chiffonier drawer 69 handkerchiefs, including 20 monogrammed ones that had never seen a day's use. And brother Dick, who thinks his sisters have atrocious taste when it comes to neckties.

Imagine their astonishment when they discover in the annual tissue wrapped and ribbon tied Christmas box one of the new automatic frost shields for the car, which wipes away the sleet from the outside and the steam from the inside at the same time. Or a handsome set of backgammon, popular indoor game. Or one of the new gunmetal table airplane lighters whose cockpit flies open disclosing a cheerful flame when you give a sudden twirl to the propeller.

Stylists in Christmas gifts seem to have had several committee meetings in behalf of the men folks, it appears, after a visit to loop department stores. That puzzled frown and exasperated countenance is not so evident as mothers and daughters, or even those men who find time to do their Christmas shopping in person, make selections for the more important recipients of their gifts.

The young woman who wants to please her boy friend with the latest novelty for his car will buy him a gear-shift nob with her picture gracing its top. For the automobile driver who is going on a long trip a useful gift will be the tire pump one attaches after removing a spark plug. Other welcome gifts for any man whose car is his hobby as well as a utilitarian necessity, are radiator caps in fetching designs or statuettes, windshield wipers, electric clocks that attach to the battery, spotlights, rear view mirrors.

Other gifts seen for men are a necktie presser—an aluminum tongue electrically heated that slips into the tie—and tie holders in leather of silk motor for traveling. For the very small gentleman a pair of red topped rubber boots will please him as much as a new suit. Many parents were seen yesterday buying a new suit of clothes for a boy, shoes, sweaters, caps, and other haberdashery.

When the man of the house goes shopping for his wife's present he may decide to say it with a washing machine. There is on display a small model that whirls, and dries without a wringer, a machine appropriate for the kitchenette or the housewife who prefers doing a small amount of laundry herself. A man may also present his wife with a hand vacuum cleaner, and still not be looked upon as a taxi maker by his neighbors. These cleaners are handy for cleaning furniture.

For the wee one's keepsakes, such as his lock of baby hair, first pair of shoes, and birth certificate, is a combination scrapbook and chest in one store. Even the baby that has not yet attained the art of walking is wearing galoshes this winter. They are high topped bootees of quilted silk material matching a coat and bonnet in pink, white or blue, used to slip on over baby's Sunday shoes.

It is glorious music to the housewife's ears when she is told that her Christmas dollar will stretch farther this year than in many a moon. And the storekeepers, well aware of that, are displaying their most attractive small gifts. A dollar, $1.50, $2, $2.50, $3.50 to $5, will buy a pleasing and useful gift that one would have paid probably a third more for last year.

There are spinning wheels in miniature, as ancient in appearance as the originals; work baskets embroidered in bright raffia flowers and lined with gay gingham, imported laundry hangers in pastel colors, sets of flowered or modernistic bath towels and wash cloths done up in fancy packages, pewter dishes. In the dressgoods section of one store are lengths measured off for blouses, pajamas, lounging robes, dresses and done up in Christmas boxes.

There is one last round of shopping that should not be overlooked for the home that boasts a fireplace. That is driftwood blaze, a carton of colored matches to hang by the hearth, or hearth brush.

D. K. E. Luncheon Today.

Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity will hold its monthly luncheon today at the Blackstone hotel grill room.

BEG YOUR PARDON!

A statement in THE TRIBUNE of Dec. 1 said that insurance expired on many classes of lake ships on that date and that from that time on mariners "would be without insurance protection for their cargoes." The Goodrich West Ports Steamship company writes to correct this statement. The Goodrich letter says: "We are covered by insurance over the entire year, both on our west shore operation of the Goodrich West Ports Steamship company, operating steamers from Chicago to Kewaunee, stopping at Kenosha, Racine, Milwaukee, Sheboygan and Manitowoc, and on our cross lake operation of the Wisconsin and Michigan Transportation company between Milwaukee, Grand Haven and Muskegon."

In the society section of THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE, the date of the Illinois Women's Athletic club's charity ball for the Good Fellow fund was given as Saturday evening, Dec. 20. This was an error. The correct date is Thursday night, Dec. 18.

The massmeeting of nine civic groups on the northwest side to be held tonight at Oriental hall, Milwaukee, North, and Damen avenues, is being sponsored by the North Hoyne Avenue Property Owners' association, instead of the North Robey Street Property Owners' association, as stated in the Metropolitan section of Sunday's TRIBUNE.

Hospital Corner Stone Laid by Bishop Hoban at Aurora

The corner stone of the new St. Joseph's hospital at Aurora was laid yesterday, Bishop Edward F. Hoban of the Rockford diocese officiating. The edifice will cost $500,000, and when it is completed all patients from the present building will be moved into it and that structure will be used as an old people's home.

He Kisses Too Many Friends; Wife Jealous

BY DORIS BLAKE.

What, were you asked, would you suggest as a cure for a husband with a weakness for kissing the ladies? Black eyed Susie, his wife, would have your answer. It's beyond me. You must help. After all, it is a habit that might get the poor boy into mischief, some day, in addition to what he has got into with his wife already.

It certainly is no taste for a man to cultivate, unless he intends to stay unmarried. Even then he has to be chary of how he distributes his amorous tokens. Bachelors are being dragged into heart balm suits on less provocation than an uncontrollable lip. Girls have to live, and some of them would rather live than work if they can just catch a man in an unguarded moment.

It's a good habit for a married man to have, on second thought, if he is a one woman man. I've never heard a complaint yet from a wife because she is sole consumer of the baffling lip-and-heart product. That way safety lies, gentlemen. Why not let it go as home talent?

Surely she's jealous, as you say she is, when she upbraids you for your digressions. And why shouldn't she be? Jealous of her position in the eyes of others. Jealous of her rightful claim to first place. And you're never going to cure her of her jealousy so long as she cares for you enough to mind.

Maybe she's even jealous of your own position in other people's eyes. She doesn't want others talking about what a mushy creature you are, or what a fool. Women can't stand that. They take it on their own chins better than they can take a second hand blow delivered through a husband.

Maybe wiser, more experienced old birds will believe it true when you tell your wife you love her, even through you trifle with other lips, but don't expect the girl you married to swallow your story. She can't.

Anyway, it's not according to Hoyle or the golden rule. Let her try to tell you between osculatory rehearsals with other men that she loves you and only you—and see how you stand up under the little declaration.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

No Excuse for Deceit.

"Dear Miss Blake: The girl I love says she does not go with any one else. I found out that she meets fellows on the sly. Please advise.

"TED."

If she wanted to go out with other boys she should have done so openly. There is no excuse for deceit.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Closed Season on Visits.

I was visiting some friends over the week-end, and, as my hostess was making grape jelly, I offered to assist her. In an effort to make myself useful, I volunteered to clear the table. Then, not knowing where she kept the preserves, I placed a large can of pineapple on top of the gas stove.

About twenty minutes later I heard a big splash followed by an agonized scream. Upon reaching the kitchen I found that the pineapple can had fallen into the cooking grape juice, splattering the cream colored walls and ceiling generously, and my hostess was engaged in scolding her poor husband whom she suspected of having put the can on the stove.

I had to admit that I was the culprit. Of course, I scrubbed and scrubbed and removed some of the damage, but never again will I visit any one during the canning season. C. B.

Reginald Pagets of London, Etc., Visit in Chicago

BY THALIA

CHICAGO society certainly is having a goodly share of house guests right now. Hardly a day goes by that at least two visitors don't set foot in our town to be entertained and shown about. It's a good thing, too, because there is nothing so fine for stimulating social spirits, nor for putting money in circulation, as entertaining. And that's what the economists say we need, isn't it?

Harold F. McCormick isn't doing much in the way of large entertaining for his house guests, Capt. and Mrs. Reginald Paget, because he hasn't been well at all. They're just staying with him at the Drake Towers quietly, and only small and informal parties are being given for them.

The Pagets are real cosmopolites. They have an all year 'round place in Biarritz, but they spend most of their time traveling about. They are always in London for the season, of course, and have an address in Belgrave square. Mrs. Paget is an American woman (and a most attractive one) and was the former Minna Claussius of Chicago.

Before her marriage to Capt. Paget, a few years after the war, she had been Mrs. Laurens Pember Rider of New York. She is the niece of Mrs. Theodore Brentano. Capt. Paget is the twin brother of Arthur Wyndham Paget and is a member of one of the branches of the well known British family of that name.

The Pagets and Mr. McCormick are to be here until only a little while after Christmas. The Pagets depart eastward on their way to London and Mr. McCormick is returning to California.

Lady Ludlow of London, who arrives on Wednesday to visit Mr. and Mrs. William J. Chalmers, is another guest who will be extensively feted during her week here.

Tracing an Author by Reference to Hawaii.

Should you happen on a December copy of the magazine "Holiday," you may try the article, "Ukulele Magic," by Constance Bridges, and get quite excited when you read a reference to "my husband, Michael." My first reaction was that perhaps it was not the same Constance Bridges, formerly wife to Owen Barton Jones and author of "Thin Air, a Himalayan Interlude," published this year, and then I thought perhaps she has married again.

Neither of these surmises was correct. The erstwhile Mrs. Jones DID write the piece, but as far as can be determined without tracking her down in Europe, she is still husbandless. . . . this was the beginning of the end of Hawaii. Everything connected with elsewhere became rapidly unimportant," was one of the nice lines in her story.

In the same issue of the periodical, the leading story, by Lowell Thomas, is about the Bert A. Masseeo' glorified gallivanting expedition in the Caribbean sea on Count Felix von Luckner's four masted windjammer, the Mopelia, a year ago last summer. Photographs and some of the sketches by McClelland Barclay's note book embellish the story.

Speaking of Mac Barclay, reports come back from New York that his recent marriage was a most romantic affair, solemnized on the Maine seashore where he and his bride became acquainted.

Mr. Barclay's former wife was here this fall for a time, and issued cards announcing that she is now engaged in the numerology business. Her professional cards are inscribed "Nan Barclay."

Wants Young Man Versed in Art of Debate.

Arthur W. Barnhart, ardent and faithful protagonist for prohibition, has been having a series of dinner parties lately for the purpose of promoting wet and dry discussions and arguments. He decided that it was a poor sort of advocate who didn't do something concrete for the cause he espoused, and so he had weekly dinner parties, with the guests primed beforehand to be prepared to be intelligently controversial. There aren't any of these little round tables just at the present, because Arthur is in New York on business. His mother, Mrs. Arthur M. Barnhart, accompanied him on his trip.

Another of the inventive schemes achieved by the necessity of the dry law is the one the alumnæ of Dobbs Ferry have thought up as their contribution to relief work. Mrs. Joseph H. Cudahy, president of the Visiting Nurse association and a Dobbs alumna, is to give a tea party this afternoon at her apartment at 900 North Michigan avenue, for the Dobbs girls. Each one is asked to bring 10 articles of clothing, these to be distributed to the needy through the Visiting Nurse association. Margot Atkin is president of the alumnæ this year.

Other Society Affairs, Including Hospital Bazaar.

Others of today's society affairs in brief include:

The Grant hospital annual all day bazaar at the Drake, with Mrs. Henry Bartholomay, president of the woman's board, her daughter, Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne; Mrs. Silas H. Strawn, Mrs. E. R. Litsinger and her daughter, Mrs. Wilbur C. Smith, Mrs. John Stuart Coonley Jr., and Mrs. Hamilton Vose among those assisting.

Mrs. Robert B. Gregory's Albanian luncheon at the La Salle hotel, Mrs. William A. Yager's linen shower for the Passavant Memorial hospital this afternoon at the Casino.

The sale of Christmas gifts made by the crippled children of the Country Home for Convalescent Children, in which Mrs. William J. Chalmers is so interested, at 700 North Michigan avenue.

The first of the American Indian lectures this afternoon at Le Petit Gourmet with Mrs. William B. Greenlee and Mrs. Joseph E. Otis dispensing tea and cakes afterwards.

The opening of Noel Coward's "Hay Fever" at the Goodman theater this evening.

The Vocational Society for Shut-Ins has decided to postpone the sale which had been planned for Thursday at the Bendix galleries. Instead there is to be a "marked down" Christmas sale, starting next Monday at the society's attractive little shop at 112 East Walton place.

A nine pound boy who will call Rear Admiral William A. Moffett "grandpa" arrived yesterday at St. Luke's hospital. The mother is Mrs. E. McFarland Moore of Phoenix, Ariz., the admiral's daughter. Her husband, a retired naval lieutenant, is an official of the Biltmore Improvement company of Phoenix.

MR. AND MRS. BENNET B. HARVEY.
[Bain News Service Photo.]

Mr. and Mrs. Bennet B. Harvey were photographed just before they landed in New York last week on the S. S. Olympic. They were married on Oct. 21 and are to reside at 210 East Walton place. Mrs. Harvey was Miss Dorothy Wegener.

SOCIETY ATTENDS THE OPERA

After the long first act of "Fidelio," box occupants at the opera last night seemed eager to avail themselves of the single intermission for promenading in the foyer. Almost every box was deserted as soon as the applause died down after the first act. Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick and the Cyrus Hall McCormicks were among the few hosts who held court.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Meeker, the latter in black velvet; Mrs. William G Hibbard in wine colored chiffon with rhinestone encrusted shoulder straps, and Harold F. McCormick were guests of the Cyrus McCormicks. Mrs. McCormick wore a pale chartreuse satin gown and a wrap of matching velvet with sable trimming.

Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick's guests included the Harold Foremans, Mr. and Mrs. Hayden B. Harris, and Edwin D. Krenn. Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Insull were hosts to the Walter S. Brewsters, Mrs. J. M. Patterson, and Augustus S. Peabody. Mrs. Insull wore a gown of shimmering white cellophane, Mrs. Brewster black velvet with turquoise beads, and Mrs. Patterson green lace.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick T. Haskell's guests were President and Mrs. Glenn Frank of the University of Wisconsin and Mr. and Mrs. George Henry High. Mrs. Haskell wore a gold lamé gown with a long three pointed train. Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis was host in her box to Col. and Mrs. Clifford Colvin, Mrs. Wirt Morton, Robert Fernald, and Ballard Moore.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Elting and Mr. and Mrs. Nelson L. Barnes were guests of the Gustavus F. Swifts. The Kersey Coates Reed box was occupied by a group composed of Princess Cantacuzene in black chiffon with diamente trimming, Prince Rostislav, Prince Nicholas Galitzine, Miss Frieda Foltz, and Miss Ruth Elting.

The Chauncey B. Blairs were hosts to the Marquise d'Ivanrey, Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus H. Adams, and Russell Tyson. Mr. and Mrs. James Wescott, Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Knight, and Mr. and Mrs. William Dewey were guests of James S. Kemper. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Curran, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ryan, and Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Fallon occupied Miss Helen M. Sullivan's box.

Straight Haired Girls Need Bemoan Their Lot No More

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

When we were young we thought beauty had only one dimension—curly locks. If you were born with them, you didn't have to study your lessons because when you grew up a slew of princes would want to marry you. If you didn't have them, you were a Saturday's child due for a six day week of slavery with only enough time off on Sunday for sermon and catechism.

Well, this one born without benefit of curl, is still slaving, as you see by her column week days and Sundays, and the woman who used to be next door's curly locks got her princes all right, but she had a lot of legal bother piling up her three-man record. As princes they weren't much shucks, if you can judge by their respective brief periods of probation.

Today, a small one needn't have any Saturday child misgivings, not if future marriage security hangs on a curly look. It won't be long from the looks of things before you can forgive your mother and father for not marrying into a curly haired family. Heredity has met its Waterloo in so far as it dictates straight hair or curly.

We've all heard the fairy tale of a colored woman grown fabulously rich on the proceeds of a preparation that takes unwanted curl out of hair. And it's no fairy tale either. It would follow that sometime the other half of the world, the straight who'd like to be curly, would move good Samaritans to action.

It is more than rumored that the time has come when you can have waves without parental coöperation, without marcels or permanents. By certain clever manipulations with the hairbrush, after spraying the hair with a hair curling lotion and a pinching of the hair into waves, you may look as though you were born with what is now accepted generally as an advantageous hair charm.

But, of course, you don't get your spirit to riding on natural hair waves without putting rules and regulations into a frequently repeated performance. If you want straight hair to curl this new way you have to divide the hair into strands and brush in a circular motion directly on the scalp and then in an up-and-up stroke. You've probably been brushing your hair with a downstroke. Try this circular move of the brush on the scalp and then a smart upstroke. If you never get a curl, you'd still do handsomely by the scalp and the condition of the hair.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hoover left this evening on the Norfolk boat for Newport News, Va. There tomorrow morning she will christen the United States ship, The President Hoover, the largest ship to be built in an American yard. It will go into service in June at San Francisco, to run from there to the Orient. Mrs. Hoover was accompanied by Mrs. Stark McMullin, a guest at the White House.

Vice President Curtis and his sister have had as their week end guests the former's son-in-law Webster Knight II., and his brother, Clinton Knight of Providence, R. I. They are on a motor trip and left today for the south.

The adjutant general of the army and Mrs. Charles H. Bridges gave a dinner dance tonight at the Mayflower to present their niece, Miss Georgette Yerby, to society. The dinner preceded the bachelors' cotillion. They had 125 guests. Assisting Miss Yerby to receive were Miss Katrina McCormick, daughter of Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick, Miss Beatrice Patton, Miss Betty Peele, Miss Ruth Bryant and Miss Katherine Hall.

The British ambassador, Sir Roland Lindsay, was the guest of honor at the dinner given tonight at the Willard by the English Speaking union.

Mrs. Eleanor Patterson gave a dinner last evening in the Patterson home on Dupont circle. She also was hostess at a supper dance at the club Chanticler on Saturday night.

'Cardinal of Working Folk,' Dock Men Call O'Connell

Boston, Mass., Dec. 8.—(AP)—"Cardinal of the working people" was the title conferred on Cardinal O'Connell, dean of the Roman Catholic hierarchy in the United States, by a longshoremen's union today, his seventy-first birthday.

From hundreds of men and women throughout the nation and organizations of diversified interests, Cardinal O'Connell received messages of felicitation.

None pleased him more, however, he said, than that from local 799, International Longshoremen's association, Charlestown, which contained the tribute, "We are taking the liberty, your eminence, of calling you the cardinal of the working people."

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Often Without Food.

"I am a widow with seven children, the eldest 18 years old and the youngest 2. The smaller children are greatly in need of clothing and underwear and any help I might get through you will be gratefully received. We have been living on what my 18 year old boy earns, but we are often without food. I am not well, so cannot go to work myself. The children's ages are 18, 17, 11 and 9 for the boys, and 14, 12 and 2 for the girls.

"MRS. A. B."

Request for Prince Albert.

"I am an elderly man and a professor. I should like to have a Prince Albert coat to wear when I lecture and I cannot afford to buy one. Do you think one of your readers would have such a coat to give? I wear size 38 to 40.

Gay Squirrels, Serious Minded Birds Art Show Features

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

A delightful atmosphere of naïveté and sincerity pervades the Palmolive gallery. There lithographs by Halen West Heller, Nura and William S. Schwarz, and original drawings by Alfeo Faggi are the holiday show.

Perhaps there is no keynote to this exhibit, and perhaps again there is, and the "Noise" or "Fiddle Head" lithographs by Miss Heller strike that note. These are, at all events, two of the most skillfully handled arrangements in the gallery.

Both "Noise" and "Fiddle Head" are made up of many chords strung upon one motif. The lines and planes weave into each other, resulting in a riddle that it is a task of sheer delight to unravel. The "Valley" with its gay, inconsequent squirrels and serious minded birds is in a more whimsical vein. It is a door that swings at a touch into the land of pure fantasy, where Miss Heller lives part of her time and where Nura spends all her days.

Nura, introduced through the "Valley," catches us at once in several of her intriguing webs sugared with the innocent plumpness of little girls.

The "Authoress Reading" could easily go hand in hand with Christopher Robin. Pooh-bear gallops in the background of "Racing the Thunder Bird." Alice smiles from a dusky corner out of "Quiet Contemplation." Nura binds all the lovable living qualities of our choicest literary infants into a bouquet of pictures whose fragrance is everlasting.

William S. Schwarz makes a magnificent foil for Nura. His lithographs are dramatically severe. They are clear cut, chiseled, perfect in sweep and line. The artist is sensitive to beauty and his feeling for the perfect quantity arrests his pencil and relieves his work of every unnecessary feature. His lithographs are capital work. They have none of the chill formalism which ties Alfeo Faggi's imaginative efforts.

Faggi shows us Beatrice, the Beatrice of Dante, repeatedly. He gets his effects as though, using a pencil, he still were handling a chisel. He is primarily a sculptor and his drawings do not permit us to forget it. There is a beauty about his work, but it is as cold as a dead moon and no more emotional than a couplet from Virgil.

FARM AND GARDEN

BY PAUL POTTER

Two of the most common house plants also offer some of the most common problems in plant culture, according to Alex Laurie, eastern authority. They are the geranium and the Boston fern. Temperatures most ideal for the former range below 70 degrees, he says, while the Boston fern should not be kept too cool but should be placed so that it basks in a temperature between 65 and 70 degrees.

"Geraniums are almost universally carried through the summer out of doors in the garden. The most satisfactory system of growing them in the home is to start cuttings in the spring, grow them on in the garden during the summer, and pot them in comparatively small pots. This is done to restrict root action and produce stocky, floriferous plants," says Mr. Laurie.

"Geraniums benefit by regular applications of food to the soil. Abundance of water is necessary. Various insects may attack the plants, but usually the infestations are not serious. The plants are quite susceptible to gas injury.

"Many persons do not succeed with ferns because of keeping them too cool. Common troubles are induced by growing them in too large pots, which results in overwatering and 'wet feet'; allowing them to be exposed to direct rays of the sun; placing too near registers or radiators and thus forcing heat under the plants. By observing these causes of failure much may be done in growing ferns."

Repotting in soil which contains leaf mold or peat should be done once in a year, and in the meantime, says the expert, particularly in spring and summer, the ferns should be given regular feedings with prepared plant foods.

Gay and Colorful Toys Aren't Always Best Investment

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"All that glitters is not gold," is a little proverb that everybody who is buying for children at Christmas should have printed on a card and keep clipped to the greenbacks that lie in wait to jump spontaneously out in exchange for some tempting looking toy or plaything.

Everything that looks gay and colorful and childlike in a toy department is not always a source of real, lasting pleasure to a child. A tremendous amount of money is spent on toys at Christmastime, and that money should represent the greatest possible return for the child.

Tricky or pretty or amusing things are apt to attract the inexperienced person and draw much "good" money from his or her pocket—which is why the buying of presents for the younger children should be thoughtfully done. The children will thank you in the end.

For example, a little gay tool set in a pretty tool box may seem to make a fine present. But if the tools are dull or of poor quality, it is a waste of money and no real pleasure to a child. A few good tools and nails are infinitely to be preferred. A gay little man who does a mechanical trick is an example of glitter that isn't gold, because a child tires of him in a few days—or perhaps an hour. Better an everydayish looking sturdy truck that gives the small child himself something to do.

There are wonderful toys on the market today. The child toy psychologist and the manufacturer have gotten together these last years and produced things that are really worth while. Now the money of fathers and mothers and loving relatives need not be wasted, but may buy the right kind of plaything for every age.

African City Wins Title of Noise Capital

BY WILLIAM J. MAKIN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ADDIS ABABA, Dec. 8.—Most civilized people regard noise as inevitable. Din seems to be the price of progress. There are few adventures in noise which I have not experienced. I have been deafened by airplane travel. I have tried to sleep in the pulsating heart of a fast cruiser. I know something of the agony of New York's rattling subway. Moreover, I have listened to much modern music.

Yet I did not expect babel in the heart of Africa. I have lived in many African cities and only now discovered the noisiest of all. It is Addis Ababa, the city which Ras Tafari chose, for his coronation as Haile Selassie, the First of Ethiopia.

Addis Ababa provides a terrible symphony of noise. Imagine 500 taxi-drivers sounding horns with fiendish persistency. In the manner of point counter point there is the braying of 5,000 donkeys, the clatter of hoofs, the bleating of goats, the lowing of cattle. Into this cacophony comes the shrilling voices of native women raised many octaves above European. Likewise the screaming of thousands of tribesmen.

Near the market place of Addis Ababa the babel reaches a crescendo. A court of justice in the open is throbbing with the passionate declamation of some sufferer. The judge, an ordinary passerby who has been dragged into this delicate position, listens in grave silence and then suddenly devastates all with the screaming of the sentence. Cattle, goats, and donkeys are being sold in an intense atmosphere which suggests Wall street on the verge of a crash. Away in the distance a battery of artillery blasts the news of some imperial edict. Three aeroplanes drone just above the roofs throbbing the whole city. And, as a liet motif, there comes once again the noise of those five hundred taxi drivers sounding horns with fiendish persistency.

It may be the altitude. At eight thousand feet even a European behaves queerly. When, tired and nerve fretted by the noise of the day I tried to sleep through the all-night howling of a thousand dogs and hyenas, I would be awakened from some sort of a stupor by a Frenchman in the next room singing at five thirty in the morning the following chant:

Boy! Boy! Boy!
BOY! BOY! BOY!
BOY! BOY! BOY!

He continued with maddening monotony and without a pause until there was a shuffle of bare feet and the unfortunate native servant made his appearance. There was something deadly, almost insane, in that morning chant of the Frenchman who had been living too long at an altitude of eight thousand feet. I believe he took a madman's delight in rousing us all to a hopeless dawn of sounding motor horns and braying cattle.

Usually, savage Africa is strangely silent. There is something awesome, even terrifying about the pregnant hush of the jungle. Always there is the feeling that something is watching with deadly patience to pounce with tooth and claw. Primitive fear comes easily in primitive Africa.

In order to celebrate his coronation Ras Tafari collected as much modern noise as he could afford. Fireworks, blank shells, blank cartridges. They were used lavishly. Some one let off the whole of the fireworks in one big explosion which nearly started a revolution. The blank shells and blank cartridges were fired hourly.

WOMAN'S DRESS.

This model, with its scarf neckline and sleeves that suggest the leg o' mutton shaping, is decidedly up to the minute. The wrapped bodice at the front is softened by a swathed movement at the waistline, and at the left side front of the skirt a pointed inset provides an interesting swing to the hem. The back of the skirt is circular. Black Canton crêpe with collar and sleeve puffs of white is smart.

The pattern, 2665, comes in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, and 46 inches bust measure. Size 38 requires 3⅝ yards of 39 inch material with ⅞ yard of 35 inch contrasting.

Twin Coat and Frock Form Sports Ensemble

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.] Paris fashions are full of little unexpected tricks this winter. The coat-dress make wraps that look like dresses and frocks that imitate coats. You have to look twice to see whether the fur neck arrangement is a scarf or a collar and likely as not a cuff will turn out to be a muff.

Jane Regny follows the same lines in constructing the coat and dress of the sports ensemble, sketched above, which is quite elegant enough to wear in town in the morning or even in the early afternoon.

It's of broadcloth in her new blue—a rich dark lapis-lazuli shade. The top of the coat, shown on the large model figure stimulates a tunic-jacket. It is decorated by diagonal nervures set over the front and on the smart double sleeves. A plain band of the fabric edges this imitation tunic, being narrowed in the skirt of the coat at the edge of the peplum. A couple of pleats lend fullness to the coat-skirt in front. The back treatment appears on the small figure to the left.

The frock on the small figure at the right has a real tunic jacket. The nervures that trim it are closer together than those on the coat and they run vertically instead of diagonally down the sleeves. Its blue leather belt is narrower than that worn with the coat, its lower sleeves are tighter and it has a little turn-down collar of blue broadcloth. The skirt has an inverted plait down the center of the back in addition to the two box-plaits in front. Both coat and frock fasten with fabric covered buttons down the front of their tunics.

A gray astrakhan cravat replaces the absent coat collar and the little beret is of gray astrakhan mounted on a blue velvet bow. Gray antelope slip-on gloves add the final touch of chic to this ensemble.

If the Home Could Tell You Its Wishes

These Are What They Would Be

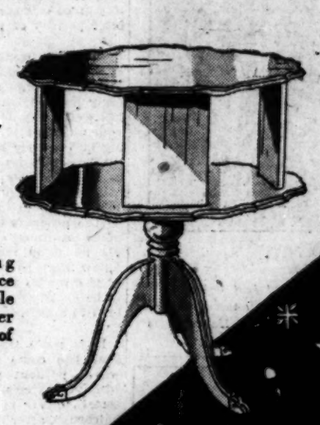
Furniture

Reading Table $29

Of solid mahogany in the Duncan Phyfe manner with brass claw feet; revolving top.

Every home awaits those much desired "new things" that its own allowance didn't quite cover. Even the home that "has everything" can always be made happy with an attractive new chair and a table or two.

This Furniture Section is interested in seeing that each home gets what it wants—at prices that are satisfactory. Hence the wide assortments of attractive pieces—and the interesting range of prices.



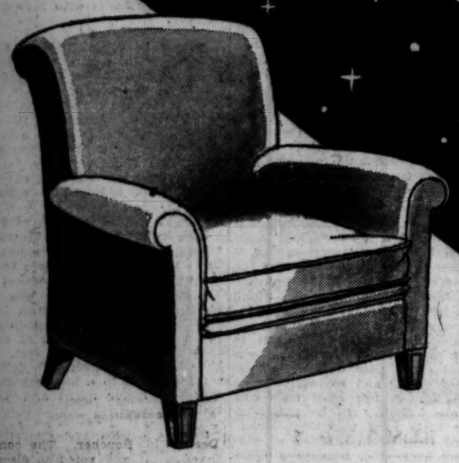
Tripod Table $13.50

A charming companion piece to a comfortable chair, this clever table, entirely of mahogany.

Luxurious Wing Chair, $48

A chair any home will be proud of—it's such an addition to the decorative scheme—to say nothing of the comfort of the room. In a choice of coverings, at $48. At this same price there are many other styles—each distinctive in its own smart lines.

Sixth Floor, Wabash.



Leather Chair, $89

You relax at the mere thought of it. Extremely comfortable and very good looking—in a rich maroon tone of genuine leather. Priced at $89.

Arm-Chair, $19.50

Nail-studded open arm chair with a gracefully carved stretcher. Nicely finished in walnut. In a variety of attractive coverings in rust, green, red.

MAROONS ABANDON NATIONAL BASKET MEET

N. U. PRESENTS $100,000 TO UNEMPLOYMENT FUND

1931 GAME WITH NOTRE DAME TO RETURN MONEY

Contest Scheduled for Soldiers' Field.

Northwestern university yesterday presented a check for $100,000 to Gov. Emmerson's unemployment commission. The presentation was made by Arthur Andersen, president of Northwestern's board of trustees, to George Getz, chairman of the unemployment commission, at 105 South La Salle street.

The check covers anticipated receipts from next year's football game between Notre Dame and Northwestern at Soldiers' Field. The game was scheduled for South Bend, but Notre Dame enthusiastically consented to shift the site to Chicago to relieve distress among the city's unemployed. The Big Ten faculty committee last week approved the transfer.

Will Double Attendance.

Notre Dame's stadium seats 55,000. Twice that number can see the game at Soldiers' field. The anticipated surplus receipts from the increased seating capacity will go back to Northwestern to reimburse the school for the advancement of its $100,000 check. If the surplus exceeds $100,000, the balance will be distributed among charities designated by Notre Dame and Northwestern. If the surplus does not reach $100,000, Northwestern will assume the responsibility.

The presentation of $100,000 to the unemployment commission is an outgrowth of a suggestion submitted to Northwestern last October by THE TRIBUNE. The 1930 football game between Northwestern and Notre Dame looked like one of the season's outstanding attractions six weeks before it was played. The demand for tickets was unprecedented at Northwestern. THE TRIBUNE proposed that Northwestern move the game from Dyche stadium, with its seating capacity of 48,000, to Soldiers' field and donate the proceeds from the extra 40,000 tickets to charity.

Both Approved Change.

President Walter Dill Scott indorsed the proposal. The Rev. Charles L. O'Donnell, president of Notre Dame, said his school would be glad to cooperate. Northwestern's faculty committee on athletics approved the plan and instructed Prof. O. F. Long, faculty representative on the Big Ten board, to petition the conference for sanction of the new site.

Meanwhile opposition to the transfer sprang up from various sources. One newspaper published an editorial urging the Big Ten to reject Northwestern's request. One Chicago newspaper sent telegrams to athletic officials at some of the conference schools asking them to use their influence in blocking the transfer of the game.

Another newspaper as late as last Friday printed a story containing this comment: "It is likely that Northwestern is pulling harder than anybody else for an adverse decision. The school was pushed into the proposition, and can hardly come out ahead."

Whether the intention of that newspaper was to question the sincerity and good intentions of the Northwestern authorities was not clear. At any rate, the effort to block the arrangement proved futile and as a consequence of the success of the original suggestion the poor of Chicago benefit by exactly $100,000 in funds at this time.

Big 10 Rule Balked N. U.

Northwestern's plea to move this year's game to Soldiers' field was rejected because of a Big Ten rule which requires that games must be played on the home field of either contestant or on a field immediately under the control of either contestant. It was pointed out later that three conference teams, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio State, had played this season on fields which hardly could be construed as the home gridirons of the opposing schools.

Northwestern did not give up its effort to aid the poor. Two weeks after the Big Ten's refusal to approve transfer of the 1930 game, President Scott announced it would donate immediately $100,000 to the governor's unemployment commission contingent upon the following conditions:

1. That Notre Dame agree to transfer the 1931 game scheduled for South Bend to Soldiers' field; $100,000 from the surplus receipts to go back to Northwestern.
2. That the Big Ten approve the plan.
3. That the south park board again extend use of Soldiers' field without rental charge.

All of these requirements had been fulfilled when the check was presented yesterday.

Next year's game between Northwestern and Notre Dame will be played on Oct. 10. A paid attendance of 55,000 will be necessary for Northwestern to get back its $100,000.

HOW NATIONAL TITLE IS WON

JOCK SUTHERLAND (Pittsburgh). JUDGE WALTER STEFFEN (Carnegie Tech). BILL INGRAM (Navy). HOWARD JONES (Southern California).

Here are eight of the ten coaches whose teams were defeated by Notre Dame in the South Bend eleven's march to a national football championship. The two coaches not included are Ray Morrison of Southern Methodist and Ossie Solem of Drake. In defeating these teams Notre Dame completed its second consecutive season without defeat, ran its string of victories to nineteen straight, and won its third U. S. title within seven years.

Cleveland Team Withdraws from Pro Basketball

Cleveland, O., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Withdrawal of the Cleveland Rosenblums, 1929-'30 champions, from membership in the American Professional Basketball league was announced here today after a conference which resulted in a decision to continue operation of the league with the possible addition of two new teams.

Clubs remaining in the league are Chicago Bruins, Fort Wayne Hoosiers, Paterson, N. J., Crescents, Brooklyn Visitations, Rochester Centrals, and Toledo Redmen. President John J. O'Brien did not indicate what other cities would likely come into the circuit.

Max Rosenblum, owner of the Cleveland team, said that failure of fans to patronize games here led him to conclude that professional basketball could not be put on a paying basis. There was no other reason given, though observers have noted a decrease in interest since the league abolished the pivot play which was a major point in Cleveland's winning attack last season. Without the pivot Cleveland has broken even in its dozen games so far this season.

Army-Navy Game Is One Sport Show Worth the Fan's Money

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 8.—For ways that are strange and deeds that are goofy the sporting customer is very peculiar indeed. Eagerly he pays from $27.50 to $55 for a seat on a wabbling bench set on the flat in a ballyard from which to stretch his neck for vague glimpses of a couple of irresponsible and unappreciative prize fighters who may or may not be fighting on the level. He has been advised that the managers on both sides are capable of the most sinister unscrupulosity and he quite understands that the disposition of the fighters toward him, their customer, was epitomized by one of the millionaire heavyweights when he remarked one night after one of his artistic failures in the ring: "Let them squawk; I've got their money."

Moreover, in many cases, he realizes that the betting odds are out of proportion to the normal probabilities, indicating that the fight is to be phoney in some respect and, if he has been a ringside customer at a heavyweight fight in a ballyard before, he is bound to have learned that the best seats have been allotted privately to the more influential and sporty bankers, politicians and bootleggers, leaving only the inferior seats for sale to such as himself, although he pays the same price.

Gets Occasional Glimpse.

However, having bought his ticket, he presents himself at the ball grounds, and after some struggling discovers himself wedged in among a lot of similar guillibles in such a position that he can glimpse the fighters only from the ears up, and that only when they are necking along the ropes on his side of the ring. Of all the views of the heavyweight prize fighter, that from the ears up is the least entrancing.

But presently from the forward rows there comes a sharp crowd sound, apprising those in the rear that something of more than routine interest, probably a foul, has taken place and our customer, desperate now and wishing to salvage some value from his investment of $27.50 or $55, pops up on to his seat simultaneously with the other occupants of the bench, which is set about forty yards from the ring.

At the same instant other customers in other rows before and behind his row hop up, and somewhere in this movement some one who has been sucking on a bottle of Scotch falls

IT'S NOTRE DAME HOUR TOMORROW IN CHICAGO LOOP

The attention usually reserved for heroes back from the wars, trans-Atlantic flyers, south pole explorers, etc., will be showered on the University of Notre Dame's unvanquished football eleven in one crowded hour here tomorrow morning.

The Rockne squad, tarrying here on the way home from its exploit which on Saturday last consigned the University of Southern California's eleven to a place alongside of Navy, Carnegie, Pitt, Northwestern, Army and others, will be given a reception which will convince the youthful athletes that Chicago regards them as its own.

Will Speak Over W-G-N.

The undefeated warriors arrive at the La Salle street station on the Rock Island's Golden State limited at 9:25 a. m. and before they start away for South Bend an hour later they will talk over W-G-N microphone, be paraded through the loop past buildings decorated with the Notre Dame colors, be showered with the confetti appropriate for such occasions and be welcomed by a committee of prominent citizens.

The line of march will be north on La Salle street to Jackson, east on Jackson to Michigan, north on Michigan to Washington, west on Washington to La Salle, south on La Salle to station.

The official reception committee will be comprised of former Notre Dame monogram winners. They are Roger Kiley, Joe Pliska, Eddie Anderson, Norman Barry, William Maher, William Cerney, Charles Collins, Bernard Livergood, Herbert Eggert, Joseph Regali, Joseph Prelli, Elmer Wynne, Chester McDonald, Frank Keefe, Hal McCabe, John Wallace, Edward White, Jack Elder, Joseph Nash, Joe Locke, Tim Moynihan, Fred Collins, Edward Collins, George Trafton, John McMullin and O. J. Larsen.

The reception, backed by the Chicago Notre Dame Alumni association, took on a civic aspect yesterday when the Cook county board of commissioners, at the suggestion of President Anton J. Cermak, voted to decorate the county building with flags and the Notre Dame colors. Cermak, in a proclamation, urged business houses to hang out similar signs of welcome for the youthful athletes.

Will Broadcast from Station.

The broadcasting of the arrival of the cosmopolitan squad usually referred to as the Fighting Irish, will be in the hands of Quin Ryan, W-G-N's veteran announcer. Ryan, with microphone in hand will be alongside the Golden State limited when it comes to a stop in the La Salle street station shed. As many of the regular players and shock troops as the limited time permits, will be given an opportunity to say something to the outside world. Coach Rockne also will speak. These talks probably will be made after the parade through the loop.

The broadcast feature of the reception will start at 9:25.

The squad will be able to spend only a short itme here. It is scheduled to arrive in South Bend shortly after the noon hour for the big reception planned there by townspeople and Notre Dame students.

Navy Plans World-Wide Broadcast of Army Game

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—(AP)—A round the world broadcast of the Army-Navy football game will be undertaken Saturday by the Navy. A running account of the game in high frequency code will be sent out by naval communications and transmitted to the far Pacific by the naval radio station at San Francisco. The broadcast is expected to be picked up by naval radio stations at Balboa and Honolulu, as well as by naval radio in the far east.

Northwestern Opens Season with 36-23 Win Over Bradley

Northwestern last night inaugurated its basketball campaign by defeating Bradley Tech of Peoria, 36 to 23. The score might have been larger if Coach Arthur Lonborg had permitted his starting quintet to function all the way.

Thirty-five hundred watched the game and their scattering cheers seemed anticipatory of the coming battles with Big Ten rivals.

Rieff Makes Good Start.

The crowd's attention centered on Joe Reiff, the curly haired lad from Crane Tech who had carried his prep school to a pair of city titles. Reiff was Lonborg's choice at center last night, with Capt. Bert Reil and Bob McCarnes at forwards and Bob Lockhart and Frank Marshall at guards.

Reiff fitted into this five as if he was starting his third year instead of his first. He scored five field goals and two penalty tosses is as many chances. More important, his passing matched that of Bob Lockhart, whose all round steady performance presages him the bell wether of Wildcat fortunes.

And while Northwestern substituted freely after the opening minutes, Reiff played longer than any other save Lockhart. The blonde McCarnes, a second year man, as is Lockhart, and also from the Hoosier basketball state, performed well, although he didn't score until his return to the game in the second half. Riel hit three times before he left with a maximum of personal fouls. Elmer Johnson, who did a turn at forward, apparently is the best substitution available at that position.

N. U. Leads at Half.

Bradley's defeat was due to an indifferent showing in the first twenty minutes which ended with Northwestern leading, 20 to 11. The Tech students never recovered from this handicap, although on two occasions they narrowed the Wildcats' lead to seven points. Bradley stepped up the pace until Northwestern followed with a series of wild dribbling sprints from which the Wildcats couldn't score because of excessive speed, and Bradley likewise failed when long distance shots wouldn't roll in. Invariably, Northwestern's height took the ball out of danger.

Lambert Redd, Bradley center, opened with two free throws on Riel's foul, but it was ten minutes before his team scored from the floor. In the interim Northwestern methodically advanced with Lockhart and Marshall bringing the ball down to Reiff on the free throw line and the forwards breaking from the corners.

Block Plays Help.

Many of the Wildcats' openings were created by side line block plays which Bradley didn't fathom until the second period. During this time Reiff counted four of his baskets, two from at least 20 feet out.

In the second half Bradley spurted to trail only 28 to 21, but Phil Seghi gave Northwestern two more points at this stage. Warren Estedahl dropped in a long goal, making the count read 30 to 23. Here Bradley stopped while McCarnes' pair of goals with free throws by Reiff and Coleman completed Northwestern's addition.

ILLINI WIN, 27-15

Champaign, Ill., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—Illinois basketball team won its opening game of the season here this afternoon by defeating De Pauw university, 27 to 15. The victory avenged a last minute defeat at the hands of the Greencastle five on the local floor a year ago.

The Illini attack was led by Capt. Bur Harper, who scored four baskets. He was pressed by Bartholomew and Bob Kamp, each with three. Bob's cousin, Babe Kamp, was not far behind with two.

The game was two minutes old before the first score was made and that by De Pauw. Another 11 minutes elapsed before Copeland made his basket to send the visitors into a four to nothing lead. Scores by Bartholomew, Harper and Babe Kamp gave the Illini a 9 to 8 lead at the half.

Iowa City, Ia., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—St. Louis university's Billikens staged a brilliant second half comeback to overwhelm the University of Iowa basketball team here tonight in the Hawkeyes' first game of the season, 26 to 14. The Hawkeyes got away to an early lead, holding a 6 to 2 margin within the first few minutes of play. Led by Leo Grandone, sophomore substitute center, the visitors pulled abreast of the Iowans to finish the half in a 9 to 9 tie.

GREENLEAF WINS FIRST BLOCK OF TOURNEY, 125-18

New York, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Ralph Greenleaf successfully opened the defense of his world's pocket billiard title tonight at Dwyer's Billiard academy by beating Thomas Boatman of Portland, Ore., 125 to 18 in 8 innings.

In the fourth inning he clicked off 43 points before scratching on a comparatively easy shot, lost three points on scratches in the next three frames and then finished the game with a brilliant unfinished run of 55.

For three innings, Boatman, who is competing in his first world's tournament, held the upper hand, but once Greenleaf started in the fourth inning, there was no stopping the cue artist, who has won nine titles in the past 11 years.

Deberry, Brooklyn Catcher, Injured in Auto Accident

Savannah, Tenn., Dec. 8.—(AP)—J. B. Freeman, 45 years old, sheriff of Hardin county, was killed and four persons, including Hank Deberry, catcher for the Brooklyn Baseball club, were injured today as Freeman's automobile crashed into a wagon on the highway near here.

Jones, Phelan Finish Quarrel with Handshake

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—Jimmy Phelan, football coach at University of Washington, and last year coach of Purdue's Big Ten champs, was in town today seeking an explanation and an apology from Howard Jones. Jones got the explanation, Phelan dismissed his request for an apology, and they shook hands.

Jones, who is head coach at University of Southern California, unburdened his mind ten days ago following Washington's Thanksgiving day battle with Southern California here of some charges of "dirty football."

Jones said his players had showed marvelous repression in the face of great provocation in the Washington game, which ended with a Trojan victory, 32 to 0, and six Trojan players carried to Good Samaritan hospital.

Jones said that in his opinion the coach of a team that played the way "our last opponent"—meaning Washington—" played, should have resigned at the end of the game."

Later, when asked about his speech Jones said, "Yes, I said it. And the reason I said it is because I meant it."

CANVASS SHOWS PRINCIPALS ARE AGAINST GAMES

Spring Track Events to Be Continued.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The University of Chicago has abandoned the national interscholastic basketball tournament which was initiated by Coach A. A. Stagg in 1917 and held annually ever since. The decision was announced yesterday by Vice President Frederic Woodward, chairman of the university board of physical culture and athletics.

Stagg's basketball tournament, as it was known to all followers of the sport throughout the nation, has been subject in recent years to attack by the National Federation of High School Athletic Associations. The federation, through its secretary, C. W. Whitten, who also is secretary of the Illinois association, carried the fight for complete control of high school tournaments to the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondardy Schools. At present the North Central has under consideration a resolution which would prohibit member schools from holding any high school meets.

Threaten Standing of Offenders.

Failure to obey the resolution (it was approved as to purpose but was referred back to the committee for rewording), "shall be taken into consideration in accrediting any higher institution of learning." Since credits of an offending university would not be accepted, Stagg's tournament became a matter of university policy at Chicago.

Vice President Woodward appointed a subcommittee of three to investigate the desirability of the interscholastic basketball meet. The members of this committee were: Prof. Merle Coulter, Dr. Esmond R. Long, and Dean C. S. Boucher. The committee investigated and voted to discontinue the tournament.

Principals Oppose Tourney.

The committee mailed 269 letters to the principals of high schools whose basketball teams had participated in the tournament during the last ten years. Fifty per cent of the letters were answered. Eighty-nine principals voted against Stagg's interscholastic; 30 favored its retention, while 16 were indecisive in content.

The National Federation of High School associations, following a poll of its members in 1929, refused to permit its member schools to compete in Stagg's interscholastic last spring. The tournament, however, was held with academy and parochial quintets competing with high schools from nonfederation states and a few which had defied the edict.

Last spring Coach Stagg said: "When I am convinced high schools are opposed to meets sponsored by universities and colleges, I will withdraw my plea for them."

Tribune Poll Favorable.

With this introduction, THE TRIBUNE conducted a poll of central western high school principals. Other newspapers coöperated and returns were received from 12 states. Eight states voted in favor of interscholastic tournaments conducted by universities. They were Illinois, Michigan, Kentucky, Iowa, Kansas, Oklahoma, Tennessee, and Colorado. Four states, Wisconsin, Indiana, Ohio, and Minnesota, were against the tournaments. Illinois voted 216 to 200 for Stagg's interscholastic. A subsequent poll, conducted by C. W. Whitten, voted it down.

Kentucky led in vote for the meet, 264 to 52, while Ohio cast a vote of 224 to 88 against.

Stagg announced that the University of Chicago would hold a Christmas week interscholastic basketball tournament which will be open by invitation to all high schools within the state of Illinois. Play will start on the evening throughout the week. Thirty-two teams will be invited to compete.

Team trophies consisting of full size silver and gold bronze basketballs will be awarded to the winning and second pdace teams, while individual prizes will be awarded to ten members of the four best teams. In addition to the prizes, the university will prorate a guarantee of $2,000 to the competing teams for expenses.

Stagg Comments on Action.

Mr. Stagg yesterday commented as follows on the decision to abandon the basketball tournament:

"The University of Chicago began its interscholastic basketball tournament in 1917 to cover a field in high athletics which was then rather neglected," said Mr. Stagg. "Our track interscholastic, first held in 1902, had done much to promote interest in that field. When the basketball interscholastic was started, there were comparatively few state tournaments and hardly any states were organized in athletic associations. There was no national organization such as now exists.

"I believe that the tournament has done much to creat interest in basketball and to improve the level of play nationally. It has made a distinct contribution to developments of standards of eligibility and sportmanship through the influence of its regulations on state associations. The interscholastic also has been an important factor in the development of the National Federation of State High School Athletic associations.

"There now seems to be a wide spread feeling among those in charge of secondary schools that each state furnishes sufficient stimulus and organization for the proper conduct of basketball and that a national tournament is therefore unnecessary. The University of Chicago wishes to cooperate in every way with the principals and superintendents of schools and therefore abandons its national interscholastic basketball tournament."

Track Meet Not Affected.

The decision of the University of Chicago committee to abandon the interscholastic basketball tournament does not affect the annual track meet which Coach Stagg first held in 1902. The university will hold its twenty-seventh interscholastic track meet on May 29 and 30 next year.

Chicago will continue the track interscholastic indefinitely Coach Stagg announced last night. The Federation of High School Associations has taken no action against any sport other than basketball. However, if the North Central should adopt the proposed resolution, the track meet also must be abandoned and no university or college would be permitted to hold any competition for high schools not sanctioned by state associations.

Loyola to Continue Meet.

In other years Northwestern university has held track, swimming, and wrestling meets. Chicago also has sponsored a Cook county wrestling tournament.

Loyola university's annual basketball tournament for Catholic high schools probably will be continued. Last spring at the time of the poll of principals relative to Chicago's interscholastic, the Rev. Robert M. Kelley, S. J., president of Loyola, announced that Loyola would continue its meet if the high schools maintained their interest in it.

Estelle Dempsey Posts $1,000 Bail for Stepfather

Morristown, Pa., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Estelle Taylor, film actress, in private life Mrs. Jack Dempsey, came here today and posted $1,000 bail to obtain her stepfather's release from jail. Her stepfather, Harry J. Boylan, 47, of Wilmington, Del., had waived a hearing earlier in the day on a charge of illegal possession and transportation of liquor and was committed to the county jail.

Dr. Serritella Captures City Handball Crown

Dr. William Serritella yesterday won the city handball championship by defeating Jack Brodar, two out of three sets, at the Illinois Athletic club courts. The scores were, 21-16, 15-21, 21-10. Louis Nelson, former champion, captured third place by defeating Dr. John Drammis in straight sets, 21-8, 21-8.

Cochran Wins Block to Tie Match with Hoppe

Welker Cochran last night defeated Willie Hoppe, 300 to 125, at Mussey's Wabash rooms to even up their six block match at 18.2 balkline billiards. Hoppe won the afternoon block, 300 to 30. Cochran's average tonight was 43, and Hoppe's 21. They will play six blocks of 18.1 starting Thursday.

10 Boxing, Wrestling Bouts on J. P. I. Amateur Card

Ten amateur bouts make up the card of boxing and wrestling to be given the physical education department of the Jewish People's institute, 5000 Douglas boulevard, tonight. King Levinsky, Barney Ross, Joey Medill, and Tommy Herman will serve as officials.

Stagg to Address Prep Football Players Today

A. A. Stagg will be the principal speaker at a luncheon today for the Pullman Tech football squad at the 111th street Y. M. C. A. The luncheon is given annually by the Lyons club to the winner of the Pullman Tech-Fenger game.

SMITTY—BACK FIRE

S'MATTER, BOSS? YOU LOOK AS SNAPPY AS A BUSTED RUBBERBAND
WELL, IF I DON'T SOON FIND OUT THE MYSTERY ABOUT MY CAR I'LL GO DIPPY
LAST NIGHT WHEN EVERYTHING WAS QUIET I HEARD A NOISE OUT IN MY GARAGE - AND WHADDAYA THINK! THERE WAS THE SAME ROBBER TRYING TO GET AWAY WITH MY CAR AGAIN!
THIS TIME I WASN'T GOING TO LET HIM GET AWAY, SO I GRABBED MY SHOTGUN AND LET GO WITH BOTH BARRELS - BOOM - BOOM !!
DID YOU GET HIM?
I GOT TWO FLAT TIRES AND A LEAKY RADIATOR!

over backward, knocking two other customers off their perches, who in turn knock over two customers apiece, and so on until a large number of customers find themselves dumped in the most inconvenient attitudes under the fallen benches, with their shins barked, their flasks stove in, and their spectacles and cigars broken.

Read About It Later.

There ensues great excitement up forward. One manager goes tearing around the ring calling upon his deity, the referee, the judges and the members of the press to bear witness to the shocking outrage to his gladiator; a couple of gamblers get into a fight in row B, section 2; the preferred trade drape the sables about the shoulders of their ladies, who are quite bored, explode their plop hats and start picking their way out over the fallen customers in the rear. And these latter, when they have disentangled themselves, hang around the street corners until the morning papers come out to tell them approximately what happened.

Three days later there is a meeting of the prize fight commissioners, attended by both fighters, none the worse for their struggle, their managers and their attorneys at law, to decide what disposition shall be made of the $200,000, the agreed compensation for the fighter who dealt the foul. Under . . . rules this money is to be forfeited, but the fighter himself explains that the punch slipped, his manager dwells upon the athletes exemplary private character, and his attorney, more to the point, declares there is no law authorizing confiscation of private capital and threatens to sue. Thereupon the fighter receives his check and the episode is considered to be closed with expressions of regret from the commissioners.

It's the Custom.

With some minor variations, this has become the standard scenario of the heavyweight prize fight production and yet the customers return to the box offices or to the scalpers' offices to which the tickets have been allotted by the management.

Now, for contrast, there is the Army-Navy football game, which, with its supporting spectacle, is the most picturesque sport event in the U. S. A. I trust that I violate no confidence when I state that the Army and Navy are playing in the Yankee stadium next Saturday for the benefit of the unemployed, and that there are still about 18,000 seats left in denominations of $20, $30 and $50 which the committees would be pleased to dispose of at no advance over the box office figures. I would not wish to tag the Army-Navy game with a suggestion that the show is flopping, because if there is anything more certain to deter the sport trade than a cheap price it is the notion that a production is not doing very well.

Still, considering the character of the show, the general extent of the interest in football, the rarity of the impending occasion, the charitable purpose and the number of socially refined and exclusive millionaires who will be present, there should be no more than a few hundred tickets left at this date and these calling for seats behind stanchions at the rear of the third deck down in the corner of the field.

Why the Discrimination.

I do not understand why the customers discriminate in their odd way. The record of the Navy football team was not very reassuring until Saturday when they licked Penn, but then Jack Sharkey had had his failures before the customers charged the Yankee stadium again last summer to see him foul Max Schmeling. Moreover, the rivalry between the schools is much more vengeful than the spurious grudes which the prize fighters indulge in during the advance sales and the fighting, although subject to certain legal restraints, is likely to be most sincere.

Certainly, the Navy will be playing to win and it seems unlikely that the Army will approach the game as though it were a mere exhibition and not a contest even though Capt. Walter Wells, the West Point publicity officer, has assured the press that such is the frame of mind at his place.

But it is not for me to scold the sport customers for their preferences. They are a gallant and durable body of customers who sit through blizzards and rain and pay their money by millions, so I trust they will always be with us and only wonder why they often save their most generous and spontaneous responses for events which are subject to suspicion.

PHILLIES REMAIN UNDER CONTROL OF OLD REGIME

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 8.—(AP)—The Philadelphia National league baseball club is not for sale, it was announced tonight. Since the death of William F. Baker, president of the club, last week, there has been speculation regarding the future ownership of the Phillies. The management tonight issued the following statement over the signature of Gerry P. Nugent, business manager:

"On behalf of the executors of the estate of William F. Baker and L. C. Ruch, I desire to state that the Philadelphia National league club is not for sale and the affairs of the club will be continued by those long associated with Mr. Baker in the management of the club."

Mr. Ruch is vice president of the club.

OAK PARK, AUSTIN PREP QUINTETS SPLIT TWIN BILL

Oak Park and Austin, athletic rivals for nineteen years, divided a basketball double header at the Villagers' fieldhouse yesterday, the Oak Park heavies winning, 25 to 19, while Lynn led the Austin lights to an 11 to 7 victory.

Capt. Arado featured in the heavies victory with nine points. Capt. Rosenfield of Austin took scoring honors with five baskets and one free throw. Austin took an early lead, but Oak Park tied it at 11 all at the half. Baskets by Graham and Arado put the Villagers ahead in the second half.

Bowen won its fourth consecutive practice double header, the heavies trimming Schurz, 31 to 12, while Weinberg and Gordon, with three baskets each, starred in the lights' 28 to 14 victory. Haarlow and Celmer each contributed five field goals for the heavies.

Harrison scored a double victory over Senn on the former's floor. The heavies won, 18 to 11, and the lights, 26 to 9. Niebow and Davidson were the scoring leaders.

Phillips' heavies took a 19 to 16 battle from Marshall through the work, of Bray and Frazier, but the Marshall lights, beat the home ponies on Rosenthal's last minute basket, 18 to 17.

Hyde Park and Fenger divided a doubleheader, the former's heavies winning, 18 to 9, while the Fenger lights took a 20 to 14 decision.

Englewood's quintets invaded Lake View's courts for a double victory.

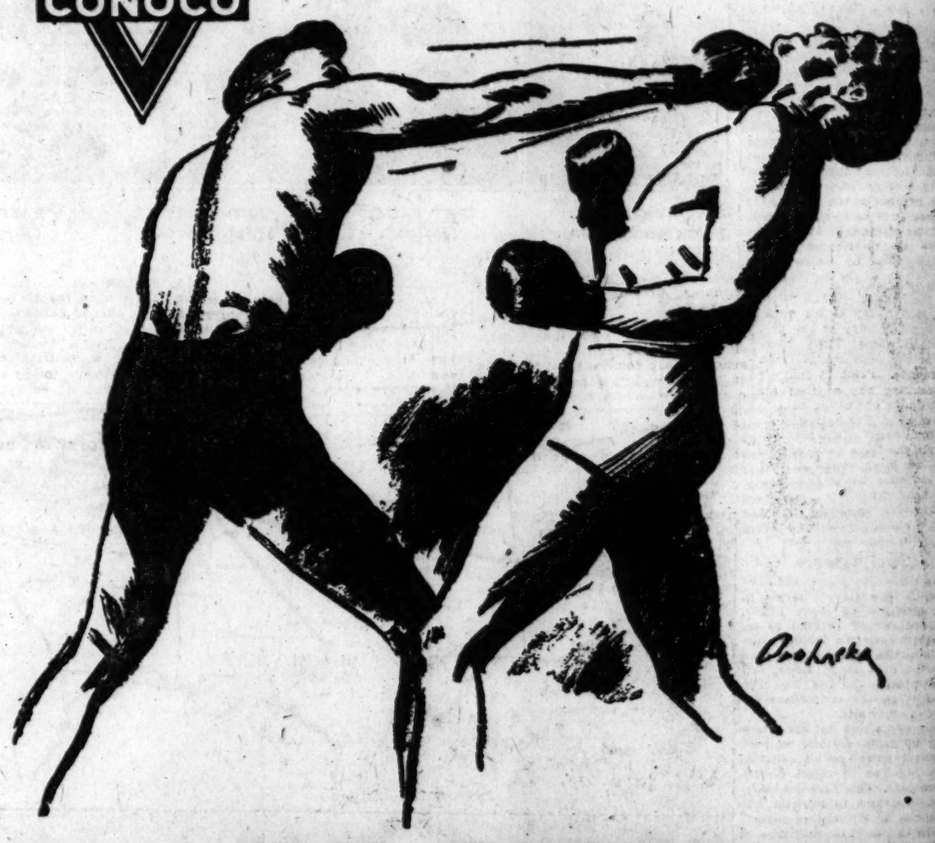
CONOCO



THE PUNISHMENT
They Get in the First Few Minutes
Decides How Long They Will Last

And so it is with your motor . . . 40% to 60% of all motor wear occurs in the first few minutes after starting, because ordinary oils drain away in idle periods. But CONOCO Germ-Processed oil is always on guard duty, never drains away, penetrates metal surfaces, reduces starting wear.

A step on the starter always takes ordinary oils unawares, and it is then that most damage occurs in your motor. By draining away during idle periods, ordinary oils "let down their guard" and let your motor in for severe punishment at a time when protection is vitally needed.

On the other hand, Germ-Processed oil always has its guard up. It's film penetrates and clings to every working part while the motor is idle.

The first motor revolution finds ready lubrication guarding every clearance. The 40% to 60% of wear which might have taken place before you ever shift a gear is substantially reduced.

Thousands of motorists have found that this improved motor oil prolongs motor life and gives better all-round performance. You can find CONOCO Germ-Processed Motor Oil wherever you see the CONOCO Red Triangle.

GRIFFITH POSTS $2,500 FORFEIT FOR TITLE BOUT

Will Fight Schmeling if He Whips Stribling.

Fight Decisions

At Rochester, N. Y.—Johnny Datto, Cleveland, stopped Christy Hart, Rochester [4].

At Philadelphia, Pa.—Benny Bass, Philadelphia, beat Johnny Jadick, Philadelphia [10].

At Pittsburgh, Pa.—Tony Herrera, Chicago, beat Cowboy Eddie Anderson, Wyoming [10].

At Washington, Pa.—Larry Kaufman, Louisville, Ky., beat Tommy Ward, Pittsburgh [8].

At White City—Johnny Freeman, Buffalo, N. Y., beat Mose Basman, Sweden [8].

Jack O'Keefe, the genial west side Irishman who directs Tuffy Griffith's boxing business, posted a $2,500 forfeit yesterday afternoon with the Illinois athletic commissioners as stipulation of willingness to meet Max Schmeling, the world's heavyweight champion, if Griffith defeats Young Stribling Friday night at the Stadium.

"The National Boxing association threatens to vacate Schmeling's title," O'Keefe said, "if Max doesn't abide with the rule which demands he defend his title within six months. There's been a lot of conversation about how Stribling would get the shot at the title after he finishes with Tuffy Friday night. Pa Stribling has posted $5,000 to bind such a match.

Expects Tuffy to Win.

"So yesterday I dropped in to meet the commissioners with my certified check just to remind the public that Griffith hasn't been whipped by Stribling and that we expect to get that title match after Friday's bout has been recorded in favor of Tuffy."

Gen. John V. Clinnin, chairman of the Illinois Athletic commission, yesterday reiterated that Schmeling must defend his title against the winner of Friday's fight. The National Boxing association ranks Stribling the second best heavyweight in the world. However, if Tuffy Griffith can defeat Stribling, and that's something Otto Von Porat and Phil Scott couldn't do, naturally Griffith will be the logical opponent for Herr Max.

Griffith realizes the importance of his bout with Stribling. In recent months he had refused to meet the Georgian and also declined to associate with Von Porat. Undoubtedly he decided to accept Stribling as an opponent, since to hesitate longer would impair irretrievably his standing among the leading heavyweights.

Spars Six Rounds.

Tuffy continued rigid preparation yesterday at the Arcade. While Stribling added a second day to his vacation, having spent Sunday at the professional football game, Tuffy hammered away at two spar mates for a total of six rounds. Prior to that he plunked a punching bag so that his labors probably equaled the ten rounds he will be asked to go Friday night.

Paul Pantaleo was Tuffy's first opponent. During his three rounds with the former Tilden High school student Tuffy gave evidence he intended to use his left hand frequently against Stribling. Moreover, he kept his chin tucked against his shoulder with his right hand protecting. Undoubtedly, Griffith remembers the night when Von Porat led with his chin and went down and out.

In later rounds, particularly against Jackie Williams Tuffy cut loose, boxing with more abandon. He brought over a series of short rights which carried power, but whether they will stop Stribling remains to be seen.

Stribling will resume boxing today at the Randolph street gym with Ed Willis as opponent. Seal Harris, the extra sized colored heavyweight, has been excused for the afternoon. Harris fights George Godfrey tonight in Milwaukee.

Billie Burke and the box office boys announce that all the two and three dollar seats will be sold by Wednesday noon. The advance sale yesterday totaled 3,500. The Stadium officials believe 19,000 will watch the fights. If so, the receipts will aproximate $180,000.

Levinsky Expected Home.

King Levinsky, the fish peddler, who has been vacationing in New York since Tommy Loughran taught him a few boxing steps, is ready to return home. Al Miller, the King's manager, said yesterday. Levinsky has seen all the sights, and told the New York boys how he knocked out Leo Lomski and Tom Kirby, not to mention his disputed decision over Jimmy Slattery.

Chicago's League Leading Ice Teams Face Active Week

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Chicago's two first place hockey teams, the Blackhawks, who are the main men in the National league, and the Shamrocks, who currently are topping the American, tonight will launch a busy week of competition against fellows who have whipped them this season.

The Shamrocks' foes of the evening at the Chicago Stadium will be the Duluth Hornets, who have administered two of the three lickings the Shamrocks have suffered this season. The Blackhawks will be engaged in Detroit against the Falcons, after which they return to Chicago to practice for next Sunday's Stadium game with the Montreal Maroons, their only conquerors in nine games played.

Thursday night the Shamrocks will again play the Minneapolis Millers, the only hockey team that has won a match this season from either Chicago team on Chicago ice.

Both of the Hornet victories over the Shamrocks were 1 to 0 affairs and were the first two games of the Shamrocks' schedule. The two teams will present the following lineups in tonight's game:

SHAMROCKS.		HORNETS.
Timmins	G	Turner
Mulligan	L. D.	Langlois
Taylor	R. D.	Davis
Clayton	C.	Scott
Brydson	L. W.	Green
McFadyen	R. W.	Whyte

Spares: Shamrocks — Karakas, Burland, Headley, Wiseman, Burns, MacKenzie, Fuller. Hornets—Bergi, Mitchell, Leswick, Merrill, Forslund.

The Shamrocks tonight will inaugurate the ladies' night idea, a plan whereby the purchaser of a certain priced seat can take the wife or girl friend and have her sit in a free seat alongside.

The Hawks will go against Detroit without the services of Johnny Gottselig and Art Somers, the latter hurt in Sunday night's game at the Stadium. Stew Adams and Earl Miller, off the ice Sunday with injuries, will be back on tonight, however. There are hopes that Gottselig will be ready to go against the Maroons next Sunday night.

Both clubs now are using the witches' brooms to sweep the ice between periods, much to the delight of the customers who some evenings cheer the racing sweepers more than they do the hockey players. For a time the Hawks thought this was unfair to the hockey players, and tried a non-competitive scraping device. But they couldn't high hat the sweepers out of business. The match-making hasn't been so good. The big blonde feller seems to have too much power for the one with the three day whiskers.

Some of the magnates have been changing their casts. The Philadelphia Quakers have sent Harold Darragh to the Boston Bruins for George Hutton and Peaches Lyons; Leo Bourgeault has been purchased from the New York Rangers by the Ottawa Senators; Billy Beveridge has been loaned to the Pittsburgh Internationals by the Senators, subject to recall; Hap Hamel of the Hamilton Tigers has been purchased by the Toronto Maple Leafs.

Patterson Five to Meet Bruins Tomorrow Night

Patterson, conquerors of the Cleveland Rosenblums Sunday, will meet the Bruins at the Stadium tomorrow night. Patterson is reputed to have the greatest scoring team in the American league this year.

Hey! Put Walpole, N. H., on Map—O'Connor Lives There

Walpole, N. H., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—This little village in the southwestern part of the state and "just over the bridge" from Vermont is taking a day off to sound the praises of a native son, Paul Anthony O'Connor, the village ice man. Paul Anthony O'Connor is no other than Bucky O'Connor, Notre Dame player whose performance in Saturday's game with Southern California is the talk of the football world.

Bucky was born here, went to school here, and during the last few summers he earned money to help pay his way through school by working on the ice carts in this town and in Vermont. He peddled the huge cakes from one end of the village to the other. Everybody learned to know him and hundreds of those who bought ice of the strapping youngster sat around radios Saturday and cheered their hero as he ran all over the distant football field.

He's 25 Years Old.

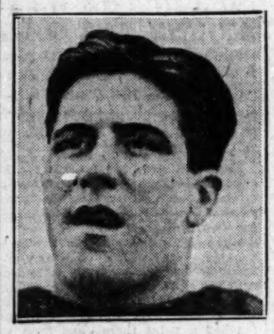
Bucky is 25 years old. His father for many years was a Walpole paper maker, but three years ago went to East Orange, N. J., to make his home with the football star's three sisters. Honora, Katherine, and Margaret, who are school teachers there.

The great flood of three years ago which devastated Vermont and went over into New Hampshire, ruining many towns, swept through Walpole and cost the little family here about all their savings. The elder O'Connor is of the "Old Sod," having come to New Hampshire from Ireland many years ago. Bucky's mother is dead.

Bucky's brother, John, a local salesman, talked to reporters about the football hero. He said:

"Bucky hasn't always been a hero. When he lived here he used to go over into Vermont and play football at Bellows Falls, but they didn't think much of his playing over there in those days. He also played baseball catching and serving in the outfield.

ROCKNE'S ICEMAN



BUCKY O'CONNOR.

He was graduated in 1925 from the Bellows Falls High school, which he attended although he continued to make his home on this side of the river in New Hampshire.

Keeps on Peddling Ice.

After he was graduated from high school, Bucky wasn't sure just where he would continue his studies, but he knew he needed money to do so, and he got a job on the local ice wagon. It was the Rev. John Reynolds who induced Bucky to go to Notre Dame. After his first year there he returned to Walpole and had his summer job back again on the ice wagon. Then he went over to Bellows Falls and got a job with an ice company there.

Bucky has a brother, Dr. W. J. O'Connor, a dentist, at Greenfield, Mass. He hopes to become a surgeon when his football days are over.

Southern Loop Drops Quiz on Tennessee Case

Lexington, Ky., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Dr. W. D. Funkhouser of the University of Kentucky, secretary of the executive committee of the Southern conference, said today a charge against the University of Tennessee regarding alleged violation of conference rules has been referred to the university's authorities for action.

The charge was that the university permitted freshman football practice last September prior to the date agreed upon by the conference.

Dr. Funkhouser said his committee considered the case closed "except for such action as the university itself has indicated it will take," and added:

"If the action of the university is satisfactory to the executive committee the matter will not be brought up at the Southern conference meeting at Chapel Hill, N. C., Dec. 12 and 13."

Dr. Funkhouser said the charge was admitted by Coach Robert Neyland of Tennessee at the conference meeting in Atlanta last September, and Tennessee was ordered to show cause at the December meeting why it should not be suspended. Later the executive committee took the matter in hand.

TENNESSEE TO ACT.

Knoxville, Tenn., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Prof. N. W. Dougherty, athletic director of the University of Tennessee, announced today the university "will take some action within a few days" to clear itself of the charges of practicing freshmen football candidates before the football season opens.

MAT PROMOTER TO ASK TEST OF COUNT SYSTEM

A proposal to adopt the count system in Illinois wrestling will be made today by Promoter Doc Krone at the meeting of the state athletic commission. This method, which has been used in the east, provides that a wrestler who has been hurled through the ropes and off the platform, must get back into the ring before the referee has counted twenty. If he goes through the ropes but remains on the platform he is allowed a count of 10.

The system is designed to speed up a match as many grapplers under the present system stay outside the ring for a breathing spell after being tossed.

Krone hopes to get the new measure put through in time for the match he is presenting next Monday between Jim Londos and Mike Romano at Broadway armory.

Datto Scores a Technical Knockout Over Hart in 4th

Rochester, N. Y., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Johnny Datto, Cleveland featherweight, scored a four round technical knockout over Chirsty Hart of Rochester, here tonight. Hart was unable to answer the bell for the fourth round because of a deep cut in his upper lip.

Toledo Pro Cagers Hand Paterson 33 to 24 Beating

Toledo, O., Dec. 8.—(AP)—The Redman Five of Toledo staged a brilliant drive in the second half to defeat Paterson, 33 to 24, in an American Basketball league game tonight. At the close of the first period Toledo trailed, 12 to 7.

Fans Protest as Freeman Gets Verdict Over Ramm

Johnny Freeman, Buffalo, N. Y., heavyweight, received the decision over Nisse Ramm of Sweden in the eight round final bout at White City last night. The decision was not popular with the fans, who clamored for a draw. In the eight round semi-final Edgar Norman of Norway gained the verdict over Charlie Arthur, Boston heavyweight.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

NOTRE DAME.

NOTRE DAME'S football eleven has long since exhausted the stock of superlative adjectives in our vocabulary. Even so, it surprised us, along with most others, by the ease of its victory over Southern California.

Although Coach Rockne had stated in private before the Northwestern game that this year's team was not "tired" from its long schedule as some other teams had been tired near the end of a season, one could not help feeling that the Purple and Army games and the long trip overland would take something out of the players, and that they would not be at the height of their form.

Instead, they were just that, playing their most brilliant game of the year and using plays not hitherto employed. Except in the back field, Notre Dame of 1930 did not seem superior physically to other Irish elevens. Mentally, in both back field and line, it was the smartest Notre Dame team in history. If you do not think so, name one that was smarter. A leading football authority told us he considered Carideo alone worth two touchdowns per game.

Winner of the Alabama-Washington State game on New Year's day may be entitled to dispute Notre Dame's right to national supremacy on the ground it too has been undefeated. Notre Dame need not engage in controversy. Coach Rockne and his pupils may stand on their record and let the public draw its own conclusions. That record is more eloquent than anything The Wake can say about the team.

Becker Tells How Hunters Can Help Birds

BY BOB BECKER.

In view of the shortage of natural foods for quail, pheasants and other birds which spend the winter with us, hunters in central states can do a fine piece of conservation work if they will stow one or two small sacks of bird food in their hunting coats before starting out on a trip across the fields, meadows and woods.

These sacks should be filled with cracked corn, whole corn, wheat, rolled oats or grain of any kind, and the thoughtful hunter will distribute this food in the course of his hunting expedition. It will mean many a meal to the birds which must face a long winter and hard one, too, because the drought has reduced the natural food of these winter residents.

If about 100,000 of the hunters in the state of Illinois were to take along one or two small sacks of grain every time they went on a hunt this winter the state would have a powerful and valuable conservation unit working to save our game birds. With the Illinois quail season almost over [the season ends tomorrow] the burden of this distribution work naturally falls on the rabbit hunters. The boys who run trap lines all winter to snare weasel, mink, muskrats, etc., also can do their share by taking food in their coats when they run their lines.

When the state of Pennsylvania, a leader in conservation work in the United states with the result that Pennsylvania hunters have more game than any group of hunters in this country, banned smoking in all woodlands in that state, the game commissioners asked hunters to leave their tobacco behind and take sweet clover seeds instead. The idea was the sowing of seed which would grow up and furnish food for many animals the following year.

"By scattering clover seeds," said the commissioners, "over likely places in the open woods the hunter will be providing much needed food for deer, turkeys, grouse, rabbits, and other game. Costing no more than the same amount of tobacco, this should induce even better hunting dreams."

This is a fine stunt. But here in the middle west bird food for the winter is more pressing than sowing seeds to produce food supplies for next year.

RECORD RUNS FAIL TO SHAKE SIOUX CITY BANKS

Two More Reopen in Arkansas.

Sioux City, Ia., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Ten Sioux City banks today paid demands made by depositors, $2,000,000 having been rushed here Sunday. They said they had ample funds to meet any requests which might be made as the result of the closing Saturday of the First National and Sioux National bank.

The Leeds State bank, in the suburb, closed at noon to "await action of depositors" while the Bailey State bank of Correctionville, near here, failed to open. The Leeds bank had deposits of $135,000, while the Bailey State, which was affiliated with the Sioux National, had deposits of $200,000.

2 Reopen in Arkansas.

Little Rock, Ark., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Two banks that were among the 81 closing in Arkansas since Nov. 17, reopened today, but at the same time another that withstood the first series of closures suspended for five days and still another was closed for liquidation.

The Farmers bank at Hardy and the Bank of Harrisburg at Harrisburg reopened.

The Drew County Bank and Trust company at Monticello, suspended for five days to permit the bank to get its affairs in shape for resumption of business. The bank was closed Friday after its vice president and cashier, H. P. Cruce, committed suicide.

The First State bank at Bonanza was closed for liquidation, the state banking department announced.

Hollywood Bank Fails.

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 8.—(AP)—The bank of Hollywood, one of the smaller financial institutions here, closed today. The bank had deposits of between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000.

Indiana Bank Reopens.

English, Ind., Dec. 8.—(AP)—The Crawford County State bank, closed Nov. 21, reopened for business here today.

Centralia Bank Closes.

Centralia, Ill., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—A statement issued this afternoon by C. R. Bowman, executive vice president of the closed Merchants State bank here, said that the depositors of the institution would be paid in full.

Caldwell Firm Fights Back.

Nashville, Tenn., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Motions, asking the dismissal of involuntary bankruptcy proceedings against Caldwell & Co., investment banking house now in receivership, were filed in federal court today by attorneys for the company.

Hold Memorial Services for Dr. W. E. Barton Today

Memorial services will be conducted this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the First Congregational church, Oak Park, for Dr. William E. Barton, who died in New York City Sunday. He was pastor of the church for 25 years, retiring in 1924. The Rev. Albert C. Coe, the present pastor, will officiate at the services, which will be held concurrently with funeral services in the Broadway tabernacle in New York City. Dr. Barton will be buried at Foxboro, Mass.

Decatur, Ill., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—John H. Bricker died tonight, thirty days short of his 103d birthday. Both of his grandmothers lived to be more than 100. He said his formula was: "Eating regular," and he kept a barrel around when whisky sold at 11 cents a gallon.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Complications

"MOTHER" JONES, "JOAN OF ARC" OF LABOR, IS BURIED

Miners' Cemetery Her Resting Place.

Mount Olive, Ill., Dec. 8.—(AP)—The last provision of "Mother" Mary Jones' will has been carried out. She was buried at noon today in a grave directly facing the monument erected to the miners who gave their lives in the Virden riot near here 32 years ago, and whose sacrifices brought about the eight hour day in Illinois mines.

The funeral rites for "Mother" Jones, who devoted nearly 60 of her 100 years to improve labor conditions, were simple, in keeping with her request. The Rev. J. W. R. McGuire, president of St. Viator's college, Kankakee, Ill., long a personal friend of "Mother" Jones, conducted the service at the Church of the Ascension.

Thousands Turned Away.

Thousands were unable to gain admittance to the church, which was jammed to the doors. The services were brought to them by loud speakers.

Representatives from virtually every labor organization in the United States attended the rites.

"She represented all that was finest in womanhood," Father McGuire said. "Armed with only the weapons of a burning mother's love, a flaming tongue, and indomitable spirit, she went forth to convince a cold, money-glutted world of justice, mercy, and love.

Procession Mile Long.

Automobile after automobile bearing floral pieces from nearly every mine local union in the state followed the hearse to the cemetery on the outskirts of the community. Following marched a procession of worshipers, over a mile in length.

At the cemetery, the only place in the world where union miners may be buried without cost, they bowed their heads as the Rev. Father McGuire said the last prayer.

"She was the 'Joan of Arc' of labor. She feared not the guns of soldiers, nor the courts. Jails were not strong enough to hold her. Capitalists feared her and laborers loved her," the Rev. Mr. McGuire said.

Bandits Ignore Guests in Lobby and Rob Hotel

Ignoring six guests in the lobby, three gunmen held up Miss Thelma Nelson, clerk, at the Bryson hotel, 4932 Lake Park avenue, last night and fled with $155. As they were about to depart, Oscar Farquhar, the hotel manager, appeared from another room. Uncertain, but suspecting a holdup, he attempted to tackle the leader. The trio made no effort to shoot or resist, but ran out the door to their automobile and drove away.

CO-EDS RESIGN FROM STAFF OF U. OF C. PHŒNIX

The threatened boycott of the Phoenix, University of Chicago student publication, by women students, gained impetus yesterday when the resignations of two women members of the staff, said to have been submitted several days ago, were revealed.

The are Miss Jeanette [Jackie] Smith, 5520 Cornell avenue, circulation manager, and her assistant, Miss Susan Noble, 8424 Ingleside avenue, both of whom assert the Phoenix "overstepped the bounds of good taste" in recent issues.

Miss Smith said the magazine depends largely on freshmen women to sell the copies on the campus and that the various women's club are urging their pledges to decline the jobs in the future with the hope of hampering sales. Men students appear indifferent to the controversy, with most of them inclined to regard the women objectors as prudish.

CHARLES MARSH, KNOWN FOR HIS NOVELS, IS DEAD

Charles L. Marsh died yesterday at his residence at 947 Oak avenue, Winnetka. He was 76 years old, a native of Burlington, Vt.

Although a business man, Mr. Marsh devoted much of his time to writing both prose and poetry. As an author he won prominence for his novels, among them "Not on the Chart"; "Opening the Oyster," and a "Gentleman Juror." Among his better known philosophical poems is "The Agnostic."

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Hildegard Lind Marsh, a son, William H. Marsh, an art student, and a sister, Mrs. Anna Marsh Torrey, of Burlington.

TWO TAX CASES FROM CHICAGO IN SUPREME COURT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—Appeals were granted by the Supreme court of the United States today in tax cases involving estates of two Chicago women.

One was a case in which executors of the late Mrs. Nettie Fowler McCormick of Chicago appealed from a decision of the lower court, which held that she transferred certain property in contemplation of her death.

The other was a case in which the government appealed from a decision of the lower court favorable to the Northern Trust company as executor of the estate of the late Mrs. Ellen Van Shaick of Chicago. This case involves the question as to whether a trust fund, from which the maker is receiving income during his or her lifetime, is subject to estate taxes.

Millions Are Involved.

If the lower court's decision in the Van Shaick case is upheld it means, according to Solicitor General Thomas D. Thatcher, that the government will be required to refund more than $25,000,000 in taxes to various estates and will lose several millions additional which it is seeking to obtain in pending cases.

Mrs. McCormick died in 1923 at the age of 83, five years after she had executed a trust agreement conveying stock in the McCormick Harvesting Machine company to the United States Trust company of New York as trustee. The income was to be used for charitable purposes during her lifetime and thereafter was to be divided among the executors, Cyrus H. McCormick, Anita McCormick Blaine, and Harold F. McCormick.

U. S. Appeals Case.

The commissioner of internal revenue imposed a tax upon the transfer of the property. The board of tax appeals held that the transfer was not made in contemplation of death. The government carried the case to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals which ruled against the executors.

Mrs. Van Shaick died at 77, in 1923. She had created four trusts, one in February, 1917, by which she conveyed real estate worth $99,615, and provided that she should have income from it until her death, when the net income would go to her children.

The Northern Trust company did not include the value of the property in trust as part of Mrs. Van Shaick's estate. The commissioner of internal revenue, however, said it must be included, and assessed a tax of $34,335. The board of tax appeals ruled against the commissioner.

"PADRE OF RAINS" DIES IN THE WEST AT THE AGE OF 80

San José, Cal., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Father Jerome Sixtus Ricard, known as the "Padre of the Rains," died tonight at the University of Santa Clara infirmary after a long illness. He was 80 years old.

Father Ricard was famous for his advocacy of weather forecasting by means of sun spots. He had been connected with Santa Clara university for nearly sixty years.

When he expounded his theory of weather forecasting friends contributed funds which aided in construction of the university observatory. The principle formulated by Father Ricard was that when a sun spot reached a point three days from the western rim of the sun a storm appeared on the Pacific coast.

He was a member of astronomical societies in France, Belgium, Mexico, and the United States.

EX-JUDGE OLSON FILES PETITION TO RECOUNT VOTE

Harry Olson, Republican nominee for reëlection as chief of justice of the Municipal court, who was defeated in the Nov. 4 elections by John J. Sonsteby, the Democratic candidate, yesterday filed a petition for a recount of the votes in the county court. The petition, drawn by Attorney John F. Tyrrell, alleges that more than 25,000 unqualified voters cast ballots at the polls. Olson was defeated by 16,401 votes.

The petition alleges that votes in 17 Democratic wards were weighed instead of counted. Illegal voting took place in the 1st, 13th, 14th, 21st, 22d, 23d, and 42d wards, according to the petition.

It is further charged that officials at many of the polls authorized outsiders to count the ballots. The size of the ballot and the great number of offices to be filled offered an opportunity for frauds, the petition says.

AUTO INDUSTRY CLEARS DECKS FOR 1931 SALES

Stocks in Dealers' Hands Are Low.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Perhaps no major industry has trimmed sails this year as much as the automobile industry. But by doing so, motor car makers have cleared the decks for better business next year on the basis of low stocks in dealers' hands and a normal replacement demand.

Production of 124,000 cars and trucks in the United States and Canada last month was reported by the National Automobile chamber of commerce at a rate of 146,185 vehicles with an output of 154,585 in October and 226,897 in November, 1929.

The output of motor vehicles for the eleven months this year totaled 3,329,822 units, compared with 5,496,213 for the corresponding period last year. On this basis, total output this year will be around 3,451,000 units, compared with 5,651,000 for 1929, which established the high record. Thus, the decline in production will be about 2,200,000 units, or 40 per cent.

Replacement Demand.

Registration figures indicate that more than 27,000,000 motor vehicles are in use in this country and Canada. Therefore, this year's production would barely meet replacement demands if the average life of cars and trucks were eight years, which is considerably longer than indicated by the experience of the industry heretofore.

The more optimistic feeling in the industry was epitomized yesterday by A. L. Miller, president of the Willys-Overland company.

"A definite upturn in our business is responsible for increased employment in all plants," he said. "It will not be retarded by merchandise handicaps, as dealers' stocks of about 7,000 cars represent an average of only 1-6 per cent cars per dealer, the lowest in ten years. As the result of complete overhauling and revision of manufacturing policies we now have in effect actual permanent overhead savings which will average more than $1,000,000 a month in 1931 without impairing efficiency or effective competitive power."

Ford Opens Plant.

The Ford Motor company yesterday opened a new assembly plant employing 4,000 men and with capacity of 100 cars a day at Edgewater, N. J. And the Motometer Gauge and Equipment company announced plans to begin an expansion program on Jan. 1 at several of its plants.

Some interesting data on our international trade were made public yesterday by the commerce department. Previously the department had announced total figures on exports and imports for October showing a sharp decline from a year ago. The present report deals with trade by geographical divisions and countries.

For example, Russia is shown as an inconsequential customer of the United States, taking goods worth only $4,489,196 and selling commodities worth $1,866,862. Great Britain supplanted Canada as our best customer, buying to the extent of $71,917,691 and selling $17,742,563. Canada bought $49,-100,393 and sold $34,306,026. Germany bought $31,507,442 and sold $17,357,-214, while France bought $23,683,196 and sold $11,672,977.

Comparative Figures.

The comparative figures for October by grand divisions follow:

	Oct., 1930.	Oct., 1929.

Further evidence of the slack demand for commercial credit appears in the Federal Reserve board's weekly statement on the position of the reporting member banks. During the week ended Dec. 3 these banks reduced their commercial loans by $3,000,000 and increased their loans on securities by $8,000,000. They bought $2,400,000 of government obligations but sold $55,000,000 of other securities.

Lawndale National to Pay 80c Extra Dividend

Lawndale National bank yesterday announced an extra dividend of $0 cents in addition to the regular $0 cents quarterly, both payable Jan. 1 to stock of record Dec. 31. Directors have recommended to stockholders increase in capital from $300,000 to $500,000, $25,000 of which will be a stock dividend equivalent to $ 1-3 per cent and the balance sold at par of record pro rata to stockholders.

Loomis Offers Suggestions for Reliet of Railroads

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 8.—Three suggestions to aid the railroads to survive present grave difficulties were offered today by E. E. Loomis, president of the Lehigh Valley Railroad company. They were.

1. Relief from the enormous expense which the carriers are called upon to bear in the elimination of grade crossings.

2. Relief from hard and fast regulatory restrictions and permission to initiate rates to protect their business without jeopardizing other rates.

3. Some fair regulation of competitors, such as those on inland waterways and highways.

Mr. Loomis sketched the present plight of the railroads, but discarded the suggestions that rates be increased to provide necessary revenue. This, he said, would have the effect of diverting more traffic to nonregulated competitors.

No Time for Consolidations.

He spoke at length on consolidation, but held that this is no time to increase unemployment by increasing operating economies through consolidations. He also rejected government ownership, citing the large amount of taxes now paid by the carriers and previous costly experiments in government operation.

"It is unfair for the railroads to be called upon to participate in the expense of constructing new highways over or under railroad lines," he said.

"If it were another railroad desiring to cross, the new line would have to pay the entire expense. Why should not the same rule apply to a new highway? The railroads should also receive some relief from the enormous expense which they are called upon to bear in the elimination of existing grade crossings made necessary because of the extensive use of highways by motor vehicles, many of which are in direct competition with the railroads. Another relief to which the railroads seem entitled is from the constantly growing tax assessments on improvements made for the benefit of the public, including improvements as a result of grade crossing eliminations, etc. If accorded fair relief in these particulars, the money now used for such purposes could be devoted to improvements necessary to insure adequate service.

"Second, to offset traffic losses to other forms of transportation, the railroads should be relieved from the hard and fast rules of regulatory bodies and be permitted to initiate rates to protect their business without jeopardizing other rates.

"Third, it would seem that there should be some fair regulation imposed upon railroad competitors, such as carriers over inland waterways highways, etc., comparable with those imposed upon the railroads under the interstate commerce act. At present, these other forms of transportation enjoy great advantages over the railroads, upon which, after all, the public must continue to depend for the great bulk of their transportation."

Will Appeal Decision.

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 8.—(AP)—President W. W. Atterbury of the Pennsylvania Railroad company, in a formal statement today indicated that the interstate commerce commission decision directing the Pennsylvania interest to divest themselves of Lehigh Valley and Wabash railroad stocks will be appealed to the courts.

"The decision of the interstate commerce commission," the statement said, "was not unexpected, as it follows two prior decisions made in connection with acquistion by other companies of the stock of the Wheeling and Lake Erie and the Western Maryland railway.

"Those two prior decisions were not reviewed by the courts, so that the views upon which the commission proceeded in those cases and upon which it proceeds in the case against the Pennsylvania have never received judicial approval. Since they are believed to be in conflict with rulings of the Supreme court of the United States, and since they involve what seem an untenable construction of the Clayton anti-trust act, proper steps will be taken in due course to secure a judicial review of the present decision."

Pierre S. du Pont today was elected a director of the Pennsylvania railroad. He is chairman of the board of E. I. du Pont de Nemours company and a director of General Motors corporation.

ASSOCIATION OF CREDIT MEN ASSUMES DUTY

The credit men of America are taking upon themselves the added duty of helping business men to make their business successful. This was the idea expressed at the executive session of the business service commission of the National Association of Credit Men meeting at the Palmer house yesterday.

R. G. Echols, Sandusky, O., was chairman of the meeting. Brace Benitt is manager of the central division of the association.

Points to Heavy Mortgage Debt Burden on U. S. Farms

BY SCRUTATOR.

Although the low prices of farm commodities are a natural source of irritation and distress to the agricultural population, the most painful aspects of the whole farm problem center in the land and its financing.

Average land prices are not a great deal higher now than they were twenty years ago, while mortgage indebtedness has nearly tripled. Even making allowances for the increase in the acres being tilled, there is still a tremendous growth in the borrowed money for each unit of soil and a still greater one per farmer.

The annual report of the secretary of agriculture shows that the total estimated farm mortgage debt in the United States now stands near nine and a half billion dollars. This is 22 per cent of the value of all farms and contrasts most unfavorably with the 10 per cent of mortgages on the farms of 1910. If the broad guess that aggregate gross production from farms this year will be under ten billion is correct, more than 6 per cent of it is going to be eaten up in interest charges alone.

The Farmer Who Suffers.

Had farm land prices stayed at the inflated values of 1920 the farmer might very well have carried this load. The evil in the situation is that land that was worth $100 an acre in 1914 and $170 an acre in 1920 is now worth, at best, $115 and has considerable more of a debt burden than it had in 1920.

It is on that ground, rather than on the shift in the prices of commodities, that the farmer has the best argument that government is responsible for his plight. It is the mortgaged farmer who is really suffering. He is trying to pay back the 1920 dollars with those of 1930, and these latter represent in relative prices of some farm produce only 50 cents or less.

Recalls "Hysterical Lending."

The history of some of the joint stock land banks show that much of the lending was as hysterical as anything alse in the inflation. Bankers have pointed out that many rural banks were thrust into trouble through having too much cash on hand. The government raised money, coming in, gave the rural banker a surplus of funds. As one expresses it: "Men who were good and conservative financiers when there were more demands for their own lending funds than were supplies, lost their judgment when their problem became one of finding places to put a surplus of funds."

It is noteworthy that 92 per cent of the bank failures in the last nine years, leaving out 1930, were towns of less than 10,000 population and presumably more allied with agriculture.

High commodity prices made land prices high around ten years ago. Too great supplies of lending capital encouraged the upward tendency. It is too much to expect that government can restore commodity price levels in order to take the curse off the mortgages. It would be easier, cheaper, and more effective to refund all the mortgage loans than permanently to get commodity prices back to a place where borrower-lender relationships would be brought back to the 1910 standard.

New York, Dec. 8.—It was blue Monday by the stock exchange calendar and the bears underwrote the reminder with a further decline of from 1 to 5 points in values. The rails were singled out for particular attacks and another batch of new lows was recorded, but no department entirely escaped damage.

The renewed operations by professionals working for lower prices was accompanied by the usual bear tactics of circulating of a number of unfavorable rumors. One of them was that an important brokerage house was

DIAMOND MATCH REORGANIZATION IS NOW EFFECTIVE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 8.—The recapitalization plan proposed by the Diamond Match company, fears for which had been expressed recently, was declared operative today when the committee announced deposits of stock had substantially exceeded the necessary quota of 97 per cent.

The date of consummation was extended to Jan. 15 from Dec. 15, and a special dividend of $25 a share was declared payable Dec. 29 to stockholders of record Dec. 20.

The plan provides for the exchange of each share of the company's present capital stock for five shares of $25 par 6 per cent cumulative participating preferred stock and four shares of no par common stock. On consummation there will be outstanding 850,000 shares of new preferred stock and 700,000 shares of new no par common.

In addition, an agreement has been made to sell 350,000 shares of new common stock for $13,000,000, or more than $37 per share, and the sum of $4,020,000, as part of the purchase price, has been placed in escrow pending consummation of the plan.

CUBAN-AMERICANS AND DUTCH E. INDIAN TRUST REACH SUGAR ACCORD

AMSTERDAM, Dec. 8.—(AP)—The problem of sugar overproduction in the western world and in the far east was solved today by an agreement between the Cuban-American commission and the Dutch East Indian trust.

After more than a week of negotiation, almost marked by failure yesterday, the opposing groups reached an understanding for limitation of sugar exports for five years and also for the segregation and gradual dispersal of stocks on hand. The agreement still is subject to the approval of the Dutch producers in Java, however.

Hence, with their work completed, the Cubans and Americans went today to Brussels, where will begin a meeting for world restriction.

The point which nearly brought failure yesterday was the suggestion by the western group that a commission be appointed to determine whether an actual increase of consumption in the far east was such as to justify an increase in the annual export quota of Java. The group would have been composed of Cuban-American and Dutch East Indian representatives, with a disinterested third party. The Dutch objected to such a commission, but guaranteed, in the agreement announced today, that the "excess export shall be limited in accordance with the actual increase in consumption demand in Java's natural outlet" (the far east).

Stock Prices Drop Again to Low Levels.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Measured by the extent of the declines and the listlessness of the trading, the market on the Chicago exchange yesterday was but a repetition of last week's performance.

The net losses were lean enough, but in many instances were sufficient to cancel previous low quotations in favor of new minimum prices.

Buyers drove hard bargains with traders who had stock to sell, and the closing quotations show that they had the advantage throughout the day.

Hit Bottom Levels.

Among the stocks which sold below or at previous bottom levels were Gleaner Combine, Missouri-Kansas, Northwest Bancorporation, Manhattan Dearborn, Majestic, and Hormel.

In some cases there was special news which had unfavorable influence. The failure of two banks in Iowa brought selling in Northwest Bancorporation, although the two institutions were in no way affiliated with the firm. The weakness in Gleaner Combine could in part be attributed to adverse dividend rumors which have been circulating for a week or more.

The weakness in the majority of instances, however, was the result of a general unwillingness of the buyer to purchase at the market. The forecast that another increase in unfilled steel orders would be reported tomorrow fell on unsympathetic ears.

Stubborn resistance was displayed by Middle West Utilities throughout the session. The final transaction was made at last week's closing price. Other utility issues gave ground in common with other shares. A fraction was lopped off Cities Service previous closing price and Public Service no par was marked down 3¼ points.

Exchange Properties.

The Associated Gas and Electric company yesterday announced that an exchange of isolated properties of the company and the Middle West Utilities system had been effected to increase efficiency and simplify financing.

Associated Gas announced that through the exchange it had sold to Middle West Utilities system all its interests in the Hydroelectric Development syndicate, the property of which is in New Hampshire, and also certain minority interests in the New Hampshire-Vermont Power company, and the New Hampshire Power company.

The Pennsylvania Electric company, a subsidiary of Associated Gas and Electric company, has acquired the electric systems in various communities in that state from the Penn Central Light and Power company, a subsidiary of National Electric Power company, which is a part of the Middle West Utilities system.

Show Recovery.

Among the investment trust issues Continental Chicago and Chicago corporation touched their previous low prices but each recovered slightly.

Auburn lost two points on transactions involving less than 300 shares. Bendix and Borg Warner each closed at 17¼ or moderately under Saturday's finish.

CUT DIVIDEND RATE OF REAL SILK HOSIERY

Directors of Real Silk Hosiery Mills, Inc., yesterday declared a quarterly dividend of 75 cents on the common stock. This is at the rate of $3, compared to the previous rate of $5.

An extra dividend of $1 a share was declared on the stock of Ætna Casualty Insurance company in addition to the regular quarterly of 40 cents. A similar extra was declared a year ago.

Elisha Walker, chairman of Transamerica corporation, stated that regular quarterly cash dividend due in January is assured, but no extra disbursement either in cash or stock is in prospect.

Hoskins Manufacturing company has declared an extra dividend of 25 cents and the regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents.

Directors of Ludlum Steel company voted to defer the quarterly dividend of $1.62½ on the $6.50 preferred stock due at this time.

Cream of Wheat corporation directors declared an extra dividend of 25 cents and the regular quarterly disbursement of 50 cents. Similar extras were paid in July and January of this year.

Mother Lode Coalition Mines company directors have omitted the semi-annual dividend of 10 cents due at this time.

COTTON ERRATIC AND LOSES EARLY GAIN

Cotton prices were advanced moderately following the issuance of the government crop report, making the total crop returns 14,243,000 bales, or 200,000 bales less than trade expectations and compared with 14,828,000 bales last year. Selling orders from the south found support poor and prices yielded and closed well toward the lowest of the day, with futures in Chicago off 9 to 13 points and other markets off 13 to 17 points. Spots in New York dropped 20 points equal to $1.00 a bale, the price being 10.80c. New Orleans dropped 15 points to 9.95c, with Galveston 10.15c and Houston 10.10c. Liverpool was unchanged to 1 point lower with spot sales 3,000 bales. Mills are expected to take hold on any further break. Prices follow:

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw, quiet again today with refiners showing no very keen interest, evidently awaiting the final outcome of the conferences abroad.

Early advances in raw futures as a result of the reports that the Cuban and Javan interests had arrived at a satisfactory agreement for the stabilization of sugar were followed by reactions, with the market closing net unchanged to 3 points lower. Approximate sales, 40,300 tons. Closing prices follow:

Final Cotton Crop Estimate

A cotton crop of 14,243,000 bales is given by the United States department of agriculture as its final estimate for this year. This is 200,000 bales less than expected. It compares with 14,828 bales in 1929 and 14,478,000 bales in 1928. The yield per acre was 150.8 lbs, against 155.0 lbs last year, and 155.1 lbs as the ten year average. Acreage harvested was 45,218,000 acres; originally planted, 46,191,000 acres, with abandonment, 2.1 per cent. Ginning to Dec. 1 was 12,824,970 bales, against 12,853,166 bales last year, and 12,560,154 bales in 1928. Details by states, with the last three ciphers omitted on production and ginning, follow:

WOOL.

LONDON, Dec. 8.—(AP)—The offerings at the wool sales today amounted to 9,432 bales. It was a fair selection; 8,400 bales were sold. Buyers operated freely among the best scoured merinos and cross breds at firm rates. Greasy merinos were barely steady and Cape of Good Hope and Natal grades were bought in owing to low bids.

Plan Second Cash Dividend for Lake View Depositors

Depositors of the Lake View State bank will receive a second cash dividend early next month, according to an announcement made yesterday by the Chicago Trust company, receiver for the bank. It is understood that the dividend will be between 10 and 15 per cent. The previous distribution made on Nov. 15 amounted to 20 per cent. The Lake View State bank was closed by the state auditor in September and the Chicago Trust company was appointed receiver a few weeks later.

Call Off Merger of Four Large New York Banks

New York, Dec. 8.—(AP)—A contemplated "billion dollar merger" of four large New York banks was called off tonight when representatives of the Manufacturers Trust company, the Public National Bank and Trust company, the Bank of United States, and the International Trust company announced they had been unable to agree upon details and final terms.

PENNEY SALES FOR NOVEMBER DECLINE 22.4%

Gross sales of the J. C. Penney company for November were $18,937,376, against $24,419,630 in a like period a year ago, or a net decrease of 22.4 per cent. Cumulative gross sales for the 11 months of 1930 totaled $169,233,545, compared with $180,101,168 in the same period in 1929. Earl C. Sams, president, said "that current inventories in relation to sales volume are lower than for several years. We are in an excellent position to take advantage of present commodity prices. The cash position of the company is highly satisfactory."

From present indications F. W. Woolworth company should have a good December business, but it does not seem probable that 1930 sales will fully equal the $303,047,172 figure of 1929. At the end of November sales were $11,912,663, or 4.6 per cent behind the same period last year. November showed a $2,082,939 decline, but this was largely due to the fact the month had twenty-four business days, against twenty-five a year ago.

Business Personals

UPPER MICHIGAN AVENUE TO HAVE NEW BOOK SHOP

P. O. News Leases Store at 430 North.

BY AL CHASE.

Upper Michigan avenue is to have its fifth book store. Perhaps it'll be its sixth or seventh if upstairs shops are counted. The Post Office News company has leased the north shop on the first floor of the 430 North Michigan avenue building, the thin skyscraper directly across the boulevard from Tribune Tower, and within a few days will open its eighth book and magazine store. A formal opening, it is stated, will be held about Jan. 1.

According to Paulman & Lawrence, agents for No. 430, the lease by the Post Office News company is for a ten year term and was dated last July. The lessee, it was said, was so busy opening branches in the new Board of Trade building and the Merchandise Mart and elsewhere that its near north side store was held in abeyance. The terms of the latter lease were not disclosed.

Other book stores along the upper avenue are the shop of Frank Rosengren, a few doors north of the new Post Office News branch; the Walden shops in the Michigan Square and Palm Olive buildings and Kroch's, south of the bridge.

Tonight's Lectures.

"How Property Is Subdivided and Sold," will be the subject of a talk which Henry G. Zander Jr., of Henry G. Zander & Co., will give this evening before the course on the fundamentals of real estate offered by the Central College of Commerce of the Y. M. C. A. in coöperation with the Chicago real estate board.

George F. Anderson, attorney, who specializes in real estate practice, will talk on "Contracts" this evening at 8 o'clock before the Real Property institute of the Cook county real estate board. M. M. Oshe will speak the same evening at 7 o'clock on wills.

Hyman S. Flaxman and his wife, Mollie, sold the northeast corner of 71st and Paxton, 92x100, improved with a two story building containing stores, offices and flats, to Meyer Krom. The latter gave in part payment the southeast corner of Lincoln and Wrightwood avenues, 137x96, improved with a store and flat building. E. H. Gerley was the only broker.

Division Directors Named.

The following have been nominated for directors of the property owners' division of the Chicago real estate board: Albert W. Swayne, W. B. Martin, Oscar H. Boenicke, Henry G. Zander, Isaac N. Powell, Benjamin Bills, Henry E. Hedberg, Victor J. Curto and Charles L. Schwerin.

Members of the property owners' division of the realty board automatically become affiliated with the property owners' division of the Illinois Association of Real Estate Boards and the same division of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

Thirty-one cities in Illinois having member boards of the state association are forming property owners divisions, according to Cary E. De Butts, managing director of the property owners' division of the Chicago board.

Top yesterday, 8.85; average, $8.60.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 9,000 cattle, 35,000 hogs, and 11,000 sheep.

Best grades of cattle ruled stronger yesterday, while slight losses were recorded in sales of plainer kinds, in face of the shortage in receipts of all classes of live stock. Hogs sold steady to 15c higher, while best lambs were firm and others weak.

The 20 leading markets received 155,000 cattle, hogs and sheep yesterday, this total showing a decrease of 30,000 head or 18 per cent compared with last Monday, 12 per cent decrease compared with a year ago and 24 per cent decrease compared with two years ago.

The extremely narrow range of hog prices was the feature of the market yesterday. Practically all good grades sold at $8.20@8.30, more bringing $8.25 and $8.30 than any other two prices. The extreme top and general average prices were only 15c apart at $8.40 and $8.25, respectively, showing the narrowest Monday spread of the year.

Less than three months ago the top and average prices were $1.15 apart. Fifty-five per cent of yesterday's 55,000 hogs were billed direct to packers from other points. The available supply on the market dwindled rapidly and only 4,000 remained at the close, with five markets estimating 77,000 for today against 84,800 the previous Tuesday.

January Hogs in Demand.

Demand on the hog futures market yesterday centered on January contracts at 10@15c higher prices. Lightweights for that month at $8.80 were highest on the list and highest for that month's delivery since Oct. 24. January mediums were offered at $8.80 and bid $8.65.

Lightweights for December sold at $8.60 and mediums for the same month brought $8.35. February mediums carried bids of $8.65, while March mediums were bid $9.00. On the "to arrive" market, lightweights for next Tuesday were bid $8.25.

Only 15,000 cattle were unloaded at Chicago yesterday against 27,041 the previous Monday. There was an acute scarcity of well finished classes of cattle, resulting in a scramble for the small showing that was eligible to $12.50 and above. Fancy yearling steers and heifers, mixed, averaging 892@1,091 lbs topped the list at $13.75, equaling last week's peak.

Prime 1,447 lb steers brought $12.50 and 1,529 lb averages were sold at $12.00. Some of the heaviest cattle on the market this year were sold yesterday. One shipment averaged 1,857 lbs at $9.50, while $10.25 was paid for two carloads that averaged 1,710 lbs. Butcher stock ruled stronger. Calves sold steady. Stockers and feeders were unchanged.

Feeding Lambs Advance.

While only best grades of fat lambs showed strength yesterday, stock suitable for feeding met good demand at mostly 25c higher prices, best white face stock going to a top of $7.50, highest in several weeks. Most good grades of slaughter lambs cleared around $8.50, with packers and city butchers paying upwards to $8.75@8.85 for best selections. Aged sheep and yearlings were unchanged.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 9,000 cattle, 35,000 hogs and 11,000 sheep, against 9,625 cattle, 42,825 hogs and 11,378 sheep on the previous Tuesday and 7,899 cattle, 38,223 hogs and 16,318 sheep a year ago.

STABILIZATION PEGS FUTURES OF MAY WHEAT

Old Style Holds at 81c; New at 81½c.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

May wheat was "pegged" at 81c for the old style and 81½c for the new on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday, making the second successive day that stabilization operations by the farm board agencies have held the price at these figures despite all efforts on the part of commission houses and the local element to bring about an advance or decline. News was not a factor in the wheat market during the day. While it was possible to sell any amount of May wheat at the "pegged" prices, brokers said it was almost impossible to secure ¼c more.

The May futures closed unchanged from Saturday and other deliveries were ¼c higher with old December, 77¼c; March, 78¾c; May, 81c to 81¼c, and July, 73½@75¾c.

While there is no assurance that the Stabilization corporation will continue to hold the wheat market at the level that has prevailed the last two business days, the trade have not the slightest doubt but that American prices will be maintained at a big premium over a world's parity as far as the 1930 crop is concerned. Trade in the aggregate was not large.

New Low on July Wheat.

So far there have been no stabilization operations in July wheat, which represents the 1931 crop, and it has advanced and declined of late in accord with the changes in foreign markets and weather conditions. There was local and commission house selling early, which carried the price off 1¼c to 72¼c, a new low for the season. A rally came toward the last, however, in sympathy with corn, and on strength in Winnipeg. The latter gained ⅝@⅞c for the day, with the firmness in old crop months in Chicago having some effect.

Around 236,000,000 bu wheat will be fed to live stock this season, according to an estimate by the department of agriculture, based on returns from 253,000 questionnaires sent to farmers, feed manufacturers and others. This compares with 90,000,000 bu last year. Around 61,000,000 bu wheat was fed to Nov. 1. The report failed to have any effect on the market, although indications are that the carryover at the end of the season will be materially short of the 275,000,000 bu estimated on July 1 this year.

The trade was inclined to feel that the figures were very high, as Murray's recent returns suggested 167,000,000 bu would be fed, against 31,000,000 bu last year.

Unfavorable weather conditions for harvesting the new wheat crop was reported in the province of Victoria and New South Wales, Australia. It is feared heavy rains will damage both the quality and quantity. Liverpool, however, closed ⅞@1¼d lower in the face of the report. A hot wave is claimed in Argentina with some damage probably in the southern sections of that country, while in northwest India rain is needed. A decrease of 4,312,000 bu in the domestic visible supply was somewhat above trade estimates, and brings the total down to 191,241,000 bu, against 182,489,000 bu last year.

Rumor Helps Corn Rally.

Corn was weak on fairly general local and commission house selling with prices declining around 1c from Saturday's finish, the May showing 5⅝c under the high of last week. Buying on resting orders checked the decline and late rumores that the Stabilization corporation was buying cash corn at Minneapolis, combined with reinstating of recently sold out lines, caused a bulge of 1¾@2c from the inside figures with the close at the top with net gains of ¼@⅝c. December finished at 73¼@73⅝c; March, 77¼c to 77@77¼c; May, 79c, and July, 80⅛@80¾c.

As the Stabilization corporation is not interested in any grain other than wheat it is presumed the rumor regarding the purchases of cash corn at Minneapolis was due to confusion with the operations of the Farmers' National Grain corporation—the farmers' cooperative. The latter conducts a general commission house business.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Traders have been selling July wheat freely for several days and the market is said to be oversold, with the price below 75 cents. With the farm board picking up the old and new May and holding the market around the 81c level, there is less disposition to sell it short, and the average trader is afraid to buy it to any extent. There is a little disposition to buy Winnipeg May and sell Chicago, but the pressure on old crop months is light in Chicago, while in Winnipeg the buying support is said to be increasing.

Corn traders who are bullish are buying in a limited way on all sharp declines, as they believe the turning point is near at hand and that the present run of corn will not last long. One of the oldest traders says that sentiment is bullish for a long pull, but for the present the disposition is to accumulate a little corn on all sharp declines. The point was made that in the face of increased receipts last week there was very little accumulation. They figure that unless there is a substantial increase in stocks during the next 30 days there will be light stocks with which to go into the spring months.

EGG FUTURES AT NEW LOW

Egg futures dropped to new record lows on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange yesterday. It was the fifth time in as many trading sessions that new low prices have been established on the exchange. The close was ½c lower. Butter futures opened weak, fluctuated narrowly but closed somewhat firmer, with prices ⅜c higher to ⅝c lower. Statistical news which recorded a poor storage movement in the 10 major cities last week brought in the early bearish news in both commodities, but buying appeared later on better information and prices rallied. Sales: Butter, 115 cars; eggs, 58 cars. Receipts: Butter, 10,818 tubs; eggs, 4,912 cases. Prices follow:

LARD AND HOGS HIGHER

Higher prices for hogs, with receipts well taken, and moderate buying of futures yesterday advanced lard prices 10@15c, from which they reacted and closed 5@10c higher. Trade in all was moderate. Liverpool lard was unchanged except for January, which declined 6d. Exports for the week were 9,840,000 lbs, against 17,990,000 lbs last year. Of hogs, 4,000 were 8,047,000 lbs, against 7,466,000 lbs last year. Hog supplies were smaller than a week and a year ago. Prices follow:
